JAPANESE DRIVE OPENS; BATTLE RAGES IN JEHOL

Troops Pour Into Chinese Province.

BULLETIN

TOKIO, Feb. 21 (Tuesday)—(AP)—Japan's formal notification of its withdrawal from the league, planned in view of the certainty that the league will condemn Japan's policy in Manchuria this week, will be issued some time in March, it was learned today from an official source.

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 21.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The Rengo [Japanese] news agency correspondent here reported today that severe fighting between Japanese and Chinese troops started at 10:30 p. m. yesterday [Monday] at Chaoyang, in the Chinese province of Jehol. The Japanese asserted that the Chinese attacked the Japanese garrison there. Chaoyang is about 60 miles northwest of here just over the Jehol border.

The command of Gen. Yoschimichi Suzuki, comprising veterans of the Shanhaikwan battle early in January, are hastening into Jehol province via the Chinchow-Peipiao railway. Another force is nearing Nanling, southeast of Chaoyang, the occupation of which seemed imminent this morning

The Japanese troops also expected to seize shortly the city of Peipiao, the terminus of one branch of the Peiping-Mukden railroad. Peipiao is a few miles over the boundary.

Report Chinese Retreat.

Japanese reports were that the battle last night began at Chaoyang and that the Chinese retreated northward, leaving many dead. Japanese soldiers immediately set out in pursuit.

The Japanese assert that Chinese troops belonging to Gov. Tang Yulin's 107th brigade had attempted to encircle Chaoyang and to attack the Japanese from the rear. This maneuver, according to the Japanese version, precipitated the conflict.

[A Tokio war office communique said this clash was an isolated affair and was not connected with the major offensive in Jehol province for which the Japanese now are preparing.]

Although the Japanese apparently intend to seize the entire Peipiao railroad, it is doubtful whether this marks the beginning of Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto's real offensive in Jehol. It was indicated that this battle was merely a preliminary step to the Manchurian generalissimo's drive to add Jehol to the Japanese sponsored Manchukuo state.

Japanese Army Rejoices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 21 [Tuesday].—Tens of thousands of officers and men of the army are rejoicing this morning following the decision of the cabinet to withdraw from the league of nations.

"The thing we have looked forward to and which we have shed blood for since the Manchurian incident [Sept. 18, 1931] is finally coming with the government's decision to withdraw from the league," it is declared.

This morning thousands of reserve officers and men are assembling at Yasukuni, the shrine to Japan's war dead in Tokio, to be told to be prepared at a moment's call to defend the nation against the world.

Plan New Foreign Policy.

The government is understood to have decided to alter its foreign policy after withdrawing from the league by making coöperation between China, Japan, and Manchukuo the basis of a far eastern Monroe doctrine.

Relations with other countries, which hitherto have been based on the centralization of the league, will be conducted separately—that is, negotiations with the various countries will be handled according to individual needs.

Stock Market Declines.

Stocks dropped slightly today, excepting munitions; commodity prices and the exchange rate were unaffected.

The foreign office spokesman said today that the mandated islands—the Marshall, Caroline, and Ladrone groups which came to Japan through the treaty of Versailles and the league—will be kept, following the withdrawal from the league, even if Japan must resort to force.

Admiral Mineo Osumi, minister of the navy, instructed the navy to be prepared for any emergency, but warned the public against thinking that this means war. However, if an economic blockade of Japan is ordered by the world powers the navy is prepared to defend the nation to the last man, Osumi declared.

What is worrying Japan is the possibility that the league may resort to

High spots in fourteen years of national prohibition. Page 5

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—No sooner had congress today submitted the repeal of the 14 year old national prohibition amendment to the people by a vote of 289 to 121 than wet states began tumbling over each other to ratify the repealer.

Some states, it was indicated, contemplate calling ratification conventions at once. Others are disposed to wait until it is determined whether congress is to pass legislation prescribing the manner of constituting such conventions and defraying the expense of ratification from a federal appropriation.

Two Governors Act at Once.

Gov. Ely of Massachusetts telephoned Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] that he intends to initiate action in the legislature at Boston this week to provide for a ratifying convention. Gov. Lehman of New York telephoned an inquiry to the New York delegation and was advised that a joint resolution had been introduced in both houses calling a state convention to ratify the repealer.

Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] telegraphed the Missouri legislature advising an immediate call of a convention. Representative W. P. Lambertson [Rep., Kas.] countered with a telegram to the Kansas legislature suggesting adoption of a resolution declaring that no convention would be called by Kansas to pass on the repealer.

The Wyoming legislature already has provided for the election of delegates to a permanent constitutional convention empowered to pass on all amendments to the constitution, including repealers.

From all over the nation came news of action instituted in legislatures toward calling ratification conventions. Among these states were Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Georgia, New Jersey, West Virginia, Arizona, Delaware, and Michigan.

Similar action today or within the week was predicted in Illinois, Iowa and Ohio.

Curtis and Garner Sign.

The prohibition repealer will be signed by Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner tomorrow and sent to the state department, which will transmit it to the several state capitals. It was stated that it would be in the hands of all governors within five days of its receipt by the state department.

The prevailing opinion among senate and house leaders tonight is that there will be no federal legislation for the time being, at least, and the states will be left to their own devices in calling and holding elections for the ratification conventions. There is so much objection to federal legislation on the ground that it would be unconstitutional interference with the ratifying prerogative of the states that it would be difficult to get such a bill through this congress before it expires on March 4.

The prospect is that between 30 and 30 states will ratify within the next few months. Leaders of the anti-prohibition forces are expecting ratification by the required 36 states within two years, unless action should be expedited by federal legislation. Only four state legislatures—Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia, and Kentucky—will not convene for a year or more. The California legislature meets in March and Florida in April.

House Reverses Former Action.

CZARIST GENERAL CHALLENGES A U. S. GENERAL TO A DUEL

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—A letter full of fiery criticism and winding up with a challenge to fight a duel has been forwarded by Lieut. Gen. Konstantin Sakharoff, commander of Admiral Kolchak's White Russian forces that fought bolshevism from 1917 to 1920, to Maj. Gen. William S. Graves, retired, who was commander of the United States Siberian expedition.

Gen. Sakharoff says he was provoked to write the letter by Gen. Graves' book, "America's Siberian Adventure." Gen. Sakharoff accuses Gen. Graves of having represented the bolsheviki as the whole people of Russia and their opponents as "Kolchak's few adherents."

"I am ready to meet you in a duel, leaving you the choice of a country where duels are permitted by law," Gen. Sakharoff wrote.

Letter Amusing to Graves.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Graves, informed of Gen. Sakharoff's letter tonight at his home in Shrewsbury, N. J., said: "It's amusing, but I won't do anything about it. I'll just ignore it."

France's Civil Workers Out In Hour Revolt

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 20.—France today witnessed what would have seemed to the casual observer like the dress rehearsal of a revolution.

True to their threat to punish the "intolerable provocation" of the senate finance committee in recommending that the wages of government employés be reduced to help balance the budget, unionized civil servants treated the country to a one hour strike by way of a last warning.

During this hour, which was timed variously for the different branches of the government and municipal services and for different parts of the country, the men and women dropped their work.

A 60 Minute Revolution.

The damage was slight but symbolically it was a 60 minute revolution, for the civil servants defied the orders of their nominal executive, the third republic, to obey the orders of their own soviets, who are illegally but notoriously affiliated with the communist and Socialist parties.

Naturally, the strike was felt the most in Paris. Here postmen smoked away a quiet hour while business men waited for their mail and angry mobs hammered at the doors of postoffices. School masters let their wards take an extra half hour for luncheon. Telephone operators picked the rush hour for each exchange to shut off all lines. Even the automatic exchanges were closed down through juggling by mechanics. At times police and military authorities in the capital were even cut off from the provinces.

Brokers at the bourse were unable to send or receive telegrams. Street cars, buses and subways were stopped in their tracks, tying up traffic not for an hour but for ten minutes. In the very citadel of government, the various ministries, where all administration is centralized, clerks and messengers refused to lift a hand despite the pleas or threats of the ministers.

Disturbances Are Few.

Naturally the police, army and navy did not participate in the strike. Employés of certain services, such as the health department and the Paris water and electrical works, did not strike but contented themselves with handing written protests to their chiefs.

Though it was a peaceful demonstration generally, there were disturbances here and there when the authorities tried to take action against the strikers or when strikers clashed with impatient citizens.

The department of posts, telegraphs and telephones played the chief rôle. At the main postoffice in Paris striking mail carriers gathered in the court yard and began a meeting of protestation to the proposed pay cut. One of the executives came down, pad and pencil in hand, to take down the names of the ringleaders. He was promptly hustled into a nearby mail truck and locked up in it for half an hour.

Sing the International.

After adopting a resolution declaring the day's strike only a warning and threatening more vigorous measures if pushed to it, the postmen returned to their jobs singing the International.

Among the strikers were employés of the municipal funeral service. Pallbearers observed a fifteen minute strike while the office personnel refused to work for a full hour.

MURRY GUGGENHEIM PAYS $3,449,107 GIFT TAX; BREAKS RECORD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Murry Guggenheim of New York, industrialist and financier, today deposited in the treasury department a check for $3,449,107—the largest gift tax ever paid by an individual in the history of the United States.

In 1917 Guggenheim established two trust funds, one for his son and the other for his daughter, totaling around $20,000,000. The funds were made revokable and therefore came outside the scope of the gift tax.

In 1925, however, he relinquished his power to revoke the trust, and by a decision of the Supreme court two weeks ago was held liable for a gift tax of $3,436,844, which, with interest, came to $3,449,107. Guggenheim himself attended the ceremony of depositing his check in payment.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds' son, now 41 days old, who was prematurely born, is "doing fine." He weighs slightly more than five pounds. He has been transferred from his "hot bed" to a crib at the Pennsylvania hospital. Mrs. Reynolds is expected to remain in the hospital for several days longer.

Hoodlums Fire Into Home of Bankrupt Market Head

Hoodlums in a car early this morning fired six bullets through the front window of the home of Joseph Shapiro, 39 years old, 5115 Ingleside avenue. He, his wife, and two children were aroused. Shapiro told police he recently headed the Community Markets, a chain of twenty-six stores, which went into bankruptcy three months ago.

Cermak Better Is Opinion of His Physicians

BULLETIN

Miami, Fla., Feb. 21 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Mayor Cermak was reported by hospital attendants as resting "as comfortably as could be expected" at 1:30 a. m. today. His temperature was given as 100.6, pulse 92 and respiration 24. His doctors will return about mid-morning, hospital attendants said.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The sentence of 80 years at hard labor imposed by Judge E. C. Collins today upon Giuseppe Zangara for his attempted assassination of President Elect Roosevelt was hailed tonight by Mayor Cermak of Chicago, one of the victims of Zangara's bullets, as a notable achievement tending to curb crimes of violence in this country.

The mayor is still critically ill in the Jackson Memorial hospital with a bullet lodged near his spine. If he gets through the next 24 hours, and no complications have set in, the chances for his recovery will be very favorable, his seven physicians declared.

Report Mayor Improving.

The latest bulletin on Mayor Cermak's condition was given out tonight at 6:15 o'clock. It read as follows:

"Mayor Cermak continues to improve. Pulse, 80; respiration, 24; temperature, 100."

Dr. Frederick Tice, heart and lung specialist, arrived today and joined the six other physicians and surgeons in attendance upon the mayor. Dr. Tice, who is head of the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, has acted for ten years as personal physician and adviser to the mayor.

"After conferring with physicians, looking over the record and upon my own examination, it is my opinion that the mayor is slowly but gradually improving," he said. "While there is some evidence of heart strain, there is nothing to cause anxiety. Physical examination reveals no evidence of pneumonia or infection.

Better than "Fifty-Fifty."

"The partial collapse of one lung must be watched closely, but you will note that I mentioned there is no evidence of pneumonia or infection. I really believe the mayor has improved and his chances of recovery have gone considerably above the fifty-fifty mark."

An intestinal disorder which had been causing the mayor much pain has been almost completely cured, Dr. Walter Wile Hamburger, another Chicago specialist, said. All the other physicians in the case expressed confidence that, barring complications tomorrow, the sixth day since the shooting, the mayor will get well.

The sudden fever last night which sent the mayor's temperature to 100.4 degrees had subsided by this morning when the thermometer reading was again normal. But the slight fever had recurred this evening when the 100 mark again was reached.

One of the reassuring signs about Mayor Cermak's condition is the partial revival of his normally healthy appetite. He ate most of a lunch today which consisted of soup, soft boiled egg, toast, jello, and tea.

"Swift Justice," Mayor Says.

When word of the sentence of Zangara was brought him the mayor voiced a strong approval of the judge's action.

"That is my idea of swift and sure justice," he said. "If there were more sentences of that severity and as speedy retribution for the criminal in more cases there would not be so much crime in America. The Florida

Senate Votes States 300 Millions.

Declines Cabinet Job.

Senator Carter Glass resists appeals from party leaders, and declines Roosevelt's offer of the post of secretary of treasury. Senator Glass is said to believe he is more needed in the senate than in the cabinet. Page 2.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The senate today defeated the half billion dollar La Follette-Costigan federal relief, with its radical support, and, in its stead, passed the Wagner bill to allocate three hundred millions more of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds for state relief and to broaden the corporation's power to make constructive loans.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS.

It was not the defeat of the radical measure, however, or the passage of the substitute sponsored by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], which provided the high spot of the day's debate, but the fiery speech of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] in opposition—not to one measure or the other but to all forms of further federal relief.

Where Will Money Come From?

"Where do senators expect this money to come from?" demanded the Virginia senator.

"It puzzles me to determine how it is going to help any state to levy taxes upon it, impound the money in the federal treasury, then have it doled out by federal minions."

He was deeply ashamed, said the diminutive senator, that his state of Virginia had borrowed relief funds of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"States are coming to Washington like mendicants, hats in hand," he declared. "I have cast my last vote for these temporary expedients of so-called relief."

Denies Its Reconstructing.

"If I could, I would vote tomorrow to abolish the so-called Reconstruction Finance corporation. There has been no reconstruction. It has been a destruction corporation. It has merely postponed the day of reckoning. It is going to prove worse than the disease it was created to cure."

Discussing the danger of making the R. F. C. loaning rate so low that states and municipalities would come to Washington instead of issuing their own securities, Senator Glass revealed that during his recent conference with the President elect Mr. Roosevelt had asked him concerning the possibility of floating a five year federal bond issue at 2½ per cent.

"I did not think it possible," said the senator. "I gave it as my judgment that it would be an exceedingly difficult thing to do because of the fact that every day we are proposing raids here upon the federal treasury. Suggestions are being offered involving the very integrity and honor, as well as the credit, of this nation."

Mortgage Bond Market Wrecked.

"The mortgage bond market already has been wrecked so that no person with funds to invest who is yet outside the lunatic asylum would have so little sense as to invest in mortgage bonds, when the congress and the legislatures and governors are assuming the function of declaring moratoriums on credits."

Caught up in argument by Senator Wagner, Senator Glass again referred to the R. F. C.

"I do not know where we would be without it," said the New York senator.

"I know where we would be," Senator Glass shot back. "We would be on the road to recovery."

Will Plague Congress.

"We have set a precedent that will return to plague congress for the next half century or more," the Virginia senator went on. "Every contemplated raid on the federal treasury has for its excuse now that 'you have loaned hundreds of millions of dollars to railroads, you have loaned other hundreds of millions of dollars to decrepit banks and there is no reason why you should not loan hundreds of millions of dollars to us.' We are rapidly approaching the point where the credit of this nation will be impaired, and we will not have any normal times for a long time to come."

In Senator Glass' hands President Hoover's pet home loan banks became "that abominable system." Houses foreclosed upon, he asserted, are not wiped off the earth, but become the property of others who "exercised a greater degree of thrift than the man who mortgaged his home that he might ride in an automobile.

Receiverships for Roads.

"We talk about railroad receiverships," the senator continued, "as if when a railroad is put in the hands of a receiver it disappears from the face of the earth; as if the receiver does not have to hire engineers and firemen and brakemen and conductors and track-walkers and clerks. The only thing he does not have to do is to pay $150,000 salary to a president.

"The only way we are ever going to get a reorganization of the exaggerated financial setup of these railroads is to put some of them, many of them, in the hands of receivers."

Glass said he was ashamed that Virginia had borrowed $2,700,000 from the "abominable" R. F. C.

"To put people to work," he said, "we have converted every hog path in the state into a hard surfaced boulevard."

Denounces California Aid.

Senator Glass denounced the 65 million dollar R. F. C. loan to build a bridge across San Francisco bay.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], wanted to know whether the present 21 billion dollar national debt could be expanded.

"Maybe so—unless we adopt some of the suggestions made here, like cutting down the gold content of the dollar," said Senator Glass. "If we do what has been suggested here, we'll never sell another United States bond. Such a process has actually begun. In one city on one day people demanded redemption of three million dollars worth of currency that they might store the gold in their boxes."

Wipe Out Pride of State.

"Pride of state?" he said in answer to a question by Senator William E. Borah. "We have wiped out pride of state and community."

The La Follette-Costigan bill, which would have granted 500 million outright to states through the R. F. C. on certification by a specially created federal agency, was defeated by a vote of 44 to 28.

The Wagner substitute bill, which was approved, 54 to 16, allocates an additional 300 millions of R. F. C. funds for relief loans to states without increasing the corporation's bond issuing power. It allocates 15 millions of corporation money for relief of transient unemployed through the setting up of work camps. It permits loans to finance the export and orderly marketing of farm products. And it removes the "self-liquidating" requirement from the construction loan provisions of the present act.

HOOVER NAMES FIVE LAWS HE WANTS PASSED

Thinks They Would Aid Trade Recovery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—President Hoover, in a special message today, called on congress for action on eight subjects of legislation calculated, he said, to promote economic recovery.

Before the expiration of the present session, the president declared, he would be gratified to see the passage of five major bills, to have the St Lawrence treaty ratified, the arms embargo resolution adopted and a study begun looking to the expansion of the home loan banks into a general mortgage discount system.

The bills listed by the President are the bankruptcy bill, the Glass banking bill, a measure to increase the amount of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds for state relief loans, a federal farm lease bill, and the repeal of the publicity clause in the R. F. C. act.

Many of the measures, Mr. Hoover explained, "are so advanced toward completion or understanding as to seem possible of enactment during the present session."

Senate Takes Up One of Them.

Almost coincidentally with the reading of the President's message the senate complied, in part, with one of his requests by taking up the bankruptcy bill. The bill has already passed the house. In its senate form the house provisions relating to railroads and corporations are stricken out, the elimination having been ordered by the senate judiciary committee on the ground that those provisions would make the bill so controversial as to endanger its passage before March 3.

By passing the Wagner relief bill the senate also complied today with the President's suggestion concerning increased R. F. C. funds for state relief. The measure does more, however, than increase such funds.

Of the other measures on which President Hoover demanded action, virtually all have been given up as dead for this session.

Following its senate passage, the Glass bill was pigeonholed in the house banking and currency committee. While the present Democratic leaders rule the house it is considered impossible to repeal that clause of the R. F. C. act making all loans public.

Waterway Doubtful.

An attempt to ratify the St. Lawrence treaty is very doubtful. The arms embargo resolution which the President advocated as a measure to promote peace and prevent "the killing of men in various parts of the world" has a strong group opposed to it.

The President offered the Hyde farm leasing plan as a substitute for the domestic allotment plan originally proposed and later reputedly abandoned by President Elect Roosevelt.

Under the Hyde plan, the government would pay a small rental to farmers for keeping inferior land out of production.

"It seems clear that the domestic allotment plan is wholly unworkable," the President's message stated. "It will do far greater harm than good to agriculture.

"Pending the return of the great commercial countries to the gold standard and the consequent increase in world consumption and thus rise in world prices, it is essential temporarily to reduce farm production so as to remove the back breaking surpluses of agricultural products and thus to raise agricultural income.

For Leasing of Lands.

"The plan proposed by the secretary of agriculture, some time since, for temporary leasing of marginal lands, is the least harmful and the most hopeful of all the plans which have been proposed. It has the merit of direct action in reducing supply to demand and thus unquestionably increasing prices; it would affect all farm products; give equal benefits to all farmers; is free of increased bureaucracy; very much less costly; and could be covered by a manufacturers' excise tax of probably from 1 per cent to 2 per cent upon these commodities.

"It would also largely eliminate the tax and interest problems which the congress is seeking to solve at much greater cost."

In recommending "an inquiry into a possible expansion of the home loan bank system," the President's message suggested "a general mortgage discount system to be owned coöperatively by banks and mortgage companies [with adequate encouragement of the special activities of building and loan associations] and thus to parallel in the field of long time credit the service of the federal reserve system for short time credit."

A PICTURE OF THE FAR EAST WAR

Arrow on the map indicates the immediate zone of military operations in Japan's drive to wrest Jehol province from China. Chinese and Japanese troops are reported to have fought a bitter battle at Chaoyang. Long columns of Japanese troops are moving from Chinchow toward Peipiao and towards Nanling.

direct action. Hisaakira Hijikata, governor of the Bank of Japan, said that withdrawal from the league alone cannot affect finance and industry, but that naturally things will be different if the league resorts to an economic blockade. In that case, he said, Japan must fight for its life.

Reports from Shanhaikwan tell of a terrific explosion nearby yesterday. Inhabitants of the surrounding area, fearing that Chinese and Japanese troops had clashed, are said to be fleeing.

Industrial workers throughout Japan have been contributing part of their earnings to the army since Feb. 1. The first contributions to come in were from the gas workers, who sent in $20,000 for construction of a combat plane. Automobile owners of Osaka have organized a national defense organization, drilling themselves to coöperate with the army for emergency service.

Chinese Hatred Grows.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20.—Whatever may have been the reasons for the delays in launching the Japanese drive against Jehol, the long period of anxiety and uncertainty has served to inflame the anger and hatred of the Chinese people.

As a result of Acting Premier T. V. Soong's inspection tour in Jehol and the appointment of Gen. Chang Tso-Hsian as commander in chief of the province, there are now more than 200,000 exceptionally unified Chinese troops facing the Japanese and Manchukuoans. As matters have neared the crisis, Japanese propaganda has continued further to excite and inflame the Chinese masses. For instance, Japanese dispatches reported Dr. Soong's and Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's journey to Jehol as only "an empty gesture."

Bankers Provide Cash.

Dr. Soong today said that Peiping and Tientsin bankers have subscribed to provide funds for the minimum military requirements for the coming months.

Jehol public bodies, on behalf of the province's 8,000,000 inhabitants, today telegraphed the league of nations that the population of Jehol had never been consulted as to whether they desired to be included in Manchukuo and had not participated in the selection of Regent Pu Yi or the establishment of the Changchun government. Despite the fact that at least half the people of the province are Manchus, the telegram said:

"We have always been proud to be Chinese and insist on remaining so. We will never submit to control by Manchukuo. A Jehol plebiscite would show not one Manchukuo vote."

POLICEMAN AND 2 BANDITS BATTLE; SPECTATOR SHOT

A spectator was slightly wounded last evening when Policeman George O'Brien of the South Chicago station and two robbers fought a pistol battle in a branch office of the Citizens' Loan association at 1625 East 79th street. The bandits escaped without loot.

The man injured is Lucien E. Bond, 41 years old, 10017 Prairie avenue. One of the robbers' bullets inflicted a scalp wound.

O'Brien, who has killed two robbers in the last two years, had been stationed in the office to protect workers and customers. He was concealed in a small room when the armed men entered. He opened fire at the "hands up" command and the robbers retaliated.

On March 10, 1931, O'Brien killed Robert Saunders in an attempted holdup of Doran's hat store at 1661 East 79th street. He killed John Smalley, another robber, in the same store on Nov. 25, 1931.

S. CAROLINA MAN MAY BE NAMED WAR SECRETARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The possibility that Monroe Johnson, commanding officer of the engineer regiment of the Rainbow division during the world war, may be selected as the new secretary of war, developed today. Mr. Johnson has been invited to confer with President Elect Roosevelt and is expected to go to New York this week, possibly tomorrow.

Mr. Johnson lives in Marion, S. C. He has been national executive committeeman for the state of South Carolina since the American Legion was founded. It is reported that he has the unofficial backing of the American Legion for the post.

GLASS REFUSES TREASURY POST IN NEW CABINET

Prefers Senate; Doctor, Too, Adds Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Senator Carter Glass finally has decided to decline President Elect Roosevelt's offer to be secretary of the treasury a post which he occupied during a Wilson administration.

Mr. Glass today resisted the appeals not only from Mr. Roosevelt but from members of his family and the inner circle of his advisers.

Mr. Glass has concluded that he best can serve the interests of the country and the incoming administration by remaining in the senate and opposing all radical currency and other economic attempts.

Glass Has Great Influence.

Senator Glass' learning, ability, experience and position on the banking and currency and other major committees give him exceptional influence among his colleagues. This he has felt from the first can be used more effectively in the senate than in the cabinet. The attempted persuasion of many friends has not changed his opinion.

The senator's family physician at Lynchburg, Va., has been strongly opposed to Mr. Glass' assumption of the treasury post on the ground that its twelve-hour day, twelve months a year, would shorten his life. Every other year or so in the senate he gets a few months' rest at home. But this was not the determining cause of Mr. Glass' declination. He is convinced he is more needed in the senate.

In Doubt on Support.

Part of that conviction arises perhaps from his uncertainty as to the degree to which the incoming administration will support his views on banking and currency questions. It is not believed that, in the three brief conferences Mr. Glass has had with Mr. Roosevelt—the longest was forty-five minutes—the senator received the assurances he required on controversial points of economics.

The prevailing report in the capital today was that Mr. Glass had been persuaded to join the cabinet, and that, before agreeing, he had issued certain "ultimata" to Mr. Roosevelt about the Glass banking bill, now awaiting house action, and other points in a reconstruction program. The gossip was that his "demands" had been agreed to, and that his acceptance of the treasury post was the result.

Whatever may be the truth about his recommendations to Mr. Roosevelt, the report of his acceptance has proved exactly one hundred per cent wrong. While it was circulating Mr. Glass was finally voicing his refusal over the telephone.

The Glass banking bill, which he regards as a paramount item in recovery, hangs fire in the house. If Mr. Roosevelt should back it firmly, it would have better chance to be passed.

PRESIDENT LAYS ARCHIVES BLDG. CORNER STONE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The cornerstone of the great National Archives building, to be erected at Pennsylvania avenue and 7th street to house the valuable records of the government, was laid at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by President Hoover. The President said there was special significance in the ceremony being held within two days of the celebration of the birth of George Washington. The building will house the names and records of every patriot who had borne arms for the country and the "sacred documents" of the nation's history.

TRAYLOR TELLS FINANCE VIEWS TO SENATE BODY

For Balanced Budget and Sound Money.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Neither as a Pollyanna, mouthing prosperity promises, nor as a "gloomy dean," muttering panic predictions, but, rather, as a citizen with "no remedy but a few suggestions," Melvin A. Traylor, president of Chicago's First National bank, sat behind closed doors for two hours today and told the senate finance committee's depression clinic that congress had better get busy and pledge the people two things:

First, that the government would balance its budget.

Second, that there is going to be no interference with our "historic sound money policy."

"Most Important Factors."

"Nothing new in what I said," Mr. Traylor announced when he left the clinic. "It's what, I assume, many who have appeared here, have already said. I have no remedy; no special good luck charm. But I do think these two objectives are the most important factors in recovery. And I think the people of the country want to be assured, definitely and immediately, that congress is going to accomplish those objectives."

Mr. Traylor also told the senators that he found much that was favorable in the resolution, introduced today by Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.], which would give the controller of the currency power to require national banks to conform to any emergency regulations imposed on state banks by state enactment (such as the recent Michigan moratorium).

The same cures which Banker Traylor gave in person, Statistician Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland gave in a telegram, with this difference. Mr. Ayres wants the "operating budget" to be balanced. With this done, he argues, funds for "extraordinary depression relief expenditures" could be secured through the sale of long term bonds.

Urges Middle Class Aid.

"Middle class relief" was the main medicament in the prescription which Julius W. Cone, North Carolina cotton textiles manufacturer, gave the clinic.

Not the farmer nor the unemployed laborer needs relief right now so much as the middle class man, Mr. Cone maintained.

"I mean those men," he explained, "who, a few years ago, paid millions of dollars to the federal government in taxes on their profit, and who find themselves now without business, without jobs, without homes, without resources of any kind. They are, in the last analysis, far more pathetic and helpless than the farmer."

If Uncle Sam keeps on giving free hospitalization to veterans for non-service disability, the expensive policy will encourage other citizens to demand free hospitalization, with still further demands on federal coin. This was the argument of Dr. Lewellys F. Barker of Baltimore, former vice president of the American Medical association and one time veterans' bureau diagnostician.

For "Autocratic Powers."

He thought it would be a good thing to give the President "autocratic powers" to curtail these expenditures and save between 200 and 300 million dollars.

SEEK 14 YEARS' BACK PAYMENTS TO SUPPORT BOY

A petition was filed in the Probate court yesterday in behalf of Howard Sanger, 14 years old, who is seeking to collect money for his support which has accrued during 14 years under a divorce decree entered against his father, Roy Sanger, 5444 Bernard street, a superintendent for a printing company.

The petition was filed by Arthur Peterson, 4038 Mango street, the boy's uncle, with whom he lives. Peterson seeks to be appointed as Howard's guardian. Peterson explained to Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge before whom the action was brought, that the boy's mother divorced Sanger in 1919 and the court ordered Sanger to pay $8 a week for the boy's support. The sum claimed is now $5,444.

Howard's mother, Mrs. Ruth Sanger, made no effort to collect the support money before her death in 1924, and no attempt to collect the money was made by the child's uncle until three weeks ago when he appeared before Superior Judge James J. Kelly and asked that Sanger, who has remarried and is the father of four other children, be cited for contempt of court for failure to pay. Judge Kelly said the action must be brought by a guardian.

FLAT RECEIVER IN JAIL; TENANTS PAY NO RENT

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay discovered yesterday that the tenants in the flat building at 3441 Auburn avenue, which is under foreclosure before him, have had to pay no rent since Oct. 28. On that day Paul P. Baltutis, 3327 South Halsted street, who had been appointed receiver of the property, was sent to the county jail.

On Saturday attorneys for Anthony Brashy, holder of a small mortgage on the building, and for Mrs. Anna Mackus, owner of the flat building, asked the court to appoint a new receiver. They informed the court that Baltutis, who had been made receiver at their request, was in jail on an embezzlement charge.

Baltutis, who appeared in court on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Lindsay, said that he had collected only $34 from the building. He denied that his wife had collected the rents while he was in jail. After hearing his story Judge Lindsay removed him as receiver and issued a contempt citation for failure to file an accounting with the court which Baltutis will have to face if freed on the embezzlement charge.

COUNTY MOVES TO SEIZE GOODS FOR TAX BILLS

Treasurer Sends Warning to Delinquents.

County Treasurer McDonough made his first move yesterday to force collection of delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 real estate taxes. He invoked a seldom used Illinois statute which gives him the power to seize and sell personal property in order to satisfy unpaid real estate taxes.

The treasurer has drafted a letter which will be sent to approximately 100,000 real estate owners warning them that their personal possessions will be seized and sold at a public auction unless the taxes due on their holdings are paid within 10 days after the letters are received.

Yesterday the first twenty of these letters were dispatched to property owners upon whose holding the delinquent 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes, exclusive of accumulated penalties, aggregate $575,000.

Warning to Taxpayers.

The letter, which will accompany an itemized delinquent tax bill for each property, states that County Judge Jarecki has overruled all objections filed against the 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes.

"Inasmuch as these legal objections are now removed," says the letter, it becomes the duty of the county treasurer to levy upon your personal property, sell it at public sale, and apply the proceeds on your delinquent real estate taxes."

The letter then quotes the statute as follows:

"Personal property shall be liable for taxes levied on real property. Taxes on real property may be made out of personal property at any time after the tax becomes due, by any collector having the tax books in his hands, by distraint and sale in the manner provided in this act."

Aims at Tax Strikers.

The property owners to whom the warnings are being sent are largely those who have opposed the payment of taxes in litigation in the county courts. The treasurer said that he would try to collect taxes only from those who, presumably, should be able to pay their taxes.

"When a statute reads as plainly as does the statute authorizing the sale of personal property for delinquent realty taxes, I have no alternative but to proceed to the sale of such property now that legal objections have been removed by Judge Jarecki," said Mr. McDonough.

"I do not propose to deprive any small home owner his hard won possessions, nor do I intend to force modest businesses out of existence. I do, however, intend to force large taxpayers who expect to get a special deal, a special dispensation, because they can afford to hire counsel to fight taxes which are levied at the same rate other taxpayers already have paid, to pay up."

Millions Set Aside for Taxes.

During hearings in the County court attorneys and witnesses have stated that approximately $30,000,000 is held by banks and trust companies in escrow to be used in the payment of taxes. The money was held up by its owners pending the disposition of their cases before County Judge Jarecki. Now, with his blanket judgment wiping the slate clean in his court, and with the vigorous campaign begun by Treasurer McDonough, most of this money is expected to be paid into the public treasury.

In all, approximately $230,000,000 in taxes due for 1928, 1929, and 1930 is unpaid. A recent audit of the treasurer's books showed that $185,000,000 of this sum is in real estate taxes. Not all of this is believed to be collectible, even by the most optimistic of the county officials. If $75,000,000 is collected by the new plan it will be considered highly successful.

The treasurer's attorney, Thomas D. Nash, explained yesterday that the Illinois laws make every tax warrant —or individual tax bill—an automatic execution against the real estate owner's personal property. No court order is needed to allow the treasurer's deputies to seize property.

Have Power to Seize Goods.

If taxpayers refuse to pay, or are unable to pay taxes after receiving the warning letters, the attorney said, deputy sheriffs accompanied by authorized representatives of the treasurer will take possession of any property owned by the taxpayer, be it cash or securities, furniture, merchandise, or machinery. Such property then will be sold at a public auction and the proceeds applied to the delinquent bill.

The state statute, the attorney said, is similar to the federal proceedings in forcing the collection of taxes. One difference, he said, is that the federal power for such procedure is found in the common law, in the implied powers of sovereign government to collect revenue which it has the power to levy.

Goes Back to Colonial Days.

John P. Barnes, assistant solicitor to the federal treasury department here said that the federal use of distraint warrants to collect taxes by seizure of either personal of real property has its roots in the English common law. This procedure has been used in the United States, he said, since the time of the 13 colonies.

"The distraint or restraint order, as it is sometimes called, goes back to the king's justice under which crown officials could confiscate crops and personal belongings in payment of land taxes," he said.

Yesterday $16,248 in 1931 taxes was paid at County Treasurer McDonough's office. Seventy-two payments were made on the first installment of the tax and 32 payments were for the full tax. During the day $153,345 in delinquent taxes was paid.

FRANCE CLAIMS ROOSEVELT WILL DISCUSS ITS DEBT

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—War debt negotiations between France and the United States will be resumed after Franklin D. Roosevelt has been inaugurated President on March 4, Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour said today.

He did not explain what form the negotiations would take, but it was indicated that the approach would be made through the usual diplomatic channels.

[Last December France defaulted on a debt installment of $19,261,432 after the government of Edouard Herriot, a strong advocate of payment, had been overthrown. Paul-Boncour succeeded him as premier only to be overthrown on internal finance measures, making way for Edouard Daladier, the incumbent. On June 15 a debt installment of $10,738,568 will become due the United States.]

ROOSEVELT SEES BRITISH ENVOY; TALK ON DEBTS

Details Are Left to New State Secretary.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Sir Robert Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, today discussed British affairs, including war debts, with President Elect Roosevelt.

Sir Ronald, who has been in London conferring with Prime Minister MacDonald and other high officers of his government, went to Mr. Roosevelt's New York house almost immediately after he landed on American shores this afternoon.

When their conversation ended, after they spent two hours together in Mr. Roosevelt's floor study, Sir Ronald hurried out of the house, brushing past newspaper men in what for him is an unusually brusque fashion.

Mr. Roosevelt read it. It had been prepared in rough pencil notes and in the third person.

Further Parley Awaited.

"The British ambassador has given to Mr. Roosevelt," the statement said, "unofficially the views of the British government touching the broader aspects of the world economic and other situations. The conversation between them was confined to the general aspect of the problems.

"No specific proposals relating to the world economic conference or intergovernment debts were discussed. Resumption of the conversation will take place at an early date. Mr. Roosevelt will ask the new secretary of state, when the choice is announced, to confer unofficially on these same subjects."

Mr. Roosevelt declined to state who the "new secretary of state" will be, or when the appointment will be announced. It is generally conceded that Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee has been offered the post and has accepted it.

Affects World Economics.

Practically it appears that so far as the American end of the pending world economic problems is concerned it will be handled from now on by President Elect Roosevelt, by Senator Hull, by Prof. Raymond Moley and others of the President elect's economic advisers.

The work being done at this time under Mr. Roosevelt's leadership concerns broadly the whole world economic picture, but particular emphasis is being laid upon the meeting he will hold with representatives of the British government, almost immediately after he becomes President on March 4, on the British plea for a revision of her debt to the United States.

Brings British Proposals.

It is generally considered among the Roosevelt advisers that while the President elect in his statement declared his confidence with Lindsay was limited to "general aspects," it actually amounted to a laying down by the ambassador of the position his government first will take in opening the war debts conference on economics and disarmament.

Mr. Roosevelt declined today to comment on dispatches from Washington quoting Senator Carter Glass refusing appointment as secretary of the treasury. The refusal caused some speculation to be made concerning how Mr. Roosevelt will fill that post, which now may go to William H. Woodin, New York capitalist, originally slated for the commerce portfolio.

Pleased by House Action.

The President elect was manifestly gratified over the passage of the resolution putting the repeal of the prohibition amendment up to conventions of the states. He authorized an indirect statement that he was "very happy" that part of the Democratic platform was carried out at the short session of congress. He hopes the same congress will act on the other part of the platform concerning prohibition, which provides for the enactment of legislation granting the right to manufacture and sell real beer.

Mr. Roosevelt was the guest of the Manhattan club at a dinner tonight. Another guest was Alfred E. Smith. The Manhattan club was organized in 1865.

JAMIE APPLIES FOR SECRET SIX INCORPORATION

The Secret Six has been incorporated by Alexander G. Jamie, operating director. The necessary papers were filed yesterday with the county recorder of deeds.

"Just a precaution," said Mr. Jamie. "The official name of the organization is the Citizens' Committee for Suppression and Prevention of Crime. But the popular name, the Secret Six, has been widely advertized and I didn't want any one stepping in to appropriate it."

The organization has had financial difficulties and recently sought unsuccessfully to merge with the long established Chicago Crime commission, headed by Frank J. Loesch, member of the Hoover law enforcement commission.

Mr. Jamie denied any plan to utilize the name of the Secret Six as a private detective agency and declared there was no rift between himself and Robert I. Randolph, who organized the Citizens' Committee for Suppression and Prevention of Crime while president of the Association of Commerce three years ago. He is still chief of the organization.

Gen. Pershing at Tucson; Expects to Remain 30 Days

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing rested in his hotel quarters here today, seeing no visitors pending complete recovery from a cold he contracted recently at Midland, Tex. His condition generally is good. To newspaper men Gen. Pershing sent word that he expected to remain "in this vicinity about thirty days." He came to Tucson yesterday from Fort Huachuca.

GHOST STALKS INTO WIDOW'S BOMBING TRIAL

Veniremen Quizzed on Belief in Spirits.

A ghost is to be the central figure in the trial of Mrs. Ella Hopkins, 50 years old, 4219 Kenmore avenue, and Dr. Lester L. Offner, 5009 Sheridan road, on charges of conspiracy to bomb the filling station of William Lambert, 5745 Higgins road. This was indicated yesterday in the criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch as selection of a jury was begun. Defense Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane questioned prospective jurors about their beliefs and disbeliefs in ghosts.

The bombing occurred on Feb. 7, 1932. Several years ago Mrs. Hopkins' husband, Lafayette, died and left his entire estate to his widow after exacting a deathbed promise that she would never sell their home at 5768 Higgins road.

"If you do," Mrs. Hopkins said he told her, "I'll haunt you and the man who buys it."

Asserts Ghost Fulfills Threat.

Then along came Lambert, who pooh-poohed the thought of ghosts, and convinced Mrs. Hopkins that she should sell the house. The sale was made and Mrs. Hopkins went to Washington, D. C., to visit relatives. There, she said, the ghost of her husband appeared and told her:

"I am very uncomfortable with this man Lambert. I do not like him. The spirit of my father is not so very comfortable either. You had better get that house."

She returned to Chicago, Mrs. Hopkins said, and placed the matter before Lambert, who refused to sell the property back to her, pointing out that the ghosts were paying no rent.

Quoted as Ordering Black Eye.

The state charges that Dr. Offner introduced her to James de Millo, who agreed to slug Lambert to impress the necessity of the sale.

"I just paid him for a black eye," Mrs. Hopkins is said to have told investigators, "and he bombed the place."

Lambert still refused to sell and appealed to the state's attorney for protection. The arrests followed, and De Millo was granted a separate trial.

"Do you object to spirits?" Attorney Burke asked the first venireman questioned.

TEAR GAS WORKS; ELMHURST BANK BANDITS ROUTED

Two gunmen were driven from the York State bank, 529 South York street, Elmhurst, without loot yesterday by tear gas released by officials of the bank. As the bandits entered President Joseph Reilly and Mrs. Mildred Carlsen, the cashier, dropped to the floor and pushed buttons that discharged a dozen tear gas projectors concealed about the bank.

The two men fled in confusion. One of them, apparently almost overcome by the gas, dropped his hat and revolver. He was dragged across the sidewalk by two other bandits, who had been waiting at the curb in an automobile. The buttons that released the gas also sounded a burglar alarm.

Dr. Frank L. Floyd, from his office window at 526 South York street, saw the bandits climb into the car. He fired several rifle shots after the automobile. The bandit car, which had been stolen from Lester Laird, 1120 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was found deserted half an hour after the robbery at 16th avenue and Mannheim road, Westchester.

OWN HANDIWORK MAKES ACCUSED DENTISTS LAUGH

Defend Mail Order Outfit at State Hearing.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

When a former patient of the Chicago Dentists, 1445 Jackson boulevard smiled from the witness stand before the dental committee of the state department of registration and education yesterday, it was to reveal what she called "horse teeth."

Even the dentists accused of association with the Chicago Dentists, false teeth mail order house, ten of whom have been cited by the department, burst into laughter at the smile, and their attorney, Sol Roderick, also smiled for an instant before he managed a frown of disapproval. The dentists face possible revocation of license if "dishonorable and unprofessional" conduct is shown.

The witness, Mrs. Veda Miller, 1647 West North avenue, at first testified minus her false teeth and her speech had a lisping quality.

Tells How She Found Concern.

She said that on Sept. 15, 1932, a Dr. Meyers at 1240 Milwaukee avenue, associated with the New York Dentists, extracted 20 of her teeth and collected $15 as a down payment on a total charge of $49 for upper and lower plates. When she returned a month later for the teeth he was gone and she was advised by a Dr. Wiser to go to the Chicago Dentists at the Jackson boulevard address, she said.

At the Chicago Dentists clinic she said she saw Dr. D. B. Morris, Dr. William G. Niedemeyer and others, and after several trips obtained a set of teeth, in time to appear for a program in which her daughter was to appear at school. But when her daughter saw them she wept, the mother said, telling her they looked like a horse's teeth. When Mrs. Miller went back to the Chicago clinic and protested against the appearance of the teeth, she said she was sent to "the company's downtown office, the New York Dentists, at 120 North State street."

"There a man put a lot of powder in my mouth and took these plates here and socked 'em into my mouth," Mrs. Miller testified, producing from her purse a large set of teeth, upper and lower. "I had to pull and pull before I could get them out of my mouth."

Members of the committee wished to see them in her mouth. Stretching her small mouth, she got them in.

Pounds to Stop Laughter.

"You see, I can't talk wiv 'em," she said, her lips bulging.

The chairman of the committee, Dr. W. R. Williams, pounded on the table for order as laughter drowned out her next words. She removed them.

"I can't eat with 'em, either," she said. "And I've paid all the $49, too. I can't get a fork between the upper and lower. Seems like there's no room for anything but teeth."

Dr. Carl O. Schlosser of the Northwestern University Dental school, testified after examining the teeth in the woman's mouth that the plates were oversize, loose, did not come together properly and would not stay in the mouth. He said they made a "ghastly contrast" with her face.

Medical Society Accuses 8 Members of Low Cost Clinic

Eight members of the Chicago Medical society who are attached to the staff of United Medical service have been charged with unethical conduct for their association with the low cost clinic, it became known yesterday. Four other physicians similarly accused are not now connected with the organization, according to Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, director.

The eight physicians face censure, suspension or expulsion from the society if found guilty of unethical conduct. Their cases are comparable to the action taken against Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, noted surgeon, who was expelled from the Chicago society for his association with the Public Health institute, low cost venereal clinic which advertised its services in newspapers.

Names of Eight Announced.

Named in the medical society action are Drs. Charles H. Wiley, Roy W. Kline, Ernest B. Zeisler, L. J. Goodman, P. R. Caselias, J. Robert Johnson, George W. Funck, and G. L. Wagoner. They are among the staff of 22 physicians and dentists at the United Medical Service's headquarters, 23 East Jackson boulevard. The organization yesterday completed its first month of operation, having treated more than 1,000 patients, according to Dr. Berkowitz.

"We are not surprised at this action," said Dr. Berkowitz, when apprised of the medical society's move. "When these doctors aligned themselves with the service they considered the consequences. Many of them have already been punished through loss of their teaching appointments in medical schools and hospitals.

"In my opinion, the Chicago Medical society is now being controlled by a group of the older reactionaries who, in every public utterance, have opposed all efforts to reduce the cost of medical care and make medical service available to all."

To Be Called Before Council.

The next step in considering the cases of the physicians charged with unethical conduct will be a notification to them to appear before the council of the medical society to defend themselves. This will probably take place within the next two weeks.

The current bulletin of the society disclosed that a resolution has been adopted on motion of Dr. Charles B. Reed, secretary of the public relations committee, finding the United Medical service "an unethical organization under the rules of the American Medical association and the Chicago Medical society." The resolution further states: "Any member of the society 'giving aid to or supporting or abetting said United Medical Service, Inc., or receiving any emolument or compensation therefrom or rendering any service therein or thereto, is guilty of unethical conduct."

A test case on call before Judge E. J. Frankhauser in the county building this morning may affect corporations, such as the United service, which practice medicine. The American Society for the Conservation of Vision, 100 North La Salle street, is charged by the state with practicing medicine as a corporation and quo warranto proceedings testing its rights so to practice are the basis of the hearing.

DRY REPEALER SENT TO STATES BY HOUSE VOTE

Passed, 289-121; Now Up to 36 Conventions.

when the house early this afternoon adopted the senate repeal resolution by a vote of 289 to 121. The affirmative vote was 15 in excess of the requisite two-thirds of those present and voting.

For the repealer were 108 Republicans, 180 Democrats, and 1 Farmer-Laborite. Against it were 89 Republicans and 32 Democrats. The action of the house today was a reversal of its attitude of the first day of the session, when a resolution to submit unqualified repeal failed of adoption by 6 votes.

These Desert Dry Cause.

The following 6 Republicans and 9 Democrats voted against repeal then and in favor of repeal today:

REPUBLICANS—Campbell, Iowa; Hadley of Washington; Hopkins of Missouri; Johnson of Washington; Loofbourow of Utah; Stull of Pennsylvania.

DEMOCRATS—Fuller of Arkansas; Huddleston of Alabama; Miller of Arkansas; Parker of Georgia; Parks of Arkansas; Polk of Ohio; Ragon of Arkansas; Taylor of Colorado; Wingo of Arkansas.

The only difference between the repealer passed today and that which failed in December is that the amendment now submitted to the states provides for federal protection of dry states from the introduction of liquor.

Following Speaker Garner's announcement that the required two-thirds had voted to submit the repealer, two bills were introduced providing for ratification conventions in the several states. Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rad., N. Y.] offered a bill embodying the A. Mitchell Palmer plan, which prescribes in great detail the manner in which the conventions shall be called, constituted, and conducted. The bill authorizes an appropriation of $7,500,000 to defray the expenses of the conventions.

Plan for Holding Conventions.

Representative Hatton W. Sumners [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the judiciary committee, introduced a bill providing a plan for holding the conventions which is likely to be adopted by many of the states, even if congress should decide not to legislate on the subject. The Sumners plan is to constitute the conventions in the manner of the electoral colleges and to select the delegates thereto in the manner of the selection of presidential electors.

The bill provides that the delegates shall be chosen under the election laws of each state applicable to the election of presidential electors, and shall be chosen in all states on the same day or at such other times as congress may designate. The convention in each state shall be composed of as many delegates as the state is entitled to presidential electors. The delegates are to be elected at large.

The delegates elected, the bill provides, shall meet as soon as practicable at the place designated by the legislature for presidential electors to meet. Each convention shall transmit its action on the repealer to the secretary of state.

Sumners Regards Plan Legal.

Mr. Sumners, who regards this plan wholly constitutional, contemplates that the drys would nominate a slate of dry delegates and the wets a slate of wet delegates.

Then the people in each state would vote at large on these slates, electing one or the other as they elect presidential electors. The popular vote would determine whether the convention was to be for or against repeal and the action of the convention in ratifying or rejecting the repealer would be a mere formality, as is the vote of the electoral college in recording the popular vote for President. The expenses of the conventions and elections thereto would be borne by the states.

Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], wet leader, said that much to his regret, he must pronounce any legislation of this character an unconstitutional invasion of the prerogatives of the state affecting ratification of amendments to the constitution.

"Congress cannot go further," he said, "than to prescribe the time limit on ratification and that is an implied power."

Galleries Were Jammed.

The galleries of the house were jammed to the doors long before noon. Numerous senators of the wet persuasion were on the floor watching the proceedings. In one of the galleries was a group of W. C. T. U.s, but the professional drys were for the most part conspicuous for their absence. F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon league, who once was accustomed to direct legislation from the gallery, was not on hand, nor was The Rev. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals.

Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic leader, moved to suspend the rules and adopt the repeal resolution as passed by the senate. Under the rule for such procedure debate was limited to 20 minutes on each side with no amendment in order. Mr. Rainey, as his argument, sought to read a 15 year old speech by Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.], co-author of the eighteenth amendment, who argued that it was the duty of members of congress to vote for the submission of the prohibition amendment. He said he would even if he were a wet.

Mr. Rainey had no sooner mentioned the name of Sheppard than Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], a dry, invoked the rule against mentioning the name of the member of "another body" and was upheld by Speaker Garner. So Rainey proceeded to give the Sheppard speech as his own views.

The drys centered their arguments on the omission of the provision against the restoration of the saloon. Because of this, Representative John E. Nelson [Rep., Me.] said no member would live to see prohibition repealed.

"We hear much about the saloon, but nothing about the speakeasy," retorted Representative William J. Granfield [Dem., Mass.]. Mr. Beck said the 18th amendment would have been abhorrent to the framers of the constitution.

"Back to the constitution of the fathers should be the rallying cry of all Americans. In that direction lies safety. To pursue further the path to complete centralization will be the path to destruction."

House Vote on Repeal Submission

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The vote in the house on submitting repeal of the 18th amendment to the states for ratification was 289 for resubmission and 121 against.

LAWYERS URGE DUAL CONTROL OF DRY REPEAL

Want Congress to Rule on State Conventions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—After study of the difficult constitutional questions as to whether congress or the state legislatures should constitute the conventions in each state, to which the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment is to be submitted, the voluntary committee of lawyers declared today that each convention should be authorized both by the legislature of its state and by congress.

The executive committee of that group of lawyers, made up of Joseph H. Choate Jr., Chauncey B. Garver, Henry A. Johnston, George W. Martin, Hugh Satterlee, Kenneth M. Spence, Harrison Tweed, Clifton P. Williamson and Frederick H. Wood, agrees with former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer that constituting the conventions is a function of congress rather than of the state legislatures.

Finds Divided Views.

The executive committee favored the opinion of A. Mitchell Palmer, one time attorney general under President Wilson, that congress should control the method of calling the state ratifying conventions. When the proposition was submitted to members of the lawyers' organization, two out of three replies favored the views of James M. Beck, another Pennsylvanian, but a Republican, a former solicitor general of the United States, that the power lay with the states to call such conventions.

"The question is therefore doubtful," the committee declares. "It follows—and this we think true, no matter as to what views shall ultimately prevail as to the power of congress—that the thing to do is to have each convention authorized both by the legislature of its state, and by congress. To this end, each state should pass a statute setting up a convention, and congress an act or resolution providing that the conventions so set up should be the conventions to which the amendment should go for ratification.

With the aid of experts on election laws, including Prof. Noel T. Dowling of the legislative research department of Columbia university, the committee has prepared a draft bill embodying its recommendations, and an alternative draft bill for use where the preferred measure cannot be enacted.

For Delegates at Large.

The draft bill provides for a convention consisting entirely of delegates elected from the state at large, like presidential electors. The names of the candidates would appear on the ballots in three columns, headed respectively "for ratification," "against ratification," and "unpledged." Only as many candidates as there are places to be filled would be permitted in each column. In the event that more are nominated, those with the greatest number of names on their nominating petitions would be selected to appear on the ballot.

"Thus the minority cannot win by a division of the majority's votes among an unnecessary number of candidates," the committee says. "The plan makes the nominating petitions into an informal automatic primary, costing nothing."

TEXT OF RESOLUTION PRESENTED TO STATES FOR DRY ERA'S END

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—As passed by congress and in the form in which it goes to the states for ratification, the proposed twenty-first amendment to the constitution, repealing the eighteenth amendment, reads as follows:

"Section 1. The Eighteenth article of amendment to the constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

"Section 2. The transportation or importation into any state, territory or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws thereof is hereby prohibited.

"Section 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by convention in the several states, as provided in the constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the congress."

RIVER GROVE'S CALM RUFFLED BY WISECRACKS

James C. Kyriazopulos, 21 year old clerk of the village of River Grove, announced last night at a village board meeting that if his body was found bullet riddled in a ditch he wanted the police to question Village President Frank Conboy about it.

"About a week ago," the clerk said, "there was a special meeting and Conboy said to me then: 'If you don't do what I tell you you'll have a sad ending.' That's why I say look to Conboy if I am killed."

President Conboy told the assembled crowd of about two hundred that he hadn't meant that he would use physical measures against Kyriazopulos, but that he would "have the law on" the clerk if he didn't quit making slanderous remarks over wisecracks about him and other board members.

Partisans of the two officials were about equally divided and there were mingled cheers and boos for both. The council then considered a proposal that sales of unpasteurized milk in the village be stopped. One of the contributions to this discussion was made by John Kunzrl.

"I am 64 years old and I've been drinking raw milk all my life and it didn't hurt me," he said. "I used to drink it right from a cow's teat."

LAUNCH ILLINOIS DRIVE TO BE FIRST IN DRY REPEAL

Lewis Presses Move for Convention Action.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis started Illinois off last night in a race to be the first state to ratify repeal of the 18th amendment.

Now that congress, by yesterday's vote of 289 to 121 in the house, following the vote of 63 to 23 in the senate last week, has submitted the repealer of national prohibition to the 48 states, Senator Lewis says the road is open for immediate action by the state legislators to set up machinery for ratifying conventions.

As to beer, Senator Lewis predicts this the United States senate will pass a beer bill next week and that the house will adopt it before the end of the lame duck session and before the new administration goes into power.

Bills for the holding of a ratifying convention in Illinois and for the election of delegates to it on the sole issue of repeal or nonrepeal are expected to be introduced at Springfield without delay. The legislature reassembles today. Senate and house leaders who talked with Senator Lewis during the day were advised that the matter of the conventions, which are to act on the repealer, are under the jurisdiction of the states instead of the federal government.

Controversy Over Method.

At Washington there has been some controversy as to whether the federal government should set up the machinery for holding the state conventions. A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in the Wilson régime, holds that congress should prescribe the machinery, rules and regulations, qualifications, and agenda of the ratifying conventions.

Senator Lewis holds with Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, a constitutional authority; Speaker John N. Garner, and others, that the Palmer idea is unconstitutional, and that it is in the province of state legislatures to set up the ratifying conventions.

This is the first time in national history that the convention system of ratifying by the states has been prescribed. The Illinois state constitution is silent on the subject. The only convention it provides for is a state constitutional convention.

To Act on Repeal Only.

State leaders were advised by Senator Lewis yesterday that in enacting measures for holding a ratifying convention, one point to be kept in mind is that the convention must be called to act solely on the proposal of ratifying the prohibition repeal. This stipulation was in the national platforms of both Republican and Democratic parties.

Delegates would be elected on the single issue of wiping prohibition out of the constitution.

As to the mode of election, one suggestion was that the legislative measure might provide for the election of delegates by senatorial districts or by congressional districts.

Another idea advanced was that the election of delegates might be placed on a state-wide scale. This plan proposed the nomination of slates of repeal and anti-repeal candidates for delegates, corresponding in size to the number of presidential electors.

Would Name Delegates.

Under this plan the repealists would select a ticket of delegates and the organized drys would pick a slate. It would then go to a state-wide vote and the entire electorate would choose the delegates by popular state-wide vote, as in a presidential election. The delegates would then meet in convention and record their ballots as is done in the electoral college. Advocates of this system urge that it is the most expeditious and convincing. If delegates were elected in senatorial or congressional districts, it is argued, it would reduce the wet vote, as the present districts are 32 years old and are not turly representative districts.

As to the time of electing, one suggestion is that a special election should be called at the earliest possible time. Another proposal is that in view of the depression and the need for economy, the election of delegates might be combined either with the April municipal elections or with the June judicial elections, which will embrace most of the state.

Lewis Seeks Early Action.

Senator Lewis, who ran as a dripping wet in 1930, when the Democratic landslide rolled him up a plurality of 744,000, said last night:

"I am in hopes that Illinois will be the first to ratify the repeal of national prohibition.

"The beer bill will pass the senate next week, and in my judgment it will pass the house in the final days. It is believed the beer bill amending the Volstead act can be put into effect at once, while awaiting confirmation of the repeal of the 18th amendment."

FOLLOW HORNER PLAN

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Having passed the Ward repealer bills last week, the Illinois state senate now faces the problem of working out the provisions of the regulatory measures that Gov. Horner insists must be assured before the state prohibition laws are wiped off the statute books.

What a headache it is, said the early arrivals for tomorrow's session, this job of providing rules and regulations and such like for a legalized traffic in alcoholic beverages that still are forbidden by the law.

How, asked the first comers tonight, can a state prescribe how manufacture, transportation and dispensing shall be controlled while that manufacture, transportation and dispensing still are outside the law?

The house is scheduled to take up the Ward bills invalidating the state prohibition act and the search and seizure act. With the consent of Representative A. B. Lager [Dem., Carlyle], who introduced similar bills in the lower house and there has brought them up to third reading, the senate measures are to be given the right of way. There is little doubt of their approval by the two-thirds majority required for immediate effectiveness.

What if the house does go ahead and repeal the two anti-liquor statutes without the regulatory measures advanced to the point at which they are certain of passage? What would Gov. Horner do if the two repeal bills were placed on his desk for his signature and the controlling acts which he has insisted should be concomitant are lost in the mazes of committee or floor debate? Would he sign the repealers within the time allowed him by law? Opinion is equally divided. The governor is homeward bound from the bedside of Mayor Cermak.

Woman Loses Purse with $3,700 Jewelry in Movie

Mrs. Carolyn Griffin, 5052 Drexel boulevard, reported to the police last night that her handbag, containing $11 and jewelry valued at $3,700, was stolen from her while she was attending a motion picture show in the Tivoli theater. She laid it in a seat beside her, she said, and missed it after she removed her coat. Two diamond bracelets, a dinner ring, and a pair of opera glasses were among the missing articles. Mrs. Griffin's husband, Bennett, is an insurance broker.

NEW BOARD FINDS WASTE IN STATE TAXING SYSTEM

Urges Consolidation as First Reform Step.

Consolidation of state tax administrative functions under the state tax commission should be the first step in any tax reform program in Illinois.

The three men recently appointed to the tax commission by Gov. Horner announced yesterday they had reached this conclusion as the result of a survey of various state tax systems, made at the governor's behest. Members of the commission are Scott W. Lucas of Havana, chairman; Barnet Hodes, alderman of the Seventh ward, and Simeon Leland, economics professor at the University of Chicago.

Hold State's System Obsolete.

By comparison with states whose systems the commission investigated, the Illinois revenue collecting system is obsolete, wasteful, and inefficient, the commissioners aver. Under the present tax laws their commission, which is supposed to be the chief administrative agency of the state, has been an agency of empty functions, they maintain.

Intending no reflections on the members of previous tax commissions, the new commissioners pointed out that their duties has been limited by law to four functions: assessing railroad property, valuing the capital stock of corporations, supervising the assessment and equalization of the general property tax, and recommending improvements of the revenue system.

Other tax functions have been scattered in almost every state department, they assert. Among the instances they cite are the motor fuel tax, administered by the department of finance; vehicle tax, administered by the secretary of state; corporation franchise tax, by the secretary of state; inheritance tax, by the attorney general, and insurance company taxes, by the department of trade and commerce.

Responsibility Divided.

The departments of agriculture, conservation, labor, registration and education, the athletic commission, and the auditor of public accounts also administer tax functions, they assert.

"The state should decide," says a statement issued by the commission, "who is to be responsible for administration of the entire tax system, and see to it that consolidation of the functions takes place. In this way $500,000 could be saved and several millions of added revenues be obtained by proper execution of the existing laws."

The commissioners are reported planning to draft a bill to present to the legislature for carrying through the consolidation program.

ARREST TWO FOR SELLING STOLEN TAX WARRANTS

Joseph Grossman, 52 years old, 7050 Merrill avenue, and Louis Frank, 42 years old, 2352 East 60th street, were arrested yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property. They were seized in an office at 105 West Madison street by Detectives Frank Freemuth and James Garvey.

The stolen property involved was three $50 tax anticipation warrants of the board of education, which were taken several months ago from the home of Miss Clara Reinhard, 1236 Grace street, by burglars. These warrants were sold yesterday by Grossman to a brokerage firm in the Board of Trade building. After checking the numbers the brokerage firm notified the police.

Grossman says he purchased the warrants in good faith from a man named Madden. The warrants were issued last September and were liens against 1931 educational taxes.

ZANGARA GIVEN 80 YEAR TERM; HE'S 'SATISFIED'

Mayor Cermak's Fate May Be Decided Soon.

authorities and Judge Collins should be congratulated."

Tonight Zangara, cheerful and unconcerned over the sentence which will put him on the rock pile or in a road gang for the rest of his life, awaited transportation to the Florida state penitentiary at Raiford, about 40 miles west of Jacksonville.

He may be brought back later to stand trial on charges of attempting to kill Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Joseph H. Gill. No action has been taken in these two cases pending the outcome of their injuries.

He was sentenced to serve four terms of 20 years each, consecutively, on charges of attempting to kill President Elect Roosevelt, Russell Caldwell, Miss Margaret Kruis, and William Sinnott. The last three have recovered from their wounds. Mr. Roosevelt was unhurt.

The sentence came at the end of a court hearing packed with thrills. After petitions by Zangara's attorneys to postpone judgment had been overruled by the court they offered his plea of guilty to all four informations filed against him and asked that he be allowed to take the stand and explain the reasons which, in his mind, were sufficient to cause him to make the attempt upon the President elect's life. The lawyers said they believed Zangara sane.

Zangara then poured forth, in broken English, his fancied wrongs.

"I'm not sorry it happened," he said. "I'm only sorry I didn't kill him. I'm ready to go to the electric chair now if you want."

When he heard the sentence he laughed and cried out dramatically:

"That's fair! That's right! I'm satisfied!"

Story of Sentencing.

Here is the story of the sentencing: An overflowing crowd—gathered long before the convening of court—is on hand when Judge Collins ascends the bench. Zangara is there, the center of attention for the throng, and especially a swarm of cameramen. Two husky deputies hold him by the arms, and three more stand behind in important dignity.

Attorney Lewis Twyman, leading Miami lawyer, appointed with two other lawyers to represent Zangara, moved to quash count four in the indictments, the count charging that Zangara planned to kill all those whom he had wounded. It is a technical point, which, following counter pleas by County Prosecutor Morehead, Judge Collins denies. Then Twyman, who is fighting as if Zangara were not a would be President killer, begins on another angle.

"We present now a motion for postponement of further action," he says. "Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Gill are in a critical condition from bullets alleged to have been fired by this defendant. It is unfair to have him declare his guilt at this time when more serious charges, such as a first degree murder charge, may be placed against him in the future."

Wants to Plead Guilty.

Attorney Twyman now refers to Zangara, who is 32 years old, as "this poor boy." He finishes his plea. Again County Prosecutor Morehead counters against postponing action. He wins again. Then Twyman announces that Zangara pleads guilty.

"This plea of guilty is first and foremost the wish of the defendant," explains Twyman. "It has been his one and only insistence. He will tell your honor he tried to kill Mr. Roosevelt and that his only regret—a grewsome one—is that he did not kill him. He scoffs at the idea he is insane. We have had him examined. We believe he is sane. But we believe, too, there are certain facts in mitigation."

The defense lawyer then suggests that Judge Collins interrogate Zangara. The jurist replies shortly he has no desire to do so. On Twyman's insistence the court conduct the examination Judge Collins assents, and Zangara steps to the witness box.

"How old are you?" begins the judge.

"Thirty-two," answers Zangara. He is to speak so rapidly, sometimes breaking into Italian, that part of his utterances are unintelligible. He said his mother was dead, that his father was still living in Calabria, Italy; that he had been in America since September, 1928. He gave his occupation as that of a bricklayer, but said he had not been working the last three years, most of which time he has spent in Miami.

First Time in Jail.

"Have you ever been in trouble before?" asks the court. "O, no!" exclaims Zangara emphatically. "This first time I'm in jail."

Q.—Did you ever try to hurt or injure any one before? A.—No, no.

Q.—Did you plan this shooting? A.—It come into my mind when my stomach began to hurt.

Q.—Haven't the American people treated you right? At this question Zangara begins to rant about his troubles, talking so swiftly that only phrases such as "capital and labor" and "the rich and poor" could be distinguished.

Q.—You had a fair chance to make a living, didn't you? A.—Yeah, but I suffer all the time.

Q.—Did any one in this country ever try to harm you? A.—No.

Quizzed About Shooting.

The judge then begins to question the defendant about the actual attempted assassination of Mr. Roosevelt.

"Why did you wait until Mr. Roosevelt got through talking?" he asks.

"There were a lot of people in front of me," Zangara replies, with an apologetic air. "I have no chance."

Q.—Did you know Mr. Cermak? A.—No, I just want to shoot the President. I'm sorry I shoot somebody else.

"I try to make it fifty-fifty. I suffer and I'm poor. I even it up," Zangara added in explanation.

Q.—Do you think Mr. Roosevelt made you suffer? A.—Yes, I think it.

Q.—Don't you enjoy living? A.—No. I sick all the time.

Q.—Don't you want to live? A.—I don't care. I'd just as soon be dead.

Q.—Are you a drinking man? A.—I can't; my stomach's on fire all the time.

Q.—Do you know what you are doing? A.—Certainly. I wanted to kill the President. I never go to school. I start work when I'm 6 years old.

Attorney Twyman interjects to ask Zangara if he had carried a newspaper picture of Roosevelt with him the night of the attempted assassination in order to identify the President elect.

"I Shot to Hit Him."

"I had a picture with me," Zangara replied, "so I know him. I shot straight to hit him. It's not my fault it hit other people. They grabbed my hand. I had no chance to shoot before. But when he was in car he shake hands with a lot of people. I get up on a chair and I shoot."

"Haven't the American people been kind to you over here?" the judge again asks.

"O, no, no, no," exclaims Zangara. "Nobody."

Q.—Do you belong to any church? A.—I don't belong to nothing.

Q.—Are you sorry it happened? A.—I'm sorry I no kill him.

Q.—Aren't you sorry a little bit? A.—No. I go to the electric chair now if you want. You're the judge. You can do what you want.

The defense attorneys again argue, asking for a certain amount of leniency.

Urges Against "Injustice."

"The nation is crying for this man's blood," one says. "We hope that your honor will blind yourself to this tremendous force of public opinion and do no injustice to this man."

Sentence is then pronounced. Zangara stands listening eagerly as the four twenty year sentences are imposed. The judge ends with the remark: "Sentences to run consecutively, not concurrently."

"It's fair, judge; it's right," he cries. "I'm satisfied."

"There may be more later," the judge reminds him and Zangara is hustled out.

YOUNG LUSTER'S "HIGH HAT" NETS 2 BANDITS $145

It cost Orin Luster, 25 years old, $145 to high hat two bandits last night. Luster, son of former Judge Max Luster, was on his way to his home at 444 St. James court, when the robbers drew up to him in a car near his home. Luster pleaded that he wasn't a worthy victim, that he only had a few dollars.

"O, so you're one of those calm and snooty guys," sneered one of the robbers. "Also high hat. What are you wearing your derby so high on your head for?"

Luster's derby was perched unusually high. The bandit looked at it again. Then he knocked the hat off with a sweep of his gun. The derby fell to the sidewalk. A wad of money —$145—also fell. It had been concealed in the hat, giving it a high perch on Luster's head. The robbers picked up the money and fled.

Luster told Policemen James Patterson and James Walsh of the Sheffield avenue station that the money represented dues of members of an orchestra, of which he is a member. He was to pay the money to union headquarters today.

ROB, BOMB, BURN CITY OFFICIAL'S HOME; NO CLEW

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The home of Albert D. Hodson, city collector, was robbed, bombed and destroyed by fire tonight with a loss estimated by fire officials at $10,000. No one was at home at the time.

Neighbors told police they saw a man run from the house shortly after the blast with his clothing afire. They said he leaped into Mill river not far away and police were awaiting low tide to search for a body.

An automobile which had been reported stolen was found not far from the house and in it was clothing belonging to Mrs. Hodson, an empty gunpowder can and some fuse. The house was destroyed by the blast which blew off one side and the ensuing fire which levelled what was left.

INQUIRY BOARD HEARS DEFENSE OF RECEIVER

Ald. Schreiber Explains Rental Case.

Alderman Irving J. Schreiber of the 5th ward yesterday defended his receivership of four Hyde Park hotels before Attorney General Otto Kerner's board of inquiry into receivership practices. He appeared before Assistant Attorneys General George S. Lavin, James G. Skinner, and John W. Brabner-Smith with his counsel, Stat. Senator Roy C. Woods.

At the first session of the board last Friday Mr. Lavin said that information had been received that Schreiber as receiver for the Park Shore hotel had converted two apartments into one for his political sponsor, John Leonard East, Republican ward committeeman. Lavin added he had been told that East had paid no rent for the apartment, though he received pay for coal which his concern supplied to the hotel.

Cleared by Court, He Says.

Attorney Woods declared that these charges had been heard in court and that Schreiber had been cleared by Superior Judge Robert E. Gentsel last July. He asked that Schreiber be given an opportunity to explain the incident because he is a candidate for reelection.

Schreiber said he offered East the two apartments at a rental of $400 a month and that East spent $868 in redecorating the apartment while the hotel spent less than $600. East's lease called for occupancy on June 1, 1932. Because charges were brought in court East did not move into the apartment until last December, Schreiber said.

Tells About Rentals.

"The two apartments above those of Mr. East rented for a total of $410," Schreiber said. "The $400 rental set for him was approved by Newton C. Farr, chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. When he moved in East paid $1,000 on account for rental during the period he did not occupy the apartment and agreed to pay $100 a month until the balance is made up. He has paid his regular rental since occupancy.

"During my term as receiver I have increased occupancy from about 50 per cent to 85 per cent. I am willing to have the records brought here any time."

The board of inquiry expressed itself as satisfied with Schreiber's explanation.

Rob Widow, 80, in Home; Get $25 and Gift Watch

Three gunmen yesterday entered the apartment of Mrs. Mary Wheeler, 3258 West Harrison street, and demanded money. Mrs. Wheeler, who is 80 years old and a widow, told the trio she had only $25. CITY TO RESUME DUMPING; DEFIES SWEEPERS' UNION

Two decisions relating to city affairs were reached yesterday by the committee composed of Corporation Counsel Sexton, City Controller Szymczak, Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], and Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt, which is determining policies in the absence of Mayor Cermak from the city hall.

The executive group announced that the dumping of garbage and refuse would be resumed today in the free dumps, and also in the dump at 6400 West Grand avenue where the city pays 22½ cents a cubic yard for disposing of waste material. The dumping was stopped a few days ago because of a difference between city officials and Michael Carroso, alien head of the street sweepers' union, over the use of laborers furnished by the relief commission.

The executive group also decided to ask the relief commission how many men could be furnished the city for snow removal jobs in the outlying wards, the purpose being to clean all streets throughout the city of snow without expense to the city.

IT'S THE SAME OLD STORY

SICK!

Poor Ida! An old-fashioned girl who resigns herself to suffering regularly. She does not realize—or does not believe—that a tablet of Midol would swiftly end her pain. Midol does abolish such suffering. It keeps a woman perfectly comfortable throughout this period. Sickness becomes just an incident, for Midol blocks all possibility of such pain. Midol is nothing like the ordinary headache tablet, but a remedy that goes straight to the seat of this organic pain. It does not affect the natural and necessary process at all, but the pain is done for within a few minutes of the time Midol is taken! Not a narcotic. All drug stores; ten tasteless tablets in a slim little box; just ask for Midol.

MIDOL

As smooth as an Old Gold

HAVE you ever really tasted a natural-tobacco cigarette? Made solely of pure, sun-ripened, Nature-cured tobaccos . . . with no hot-burning artificial flavorings? Man, what smoothness! A smoothness that makes OLD GOLD utterly different from other brands; a smoothness packed with throat-ease and flavor.

If you haven't tried Nature-flavored OLD GOLDS, made only from the tenderest queen-leaf Turkish and domestic tobaccos, well, sir, your cigarette education has been sadly neglected!

CONGRESS TOLD NAVY IS 20,000 MEN TOO SMALL

Cut Shore Establishments, Admiral Advises.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, today warned the house appropriations committee that in the light of current international conditions, it would be unwise to further reduce the size of the United States fleet. He asserted that the operating forces of the fleet had been cut to the "danger zone," and that no further reductions could be made "without jeopardizing" national security.

The admiral intimated that if additional naval reductions were made they should be directed at the surplus shore establishments.

Backing up his chief, Rear Admiral F. B. Upham, chief of the bureau of navigation, frankly advised the committee that he thought it was entirely "pertinent" to say that from the standpoint of personnel the navy is "far from ready to meet an emergency." He said that the navy was being operated with 20,000 too few men. He warned also that in his opinion the operation of warships with the crews now contemplated would "invite accidents and turret explosions," as well as disaster to ships valued at many millions of dollars.

New Appropriation Bill.

The Pratt-Upham testimony, outlining their views as to the state of the naval establishment, was made public simultaneously with the introduction of the new naval appropriation bill for 1934. This measure carries 308 millions in new appropriations and authorizes the expenditure of $11,000,000 hitherto appropriated, making the total available for naval uses 320 millions for 1934. This figure compares with 317 millions regular and $10,000,000 relief appropriations available for naval uses this current year.

In explaining its refusal to cut the bill below budget estimate the appropriations committee in its report stated that it believed any further trimming of the naval establishment unwise.

"We can ill afford, in the judgment of the committee, to accede to proposals advanced as measures of economy that would lessen the degree of our military preparedness," the committee said.

Refuse to Curtail "Pork."

Representative Burton L. French [Rep., Idaho], minority member of the house appropriations naval subcommittee, today assailed seaboard communities which attempt to maintain unneeded naval establishments in their communities. But despite his outburst and other criticisms aimed at the pork barrel shore establishments, no steps were taken by the committee to curtail the millions annually expended on the navy yards and stations dotting both coasts. These shore stations have expanded to a point where more money is expended ashore than afloat on the navy.

"It is one of the discouraging things that present themselves to members of congress," said Mr. French, "to see communities willing to sacrifice the welfare of the nation, the welfare of the ships, the welfare of national defense, in order to build up local enterprises."

SIXTY VICTIMS IDENTIFY FOUR HELD AS BANDITS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 62; recovered, 64; stripped, 18 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Sunday]. There were no court cases yesterday.

A special showup of four robbery suspects was held last night in the quarters of the stolen automobile detail at the detective bureau. The prisoners, handcuffed to each other, glowered at more than 100 robbery victims, most of them merchants in the northwest side Polish district.

Within two hours sixty of the victims had identified one or more of the four as the bandits who had robbed them.

The prisoners were John Lubawski, 22 years old; Frank Brouk, alias Borden, 38 years old; John Harbut, 23 years old, and Walter Zanova, 18 years old. They were picked up Sunday and yesterday by Sergts. Adam Klonowski and Arthur March of the stolen auto detail. It was because the arresting policemen belong to the auto detail that the showup was staged in the detail quarters.

SUGGESTS THREE RECEIVERS FOR INSULL TRUST

Referee Seeks to End Dispute.

A suggestion that the naming of three co-receivers for the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., might settle the controversy which has embroiled attorneys in the case for many weeks was made yesterday by Garfield Charles, federal referee in bankruptcy.

The suggestion was made at the fifth meeting the creditors of the estate have held since the controversy arose many weeks ago. It was greeted with approval by Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel, who blocked the election of Calvin Fentress as trustee on the ground that he was the nominee of Samuel Insull and his bankers and who is now challenging the election of W. W. Wheelock for the same reason.

Lawyers Make Protest.

It was received with a storm of protest by the half dozen lawyers representing committees who first proposed Mr. Fentress and are now backing Mr. Wheelock. Their present nominee, a former law partner of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter, was once receiver of the Chicago and Alton railroad under Judge Carpenter's jurisdiction.

"I'm just feeling my way in this thing," said the referee. "The interests of the creditors are the main issue in this matter."

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, one of Mr. Wheelock's backers, was on his feet with an objection. It appeared from his line of argument that he construed the referee's suggestion as one involving the retention of Mr. Wheelock, the nomination of one co-receiver by Mr. Ettelson, and the naming of a third by the court. Mr. Ettelson has been advocating an appointment by the court.

"We won't have any dealings with snipers and character assassins," Mr. Jacobson shouted, pounding the table. "Ettelson has come in here day after day throwing mud at everybody in the case."

Seeks to Quash Warrant.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A motion apparently to ask dismissal of an extradition warrant against Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, may be made here next Thursday, J. C. McCruer, Insull's counsel, said today. McCruer said he had made a tentative appointment to appear before Justice A. C. Kingstone. When Insull was arrested here on Jan. 27 on a new warrant charging grand larceny, embezzlement and theft by bailee, McCruer objected to Justice Kingstone accepting Chicago deposition papers in the case until he had an opportunity to examine them.

THREE CHILDREN KILLED BY AUTOS; DRIVERS SEIZED

Kenneth Johnson, 7 years old, 1719 Arthur avenue, died in the Rogers Park hospital last night a few minutes after he had been struck by a truck at Clark and Arthur avenue. Arthur V. Kennett, 30 years old, 1836 Farragut avenue, driver for the Great Northern Laundry company, was held by Rogers Park police. The boy had been playing in a snow bank near the curb.

Dorothy Thornton, colored, 4 years old, 9226 Lafayette avenue, was killed yesterday at State and 91st street, by a hit and run driver who later was captured and held for the inquest today. The driver, Emil Swanson, 47 years old, a carpenter, was traced through the license number.

A third child was fatally hurt last night at Airdrie place and Sheridan road. The victim, Carl Eckerman, 9 years old, 3757 Seminary avenue, suffered a skull fracture and died in the American hospital, where he was taken by the driver of the car, who then disappeared without giving his name.

The deaths of the three children and one other yesterday increased the Cook county toll since Jan. 1 to 103. The other victim:

ENJOIN STEVENS FROM DISPOSING OF HIS ASSETS

Circuit Judge William V. Brothers yesterday granted an injunction restraining James W. Stevens, former chairman of the board of the Illinois Life Insurance company, from transfering his assets. The order was obtained by the Central Republic Trust company, which holds a judgment against Stevens on a note for $206,406.

The plaintiff's petition stated, on information and belief, that Stevens has at least $100,000 in assets, and that in view of the judgment against him he might seek to conceal or transfer them. Stevens is restrained from transfering real estate to any other person, or from taking cash or securities from banks or safety deposit boxes.

Stevens and his sons, Raymond W. and Ernest J., are under indictment in the state courts, charged with a $4,000,000 fraud in connection with the failure of the insurance company, and their activities are being investigated by federal authorities.

THEATER CASHIER HELD UP.

Miss Adele Felt, 1431½ North Central avenue, cashier of the Vogue theater, 3812 Broadway, was robbed of $23 early last night by a robber who posed as a patron.

ORDERS PARISH IN COURT TODAY IN FRAUD CASE

U. S. Finds No Trace of "Exiled" Promoter.

Frank P. Parish, the "boy wizard of finance," who announced a "voluntary exile" in the face of a federal trial on charges of a $35,000,000 mail fraud, was ordered yesterday to appear in court at 10 o'clock today and show cause why his $5,000 bond should not be doubled. Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who entered the order, said that if Parish failed to appear he would entertain a motion to forfeit the bond and issue a fugitive warrant.

The whereabouts of Parish, promoter of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, remained a mystery. Federal authorities throughout the country had found no trace of him and the last word received by his lawyer, Dupuy Warrick, was the announcement of the "voluntary exile" sent from New York on Saturday.

No Passport Issued by U. S.

Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Struett, who was notified on Sunday of Parish's disappearance, learned that no passport had been issued to him. Should he go to Mexico or Canada, Prosecutor Struett said, the 36 year old promoter could be deported to this country because of his failure to have a passport. Extradition proceedings would not be necessary.

Prosecutor Struett obtained the order for Parish's appearance after Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had assigned the case to Judge Barnes. It was originally set before Judge Charles E. Woodward, to begin yesterday, but Parish obtained a change of venue and a continuance to March 6 on representations that Judge Woodward was prejudiced.

Parish and his family have been living at the Webster hotel, but reports that they had reservations to return yesterday were denied by the management.

Wife at Kansas City.

Agents of the United States bureau of investigation at Kansas City, Parish's former headquarters, were sent to his old home, a big stone mansion at 5820 State Line road, in Mission Hills. A 16 cylinder automobile with an Illinois license stood in front of the house and Parish's wife and his private secretary, Miss Lillian Haas, were found within. They said they had arrived on Friday, but denied knowledge of Parish's whereabouts.

Parish's "voluntary exile," a letter to his lawyer explained, was based on his belief that he owes no debt to society, that he has broken neither its legal nor moral code, and that he is being "legally lynched," for which he blamed his financial enemies.

City Observes Washington's 201st Birthday Tomorrow

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Chicago tomorrow will observe the 201st anniversary of the birth of the nation's first President. In comparison with the fêtes of the Washington Bicentennial last year, this observance may seem somewhat subdued, but the sentiment of all the past years will be shining through, undimmed.

All banks and many business houses will close in observance of the legal holiday and there will be a cessation of activity on the floors of the Board of Trade and the Chicago Stock exchange. Schools also will have a holiday and postal service will be confined to one delivery during the day.

School Programs Today.

Patriotic programs and special assemblies are the order of the day today in theschools.

Last night in the State and Lake building, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commandant of the Sixth corps area, spoke on "Washington and Lincoln from a soldier's standpoint," at a meeting under the auspices of Adolf Kraus lodge, Order of B'Nai Brith.

"Washington," said the general, "was engaged in actual warfare from boyhood until the age of 27. He returned to battle at 45 as a national leader. He knew what war was and what preparations should be made for it.

"About 150 years ago Washington told us what we should do in the way of formulating a defense act. Six wars have been fought since, and now we are agreed on what Washington recommended. Illinois soldiers and sailors, in his memory, are to distribute literature to show what the minimum strength of the navy and army should be."

At noon tomorrow Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius of the Great Lakes Naval Training station will be the chief speaker at a luncheon given by the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the Stevens hotel.

In old St. James church, at North Wabash avenue and Huron street, the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, will officiate at a communion service for men and boys at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Judge Johnson to Speak.

Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson, Supt. William J. Bogan of the school system, Probate Judge Harold J. Taylor, and William D. Saltiel, former city attorney, will speak at a dinner dance of the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at the Hotel La Salle tomorrow night.

Five posts of the American Legion will welcome the public to a Washington birthday program at the Gage park fieldhouse at 8 p. m. tomorrow.

At the Georgian hotel in Evanston tomorrow evening Evanston camp of the Spanish American War Veterans will hold a dinner, with William J. Otjen, commander, as the speaker.

Two Given Year Terms for Carrying of Pistols

PERUVIANS LOOT FOE'S LEGATION; MINISTER FLEES

Wine Cellar Ransacked; Furniture Burned.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Pablo Losano Jr., Colombian minister to Peru, declared on his arrival by airplane from Lima today that early Sunday morning a mob of Peruvians broke into the legation, ransacked the wine cellar, drinking what they could find, and caused considerable damage elsewhere in the building.

The minister, accompanied by his wife and daughter, is en route to Bogota, having received orders last week to demand his passport as a result of the conflict between Colombia and Peru over the Leticia border territory.

Crowd Inflamed by Speech.

Lozano said that at 10 p. m. Saturday after the speech by President Luis Sanchez-Cerro a demonstration was organized for what was believed the sole purpose of attacking the legation.

A number of persons stormed the legation situated in a house he owned, the minister said.

"Eight policemen were guarding the entrance," Lozano added. "They were reinforced by 20 cadets of the military school, who weakly resisted the assailants, giving me time only to send my wife to a neighboring house together with my daughter, who had to flee barefooted although she was ill."

The attackers were reinforced by a larger crowd and took possession of the minister's trunks, which were packed in preparation for his departure. They carried them away in trucks, while others looted the decorations and broke the furniture, he asserted.

Rush to Chilean Legation.

"When it seemed that order had been restored, the assailants informed me that my wife and daughter had reached the Chilean legation and I went to join them just as a third group of people arrived," Lozano said.

He told of reports, circulated, he said, with the object of inflaming the crowd, that the Peruvian minister in Bogota, Carrillo, had been insulted and the legation attacked.

The minister and his family arrived with no clothes except what they had on their backs. They had no money and no baggage of any kind. Lozano did not have even a hat.

In addition to his wife and daughter he was accompanied by two Colombian women and Jose Manuel Osorio, the Colombian consul at Callao, Peru, with the consul's family. The minister was the only one of the party provided with a passport or documents of identification. The Colombians were taken to a hotel.

Mrs. Teresa Becerra Handley, who said she was the widow of a citizen of the United States, was one of the Colombian women aboard the plane.

100,000 Parade in Lima.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A throng estimated at 100,000 persons who sang and shouted their enthusiasm participated tonight in a "Leticia parade," the first organized public demonstration here in connection with border hostilities between Colombia and Peru.

After the huge procession had filed slowly through the main streets of the city it arrived in front of the palace, filling the main square. The crowd, with bared heads, sang the national anthem over and over again and shouted "Viva Peru," "Viva Leticia," and other slogans.

President Sanchez-Cerro described the origin of the Leticia conflict and urged every Peruvian citizen to do his duty. He said Leticia was founded by Peruvians and this nation had brought civilization to the district on the upper Amazon. He maintained that a boundary treaty was not feasible, adding that no force on earth could compel residents of Leticia to become Colombians.

Colombian Planes Arrive.

PARA, Brazil, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Dispatches from Sao Paulo de Olivenca tonight reported the arrival at Tarapaca of eighteen Colombian airplanes. The dispatches added that at the time the Colombian gunboat Barranquilla was trying to capture a Peruvian launch, the St. Efita, two Peruvian airplanes attempted to come to the rescue, but were forced to retreat because of the heavy bombardment from the Baranquilla's guns.

WISCONSIN ACTS TO CHECK MILK STRIKE VIOLENCE

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—State and county officials in Wisconsin began today more active steps to end violence in connection with the Milwaukee milk sales strike.

At Waukesha Sheriff Arthur Moran and a number of deputies patrolled the roads and, by tossing tear bombs among them, broke up meetings of pickets waiting to seize trucks and dump milk cans. Five men charged with rioting or with property damage were arrested.

State officials at Madison, while denying that the calling out of the militia was being considered, estimated that 500 additional men had been deputized to keep order.

At Appleton, where thirteen highways were blocked by strikers and strike sympathizers, a number of cheese and milk plants were forcibly entered and milk products were ruined with kerosene. District Attorney Wheeler announced that tomorrow enough deputies would patrol the roads to end disorders.

Most of the small cheese factories were closed in Waupaca, Winnebago, Outagamie, Brown, and Calumet counties.

COIN MACHINES DO THEIR STUFF IN TRADE SHOW

On the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sherman machines are being exhibited that will perform the most uncanny tricks when they are fed the proper coins. The show is being staged by the Coin Machine Manufacturers' association.

For the purposes of the exposition, all the gadgets are demonstrated to the prospective purchasers by utilizing piles of slugs instead of actual pennies, nickels, and quarters. The machines include many amusement devices—mechanical ball games clicking their way from inning to inning, and the newest amusement, miniature shooting galleries, that keep up a bombardment of very light artillery.

The coin machine industry, according to Joseph O. Huber, secretary and treasurer of the association, is one of the few that has recorded a steady increase during the depression. The present exhibition, he pointed out, is the largest in its history, with more than 8,000 buyers registered.

There are machines in the show that will plump a package of cigarets into a customer's hand on receipt of the proper price; those that vend matches, perfume, candy bars, peanuts, and gum. There is even one that hones three razor blades for five cents.

M. P. ASSAILS BEAVERBROOK IN HOUSE DEBATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the London Daily Express, was assailed in the house of commons tonight during the third reading of the Austrian loan guarantee bill which was passed by 227 votes to 51.

James McGovern, Laborite, during the course of the debate alleged that Lord Beaverbrook since the second reading of the bill had "given his orders" and told members that they should have challenged the division. McGovern declared that members, who had since opposed the bill, were praised in the Sunday Express and that these members now were attempting to justify their actions.

B. Bracken, Conservative, denied the suggestion that he was one of Lord Beaverbrook's subsidized members. He said that he had no connection with the peer, that he hoped Lord Beaverbrook had no connection with any foreign influence and further that there was no influence in this country which would have affected his vote. Bracken demanded that McGovern withdraw his statement, to which the latter retorted that there were other members besides Bracken.

Judge J. J. Kelly to Hear City State Bank Trial

Superior Judge James J. Kelly was assigned yesterday to hear charges of receiving deposits while the bank was insolvant against eight officials of the closed City State Bank of Chicago. Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court made the announcement. The defendants and prosecutors then went to the county building, where Judge Kelly continued the case until Friday to await official notification of his assignment as trial judge. The continuance was the 40th in the case since the indictments were returned almost two years ago.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

JOBS FOR 100,000 IS URGED IN NEW RELIEF PROGRAM

Plan Would Aid Idle and Taxpayers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Expansion of the Illinois earned relief program to give a few days' work each month to 100,000 heads of families now getting emergency relief was suggested by Dr. H. M. Bickham, head of this department of the joint relief commission, at the round table conference of the Union League club yesterday.

He proposed a committee of business men, engineers and social workers to guide this work and a central administrative labor office under the state free labor bureau.

This proposal is based on a survey of the results of the earned relief department during the last two and a half years.

County Feeding 750,000.

"We face the most serious crisis of social order and economic stability in the history of this region," he said. "On April 1, 1930, the census showed that of the population of 4,000,000 for Cook county, two million were gainfully occupied. On Feb. 1, 1933, a fair estimate is that one million of these two million are without personal and family support. At least 400,000 families are seriously affected.

"State, county, and federal governments last year spent $45,560,024 in Illinois, 90 per cent of which was spent in Cook county. The relief needs of the current year in the county are projected at $80,000,000. It is well recognized that a long period of relief saps morale and the working spirit and develops habits of enervating dependency. How can we provide relief and reduce these tendencies and how can we reduce the drain on the community?

"During the last two and a half years we have developed what is called the earned relief program. It has faced considerable opposition and will no doubt face more, but the community is rallying around it.

Issue 100,000 "Work Turns."

"Approximately 100,000 work turns have been issued. That is, a man gets an order to go to work for a few days, enough to equal in earnings what would be given to him directly. Seventy-five thousand heads of families have had this chance. In January, 1933, we made assignments to 16,353 men, earning on an average about $33. During January and February we have paid out close to $900,000 in such wages. In the two and a half years we have paid out $4,750,000.

"One thing was the improvement of Oak Forest infirmary. Seven miles of corridors have been cleaned, oiled and painted. We furnished the board of health with hundreds of clerks in the campaign to immunize 300,000 children from diphtheria. There has been very little trouble with labor, and that little was traced to communist agitators.

Taxpayers Save Millions.

"Millions of dollars' worth of work has been saved for the taxpayers. Cook county hospital was declared physically unfit. We put in engineers, established the cost, and by March 1 it will have been completely renovated. With the coöperation and good will of the unions we put 1,500 men on the streets to clean snow.

"Relief workers find this a wonderful adjunct. It is a moral factor of vast importance.

"Wages should be paid out of the relief fund, deducted and designated as a work fund. Out of the $6,000,000 a month projected as needed, this would take $3,000,000."

Coroner Blames Girl's Death on Alcohol and Weather

Bridgeport, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Two men and a girl detained for questioning in connection with the death on Feb. 12 of Dorothy Adams, 19, orphan, were free today. A coroner's verdict said she died of "exposure while intoxicated." Dale Montgomery, 17, and Lillian Dickerson, 14, testified at the inquest that they left the Adams girl near a railroad track after wrapping a coat about her. Charles Kane, 58, engineer for an oil company, said he was knocked out in a fight at a roadhouse and knew nothing of the girl's death. "Doc" Ullom, proprietor of the roadhouse, was held on a charge of violating the liquor laws.

HUNGRY PUPILS TO GET PENNIES OF GIRL SCOUTS

Last fall Girl Scout troop No. 157 started a "barometer" at its meetings in which were recorded the pennies saved for THE TRIBUNE Hungry School Children's fund. From time to time gifts came in small amounts. Yesterday $2 arrived with the notification that $13.07 had been saved for the fund.

"We intend to keep on saving our pennies and nickels for the fund," wrote Ethel Hanzlik, lieutenant of the troop.

DENVER FATHER DRAWS $65,000 TO PAY RANSOM

Denver, Colo., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Refusing to inform authorities of his plans, Claude K. Boettcher today drew $65,000 from three Denver banks, presumably to pay as a ransom to the kidnapers of his son, Charles Boettcher II., wealthy broker.

The breach between police and the Boettcher family widened further after Claude K. Boettcher conferred with Mayor Begol, and refused to amplify in any way a statement he issued last night saying he would act independently of police in negotiating with the kidnapers. Chief of Police Albert T. Clark said, "Police have little hope of solving this case without coöperation from the family."

Boettcher's statement included admissions that he has heard from the kidnapers and also that he has received from them a "token" which proved they have his son in custody.

HALT AQUEDUCT, SAYS ALDERMAN AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—City Councilman Roy Donley of Los Angeles today launched a public attack upon the economic feasibility of the $220,000,000 Colorado river aqueduct, for which Los Angeles and a number of satellite cities have already secured $2,116,000 in cash from the R. F. C., the approval of $4,032,000 more, and the promise of an additional amount up to $40,000,000.

Councilman Donley proposed that the metropolitan water district, which is dominated by Los Angeles, should be called upon to halt all work on the 260 mile pipe line across the mountains and deserts to the river boundary of this state and Arizona pending a survey of its "feasibility and desirability" in the light of present economic conditions.

A spirited faction of engineers, financiers and laymen outside of politics has been conducting a campaign questioning the advisability of going through with the Colorado river aqueduct because of several conditions.

MICHIGAN VOTES GOVERNOR POWER OVER EVERY BANK

Authorizes Him to Extend Present "Holiday."

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The house of representatives at Lansing tonight voted to Gov. William A. Comstock dictatorial power over every bank in Michigan and under this authority he may extend the present bank holiday and regulate withdrawal of bank deposits in any way he may choose. He retains his power as long as the present emergency continues.

The action taken by the house tonight follows a similar decision approved by the senate last Friday. A retroactive bill was also approved by the legislature which authenticates the proclamation issued a week ago by Gov. Comstock which brought about the banking holiday and closed more than 500 banks.

The first legislation to be enacted since the banks were closed a week ago was adopted with but five dissenting votes, while action to make it applicable to the national banks of the state was before the United States senate. Representatives of Detroit banks were speeding to Washington to assist in the national legislation as the house acted at Lansing.

Earlier in the day Senator James Couzens had introduced in the senate at Washington a resolution which, if enacted, will apply state legislation to the national banks within the respective states.

While legislation was thus being sought in Washington and Lansing the directors and executives of the Detroit banks continued conferences upon the working out of the details of the plan being evolved in that city.

Detroit banking institutions were open during regular hours today to accommodate depositors who wished to withdraw their privileged 5 per cent, but few applied. Less than 33 per cent of the available amount has been withdrawn.

It was indicated at Lansing tonight that Gov. Comstock would issue a second proclamation, probably tomorrow, extending the holiday beyond Thursday morning. He has been petitioned by the Michigan Banking association to do so pending adoption of legislation now before the state legislature and the United States senate.

Gov. Comstock said he was convinced that a long continuation of the holiday would be the worst thing possible and that he favors an opening of banks with percentage limitations.

"One COLD after Another"

Is Usually the Same Cold Repeating Itself!

Many persons who "catch one cold after another" during the winter think it's a different cold each time. As a matter of fact, it's often the same cold repeating itself. Uncured in the first place, the cold keeps coming back and all the time weakening your system and exposing you to more serious complications.

A cold requires decisive treatment or it will persist and make trouble for you. Many a serious illness had its start in a "slight" cold.

A COLD Remedy for a Cold

A cold is a specific condition and calls for specific treatment. Preparations good for half a dozen things besides cold can't be equally effective for colds. Many of these preparations actually make a cold more difficult of relief because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold, moreover, calls for internal medication. For a cold is an internal infection. Local or outside applications only allay a few of the symptoms and do not reach the real seat of the trouble.

The Four Effects Necessary

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine knocks a cold and knocks it right because it does the four things necessary.

First of all, it opens the bowels. Second, it kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Effective, but Harmless!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is safe for young and old to take. It contains nothing harmful. Also, it may be taken with impunity, whether you stay indoors or go out. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Get yourself a package today and be forearmed against colds. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Be suspicious of the dealer who offers you a substitute.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to fortify your system against infection.

Make $1 do the work of $3 and prevent "pesky" winter colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THIS is no time to waste money! It's no time to neglect health! You do neither when you fight colds with Pepsodent Antiseptic as millions are doing. It's just simple arithmetic that makes them change to Pepsodent.

$1 does the work of $3

Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics... hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against colds and throat irritations. For protection against germs associated with common ills, remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth antiseptics on the market. In the one group is the mouth antiseptic that must be used full strength to be effective. In the other group is Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds!

Don't fool yourself

It is bad enough to have germs in your mouth before you gargle... it's worse to have germs in your mouth after you gargle... so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when it is diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic.

IMPURE BREATH
(Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Sore Throat Colds	Cuts and Abrasions
Head Colds	After Shaving
Smoker's Throat	Chapped Hands
Bad Breath	Dandruff
Mouth Irritations	Skin Irritations
Irritations of the Gums	Chafes Under-Arm
After Extractions	Perspiration Odor

Knows What Chicago Needs for the World's Fair

Any Chicagoan who doesn't feel the urge of civic pride and is not eager to do his best for the World's Fair, ought to be living out in the sticks on the very edge of nowhere.

During the Century of Progress, Chicago will be on parade. It will be talked about throughout the Universe. Its every institution will be on inspection and the attitude of its citizens will be discussed.

One of the important features of need and interest will be the taxi-cab industry which is bound to be constantly in demand by the thousands of visitors to the Fair, who will likewise want to see all the attractions of this great city.

That industry must be in high-class condition. It must be high-grade and reliable. It must be dignified, systematic and financially responsible. It must in all things reflect credit on the City. It must be operated by trained, honest and efficient men. It must protect the thousands who come here by train. It must see them safely to their stopping places. It must see them safely on their way home.

It must show by its service that Chicago is not guilty of some of the hard things that have been said about it.

Well, then, there is only one cab company in Chicago that can do all these things and preserve the traditions of Chicago, and that is YELLOW CAB. Why complicate things by licensing a lot of individually-owned cabs which haven't an ounce of responsibility of any kind behind them and have no respect for anything?

WAR CHIEF TAKES GERMAN ARMY OUT OF POLITICS

New Defense Minister Holds Key Position.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—While political tension is increasing daily over the elections for the reichstag and the Prussian diet on March 5, German's small but highly efficient army is gaining in importance as the main factor for maintaining law and order in case of emergency. Whoever controls the reichswehr holds one of the key positions in the cabinet.

WERNER VON BLOMBERG.

Gen. Baron Werner von Blomberg is Germany's new minister of defense. For the last four years he was in command of the forces in East Prussia. According to the unanimous opinion of military experts, the new minister of defense is one of Germany's ablest generals, combining a deep theoretical knowledge of the science of war with a wide battlefield experience acquired in the world war.

A True Soldier.

Unlike his predecessor, Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, Von Blomberg is a soldiers and nothing but a soldier. He has devoted his entire adult life to military matters and steered clear of politics. He can be trusted to execute the orders of President von Hindenburg. One of the general's first acts as minister of defense was to announce his intention of "purifying" the army of all "political taint" it might have acquired in the party struggles of recent years. The highly political ministerial office of the defense ministry, hitherto occupied by Col. von Bredow, was filled by Col. von Reichenau, who, like his superior, has the reputation of being a nonpolitical soldier.

Gen. von Blomberg has reached the top of the military ladder at the age of 54. He is no stranger to America. He spent two months in the United States in the fall of 1930 to "strengthen the friendly relations taken up after the world war between the United States and the reichswehr."

Protested Order to Retreat.

Baron von Blomberg began his career in the cadet school in Berlin-Lichterfelde. The beginning of the world war saw him as chief staff officer attached to an infantry division. As early as the battle of the Marne he proved his military talents and sound strategical mind.

When general headquarters ordered the premature retreat of the extreme right wing of the German forces—a decision which cost Germany the war, in the opinion of most military experts in Germany—Von Blomberg collected several regimental commanders of the right wing and rushed them to general headquarters. With Blomberg as their spokesman, the officers tried to persuade the German chief of staff to retract the order.

The general failed to make any impression on general headquarters. The German right wing armies, which were in the act of outflanking the left wing of the French forces, were ordered to continue the retreat, and the war on the western front eventually died down to the "disastrous and barren war" of positions.

Catholic Guard Slain.

KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany, Feb. 20.—(AP)—In clashes following a reelection massmeeting addressed by Dr. Heinrich Bruening, former chancellor, tonight one member of the Catholic defense organization Pfalzwacht was fatally shot and twenty persons were injured. The Pfalzwachters acted as guards about the hall.

Red Slain by Nazis.

FRANKFORT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A communist was killed and another seriously injured in a clash with Nazis here tonight.

62 Slain in 16 Days.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The leftist newspaper Montag Morgen today said that 62 persons were killed in political clashes between Jan. 2 and Feb. 18, the period marking the ascendancy and early régime of Adolf Hitler. Of this number, the newspaper said, 37 were communists and Socialists, 14 were Nazis, two policemen, and the others of unknown affiliation.

2 GUNMEN TAKE $140 IN ROBBERY OF FREE CLINIC

CRIMINAL COURT.

Henry Thorenson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph F. Desort.

The gunmen yesterday entered the Central Free dispensary, operated by Rush Medical college at Wood and Harrison streets, and forced the superintendent, Dr. George W. Du Val, to surrender $140. Dr. Du Val and his secretary, Miss Hattie Brack of 115 South East avenue, Oak Park, were in the office on the first floor when the men arrived. They first made inquiries for a "Dr. Otis," and when told there was no such physician there, drew their pistols, ordered Dr. Du Val to open the office safe, and fled with the money.

WOMAN'S SCREAMS ROUT BANDIT.

AUSTRIA WARNED EUROPEAN WAR CAN'T BE AVOIDED

Newspaper Calls for a Union with Germany.

VIENNA, Austria, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Asserting that war between Italy and Jugo-Slavia no longer can be avoided, the newspaper Wiener Neueste Nachrichten today published a strong appeal for union with Germany as Austria's only hope of escaping annihilation.

International excitement in connection with a recent shipment of arms from Italy, the newspaper said, indicates that it would be impossible for Austria to maintain neutrality in case of hostilities on the southern border.

Fears for Austrian Cities.

"It will be interesting to observe what pretext will be found when the time comes for the stronger powers to justify the use of Austria as a battlefield," the article said.

It is pointed out that Vienna is within range of heavy artillery from Czechoslovakia and that Klagenfurt is within range of Jugo-Slavian guns.

"It is no longer important to discuss whether anschluss [political union] is desirable on historical, economic, cultural, or racial grounds," the editorial said. "It is a question now of protection against a perilous development which no one can halt. Union with Germany under these circumstances means rescue from destruction, devastation, and annihilation."

Charges Treaty Violation.

The Socialist Allgemeine Zeitung asserted that the recent arms shipment violated the provisions of the treaty of St. Germain, which forbids concentration of arms by the nations defeated in the world war. The paper called for the defeat of the Dollfus government as a demonstration that only the government and not the Austrian people "played with the idea of helping Italy to furnish arms to Hungary."

ALDERMAN MILLS TELLS HOW HE SAVES CITY CASH

3 Rivals Seeking His Council Seat.

In his campaign against three opponents for reelection to the city council, Ald. Wiley W. Mills of the 37th ward is pointing to two savings that he has made in the city appropriations as evidence of his stand in favor of reducing the cost of local government to the taxpayers.

Each year the council appropriates for the maintenance of the automobiles of the fifty aldermen an appropriation which totaled $28,224 for 1932.

Waives "Old Customs."

Besides this expenditure for which the aldermen are directly responsible, many of the councilmen adhere to an old custom under which public jobs are given to their secretaries. In return for landing on a public pay roll the secretaries give most of their time to their aldermanic sponsors instead of to the taxpayers.

"I have not collected the $48 a month for automobile maintenance that was appropriated for me," said Ald. Mills, "preferring to return that money to the city. Last year the amount turned back totaled $576. Neither have I had a secretary placed on a public pay roll. I have done my own work instead."

But the real issue in the campaign, according to Attorney Willard Matheny, chairman of the Mills campaign committee, is "whether the ward shall return to the council a representative who is free from political party domination or send one who will blindly do the bidding of his political sponsors."

Tim Crowe Aids Rival.

Ald. Mills has been listed as a Democrat, but the Democratic organization of Tim Crowe, ward committeeman who is under sentence in the sanitary district graft scandal, has indorsed Roger J. Kiley, as has James T. Igoe, who opposed Crowe for committeeman a year ago.

The board of election commissioners announced yesterday that approximately $35,000 would be saved by reducing the number of precincts that will be open on Feb. 28 in 15 wards where there are no aldermanic contests, propositions or park commissioners to be voted on.

2 CRAZED MOROS RUN AMUCK AND KILL 8 PERSONS

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Two crazed Moros killed eight persons in a mad rampage on the Island of Tawi Tawi, in the southern Philippines, before they themselves were shot down, advices received here today said. Police attributed the outbreak to an attempt to collect taxes.

The madmen killed a government clerk and a policeman in the town of Batubatu Saturday night. They fled to the hills, but returned to town Sunday and butchered three women, a child, and two other persons.

Terrorized townspeople locked themselves in their houses until the killers were shot down by local police.

WHEN YOUR STOMACH RUNS AN HOUR SLOW

Most "indigestion" has been found imaginary! The pains and gas and all that misery are real, of course. But nine times in ten they are symptoms only of slow stomach.

Did you know you can regulate your stomach to empty in six hours, as it should? That this is as easy as moving the bowels?

One box of Pape's Diapepsin will test your stomach and correct your digestion time in a couple of days—at a cost of twenty-five cents!

Each tablet of diapepsin saves the stomach half an hour's labor.

If your stomach is an hour slow, two tablets will remedy the trouble. Then eat anything. Baked beans every noon if you like them, and lobster at midnight suppers. They will digest like crackers and milk in a six-hour stomach!

Pape's Diapepsin is good for you, because it stimulates the gastric flow. Use it freely until the stomach is working right without any help. When it slows down, take diapepsin again for a day or two. This helps coffee drinkers and hard smokers, too.

Woman Killed by Fall from Third Floor Window

Mrs. Margaret Odom, 47 years old, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when she leaped or fell from the window of her third floor apartment at 1010 Waveland avenue. She was taken to the American hospital, where she died. Her husband, Thomas, an unemployed carpenter, insisted that his wife had fallen. Odom was not at home at the time of the tragedy.

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have ... selecting choice, ripe tobaccos ... ageing them ... blending and cross-blending them ... making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy." For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

ILLINOIS' GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY.

A recent contributor to the Voice of the People called attention to a fact, often forgotten, about taxation. He said that the personal property tax in Illinois is admirably calculated to lead to business stagnation. The assessor can find a diamond brooch, a magnificent rug or an automobile, but he cannot find the equivalent value in a safety deposit box. And if by law he is given a duplicate key to every box, the consequence will be the removal of all intangibles to Gary or New York. Therefore, our law is calculated to discourage purchases and drive funds out of the state.

Illinois legislators are not unique in their incapacity to understand the folly of excessive taxation. The Wisconsin legislature is at the moment debating a proposal to place a permanent tax on corporation dividends. New York has only lately increased its levies on incomes. The effect of these measures must be to drive industry and savings in so far as possible into less hostile jurisdictions. The New York Central railroad cannot remove its tracks from New York state, but it might remove its general offices and its financial resources to another state if there were a clear saving of taxes in doing so. An ordinary factory can be moved at no great cost.

The excessive taxation of other states, indeed, is Illinois' golden opportunity. If Wisconsin and New York discourage business and finance by tax increases, we can invite them with moderate taxation. In the long run we shall have more public revenue from low taxes than from high ones.

WAR IN JEHOL.

Dispatches from Manchuria indicate the early resumption of the Japanese advance into Jehol. From China there is report of the movement of reinforcements into Jehol and the National government announces its determination to resist. We are lacking in information as to the forces available to the Chinese government, and the rough estimates of troops now in Jehol, from 226,000 to 105,000, must be accepted as very doubtful. Even if quantitatively somewhere near accuracy, the factor of quality must also be taken into account. There are millions of armed men in China in armies and in guerrilla bands, but a small proportion of them are disciplined and well led. Even this minority is not adequately provided with artillery and other modern equipment, and the service of supply is inadequate. Estimates of Japanese forces are not subject to these discounts. Japan has a modern army fully equipped and supplied. The Chinese problem of maintaining operations in Jehol would test a modern military establishment and the Chinese government has only the nucleus. Moreover, China is distracted by political faction and internal disorder.

It is true that an effective unification of China's military resources would make the occupation of Jehol more costly to Japan and might defeat it, at least temporarily, both for military and financial reasons. The Japanese student of occidental history may recall that Napoleon's military enterprise did more to unite the Germans and make the Germany of Bismarck and Moltke possible and more to make Great Britain the greatest of world powers than any influence from within those nations. But Japanese statesmanship, while it has given serious heed to the lessons of occidental experience, thinks in terms of the Asiatic realities and is not easily shaken from its purposes by western analogies. It is we who draw conclusions from surface appearances and expect results which do not arrive in oriental conditions, for east is east and west is west.

It is, of course, plausible that, in spite of the fact that the probable loss of Manchuria has not yet unified Chinese factions, the threat of the loss of Jehol might complete the process. In such case a major war would probably result, for, superior as the Japanese army is, the armies of China, if they could be induced to coöperate strategically, could oppose a formidable resistance to Japanese operations. The Chinese are as brave in war as the Japanese. Their weakness is in loyalty of command and in equipment and organization. They could not beat the Japanese decisively, but they might, if coördinated, prolong resistance until Japanese financial resources were so depleted as to compel the abandonment of the Jehol enterprise at least. But against this possibility we must consider that carrying on operations in Jehol would be expensive for China, whose resources are even less than Japan's.

We doubt there are either moral or material conditions in China at this moment capable of supporting a war with Japan. There is the formidable movement of Chinese communism in southern and central China which is more concerned with its own success than with the success of Nationalist armies far away in the north or the preservation of remote territory for the sake of "saving face" and preserving the Nationalist government. With the latter embarked upon a costly enterprise in the north we may rather safely assume that the communist movement would not be restrained, but, on the contrary, would strike at the Nationalist government. This would compel the abandonment of serious operations in the north. We may be sure this factor in the situation is thoroughly understood at Tokio. The Japanese also are not much impressed, we may believe, with the possibilities of reliable unification even among the noncommunist factions.

How much pressure can or will be brought upon Japan by the league powers and the government of the United States is yet to be shown. But nothing transpiring up to this time suggests that it will be strong enough to prevent Japan from pursuing a course which it believes to be essential to Japanese security and prosperity. It is true that Japanese financial and social conditions are not favorable to a long and costly war, but it would seem that the Japanese statesmen feel this to be Japan's hour and have the fortitude to exploit it.

China, distracted by internal disorder, is in poor condition either to put forth her own strength or to borrow the help of other nations. Her nationalism has failed to unite her own leaders, while it has disparaged her credit with powers hitherto disposed to aid her. The process of pacification, modernization and the development of a unified national sentiment is one which will take many years if not generations to realize, but it is essential to China's security and progress. Japanese aggression may accelerate that process, but we suspect that Jimmy Yen is doing more for it, with his simplified language and his schools for the people, than all the politicians and military heroes in the China of today.

FOR BETTER PROTECTION FROM VIOLENT CRIME.

A new firearms law has been introduced by Representative Robert Woodward and we hope will be enacted at this session of the legislature. The present regulations have been shown to be seriously inadequate and the proposed measure is, in our opinion, well considered. It follows in general the uniform act approved by the American Bar association and it has the indorsement of Col. Calvin Goddard, director of the Scientific Crime Detection laboratory affiliated with Northwestern university, who is an authority on this subject; of Dean Emeritus Wigmore of the Northwestern university law school, Capt. Sammis, the able superintendent of the Lincoln park police, and other experts. Col. Goddard, who has given special study to the problem of firearms regulation, is, we assume, the principal author of the new measure.

The chief complaint against the present law is that it prevents the legitimate carrying of arms by reputable citizens. The new bill provides for the issuance of licenses with careful safeguards, and should answer objections to existing restraints on this score.

The bill also is admirable in strengthening the law against gun toting by irresponsibles and criminals, and closes serious gaps in the present laws through which the criminal has escaped so often on technicalities. Section 4, for example, provides that "no person who has been convicted in this state or elsewhere of a crime of violence shall own a pistol or have one in his possession or under his control." The fact that he has a pistol within reach, in his car, for instance, will not help him. Another provision forbids "any person who habitually associates with thieves or who habitually frequents houses of ill fame or gambling houses" to carry a firearm in a motor vehicle. Section 5 makes unlawful the carrying, possession, sale, lending, or giving of blackjacks, slingshots, sandbags, metal knuckles, bludgeons, etc. In short, the measure is remarkably thorough and closely related to actual experience of the police and courts in dealing with the criminal.

Another section, long needed, provides for additional punishment for crimes of violence when armed. In England the carrying of arms by criminals is rare because the culprit knows his penalty will be much more severe if he is caught with a weapon. If the law is faithfully enforced in Illinois it should have much the same result. The American criminal is armed because he has little reason to fear extra punishment for possession of a deadly weapon.

In short, study of the new measure, we are confident, will convince the legislature that its enactment and enforcement will materially strengthen our protection from the habitual criminal. We hope the legislature will not fail to enact it at this session. Conditions do not justify delay.

Editorial of the Day

ECONOMY VS. PRODIGALITY.

[Boone, Ia., News-Republican.]

Probably the most striking example of difference in conception of what these times demand is a comparison of the attitude of the Iowa general assembly with the attitude of congress. The Iowa governor and solons have grasped the meaning of depression and are using the common business judgment of making drastic retrenchments. The peak of our state direct tax levy reached $111,000,000 during prosperity. Then came the crash. With the passage of the Elliott law and similar actions by the 44th general assembly, $10,000,000 was cut off of the 1931 taxes and the same forces brought about a reduction of nearly $10,000,000 more for 1932. The committee on reduction of government expenditures, of which Ed Brown is secretary, proposes to use the taxes of 1919—$35,000,000—as a yardstick and save the state $25,000,000 more.

On the other hand, the congress of the United States has done nothing but a little cheeseparing in a gesture of economy. There is still the same riot of extravagance that prevailed in the boom years. The Reconstruction Finance corporation is doling out millions to any one who applies, and seems to be miffed because more takers do not come. The huge deficit of the bureaucracy, honeycombed with millions of needless and wasteful expenditures, grows at an alarming rate, and it is a fact that the government's finances are now being carried by the bankers. Attempts at new extravagances and proposals of inflation are running wild in the senate and house without any rebuke by a level headed member. No honest proposal is made to reduce expenses to fit the possible income. It has become a struggle between those who live on the government pap and those who produce it. Money to satiate the vast spending machine at Washington has to come out of the sweatings of business and the wages of labor.

The government at Washington should set a yardstick at the 1919 expenses. That is plenty to run the country at its present amount of income. Unless the incoming President and congress face this crisis and reduce the outgo to fit the income there can be but one result—bankruptcy, with its concomitant stagnation of industry and suffering, and with which the ills of 1932 will be insignificant in comparison. The people of the nation must rise in protest, as did the people of Iowa, against the deliberate wrecking of the treasury.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ANXIOUS DEMOCRATS are asking one and all whether it is true that any man appearing on the streets of Washington during the inaugural exercises without a silk hat will be arrested for vagrancy. It's probably true. Local police regulations are under control of the residents of Washington and what they think in Washington of grown men who walk around the streets of the capital on March 4 without a plug hat is simply nobody's business. A resident of Washington would sell the family cook stove to buy a silk hat for the inaugural ceremonies rather than be seen without one. They'd even trade the family auto for a silk hat or open Junior's tin bank with an ax. They caught a Washington man only last week trying to trade the baby's shoes for a plug hat. It's horrible what they'll do down there for a plug hat for March 4. The best advice for a job hunting Democrat is that if he can't get hold of a silk hat to stay away from Washington. They might tar and feather him and ride him out of town on a rail.

AT CONCORD.

Louisa M. Alcott's Hundredth Anniversary.

Still beneath the Alcott elm trees,
Where New England sunlight streams,
Each day stands some Little Woman
Dreaming Little Women's dreams.

Classic Concord! Manse of Hawthorne—
Austere home of Emerson—
That rude Bridge, so famed in story,
Which the embattled farmers won.

Hosts of pilgrims, men and women,
Come to honor and revere
Monument and mansion, whisper
"Beth and Nan and Jo lived here."

All long dead, those rustic heroes
Of that distant valiant fray,
But Louisa Alcott's children
Live and laugh and cry today.

Though the shot heard round the world has Ceased to echo long ago,
Still the voices of her children
Set young, yearning hearts aglow.

At the Shrine of Little Women,
Over Concord, on the ridge,
Eager pilgrims pause and ponder,
Who but walk across the Bridge.

EOLUS.

BUT, FORTUNATELY, the state conventions can only vote to repeal the 18th amendment. They cannot vote to rub it out or shoot it out or tear it out or drown it out or drive it out. No, fellow citizens, you can only repeal it. Sorry, but that's as far as you can go.

AGAIN IT WOULD SEEM that women are too idealistic to make good practical politicians. A lady down in Missouri has been granted a divorce because she objected to her husband engaging himself to four other women when he campaigned for the job of police magistrate. But tut, tut! That meant four votes, didn't it? And if the four ladies the candidate promised to wed were also married they would probably get their husbands to vote right. Eight votes right there! And if the four ladies had grown sons and daughters—more votes. In politics you gotta be practical.

A HIGH SCHOOL BOY in Milwaukee yawned so hard after coming home from school he dislocated his left shoulder. That's a warning. In the future we're going to keep the family doc standing right alongside our left shoulder every time we read anything about Senator Hooey Long.

AND NOW BALTIMORE horns into the picture. It's forty miles from Washington, but it's notified Mr. Roosevelt that it has a cunning little swimming pool over there that can be warmed just to the exact degree of Warm Springs down in Georgia in which Mr. Roosevelt takes such pleasure. Also it is wet just like Warm Springs. In fact, reading the glowing descriptions, one gets the idea that the Baltimore pool is even wetter than the one down in Georgia. It may not be as big, but you have to admit it's just as wet. Anyhow, Baltimore has been heard from. Gosh, you just can't keep a good town down!

UNEMOTIONAL THINKING.

THERE have been four Presidents of the United States from New England. All were of old New England stock and their personalities were typical of these people. Each made contribution to his country.

The fourth of the list, Calvin Coolidge, has just died—too recently for any agreement as to what was his great contribution. Pending such decision this suggestion is offered for consideration.

It is said that Mr. Coolidge gave vent to his grief when his son died and some may recall other occasions on which he exhibited emotion. However, there were not many such of which the public had knowledge. Doubtless he felt emotions, but he had them well in hand. Certain it is that he did not let his emotions masquerade as thoughts. His thinking was always clear, cold, and logical. What he gave out as opinions were the result of mental rather than emotional processes.

It is said that fear is a universal impulse. In the main it is a very harmful indulgence, but there are fields in which its operation makes for good. But, whether wholesome or harmful, it should never be allowed to pass for thinking.

Wishful thinking is even more harmful than the kind of thinking that is dyed by fear. It is closely akin to fantasy, day dreaming, and dementia praecox. The asylums are loaded with people who went down because of it. In its milder manifestations it vitiates judgment and destroys capacity for weighing values.

More than any other President in recent years, Mr. Coolidge's thinking was not warped by fear, on the one hand, or Pollyanna thinking on the other. Men in high position must depend very much upon others. It is necessary, therefore, that their judgment of men should be good. Our estimate of our associates is generally a mass of likes and dislikes, envies, jealousies, revenges, and a multitude of other emotions. The cut of a man's hair, his curl, or the fit of his coat has more than once placed a man in a seat of the mighty or barred him therefrom.

Mr. Coolidge was unusually able to think rather than to feel when weighing men.

The President is a great force in public life, aside from those fields which relate to his official acts. The example of Mr. Coolidge as a clear thinker, one who did not let his emotions flow over into thinking, was a badly needed influence for good.

HEART DISEASE.

J. H. writes:

1. What is chronic endocarditis and decompensated heart?
2. Is it dangerous?
3. What are the symptoms?
4. Is it curable and how?
5. How long does it last? I am a young person.

REPLY.

1. It is the kind of heart disease that follows rheumatism and sore throat and results in leaking valves. Decompensation means that the heart muscle is not quite equal to the task of the extra work.
2. Yes.
3. Dropsy, heart asthma, indigestion, shortness of breath are among the symptoms.
4. Compensation can usually be reëstablished, whereupon most of the symptoms disappear.
5. The effect on the valves lasts for the remainder of life. This kind of heart disease calls for good medical attention and training in the art of living with heart disease.

HOW TO TAKE INSULIN.

F. D. writes: Please tell me how to take insulin. Can I take it in a glass or by spoon?

REPLY.

Insulin is injected hypodermically. Physicians teach their patients to give the injections and how to regulate the dosage.

There are a few favorable reports on insulin given by mouth, but in nearly all cases that method is unsatisfactory. A way of giving it by mouth is being sought.

It is sometimes given by means of the nose or by being rubbed on the tongue and a few other methods.

BETTER INVESTIGATE.

Miss C. M. B. writes: My friends are always telling me that my lips look blue. I have noticed it when I am tired. What could cause this and what should I do about it? I am 34 years of age and working at a clerking job.

REPLY.

There are several disorders of which this is a symptom. Congenital heart disease is one. Other forms of heart disease and some diseases of the blood may cause it. Carbon monoxide poisoning also causes it.

ADMINISTRATION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am administratrix of an estate of a relative. The year is soon up for me to pay all heirs and [1] there is not enough cash on hand to pay them all. 2. Can I, as administratrix, postpone payment for ten months? I will then have sufficient cash for settlement. If the law is that I must pay in a year I would have to try to sell the home I now live in and would lose out entirely. The relative lived with me for twelve years and I had charge of all her business dealings. 3. Can I collect for the services rendered? The will reads that I was to receive everything left after paying all heirs and court costs. 4. What are the attorney's fees, also [5] the court costs? 6. What is the per cent of the administrator's fees? L. B.

1. Ordinarily this means that personal property should be sold to pay the debts and legacies, or if there is not sufficient personal property then that real estate should be sold.
2. Depends on what pressure the other parties choose to bring to bear upon you as to reasonableness of delay. We are not in a position to pass upon your prediction that you will have the cash within ten months.
3. Depends on the understanding under which the services were rendered.
4. Depends on the services performed.
5. You can get an estimate from the clerk of the court.
6. The statute specifies not over 6 per cent of the personal property. A rough average of the actual allowance would be 4 per cent.

NAVAL SERVICE NO AID.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—I entered this country legally in 1913, at the time being nine years old. I enlisted in the navy in 1920 and was honorably discharged. Does this make me a citizen? B. L.

The writer did not become a citizen by virtue of his naval service. There is no special provision under which he may be naturalized. However, he may file a declaration of intention [first paper] and two years later he may file a petition for citizenship under the general law.

WAGE CLAIMS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am representative in the Chicago district of a Pennsylvania industrial firm which has been in business since 1888. I am working on a weekly salary basis, but owing to present conditions they have not been able to pay my salary since last August, with the exception of the week before Christmas, at which time they sent me my regular weekly check. They have written me several times stating that as soon as business picks up they will reimburse me for the salary I have coming. 1. In case of bankruptcy what claim could I make according to Pennsylvania laws? 2. In case I left this firm of my own accord what chance would I have of collecting my back salary? C. B.

1. Wage claims to the extent of $300 earned within three months of the bankruptcy would be paid ahead of general creditors.
2. Depends on the corporation's assets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 21, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—The British embassy issued a statement announcing that Germany's "widely advertised campaign of ruthless murder on the high seas" resulted in the loss of less than one ship in every hundred plying in or out of British ports between Feb. 1 and 14. "The German wireless press messages," said the statement, "since the German declaration of indiscriminate submarine warfare against merchant shipping within a zone round the United Kingdom and France have been confined to advertising achievements of German submarines. Claims to have paralyzed the mercantile marine activity of the allies, and more particularly that of Britain, have appeared, together with hints at a vast increase in the number of German submarines so employed. It is interesting to note that the widely advertised campaign of ruthless murder on the high seas on which Germany has embarked has resulted in a loss of less than one ship for every 100 which have arrived or left British ports during the two weeks from Feb. 1 to Feb. 14."

VIENNA. — The inquiry of the United States regarding Austria-Hungary's attitude in connection with Germany's submarine warfare is considered vague in official circles. It is stated that the reason for this is that the notes mentioned in the American communication were not intended to tie the hands of the Austro-Hungarian government in the future, but dealt entirely with cases that had actually occurred.

AMSTERDAM.—Count von Reventlow, writing in the Tages Zeitung, says: "If President Wilson believes he has to declare war, this will without doubt be done with such a great and clever use of the tom-tom that at first a so-called wave of enthusiasm will go through the whole population. But the question is, what will remain when the wave has ebbed and subsequent weeks and months show that things this time are quite different to the Spanish war?"

CONSTANTINOPLE.—South of the Tigris the main body of the British withdrew about ten kilometers [6 miles], leaving behind only observation posts in the positions evacuated by the Turks on Feb. 17. The enemy, after vigorous artillery preparations, attacked our positions near Fahlie, with about one brigade [4,000 men], succeeding temporarily. In another attack on our position, after hand grenade and hand to hand fighting, we recaptured the position completely. The hostile brigade was almost completely annihilated.

PARIS.—French batteries shattered the German trenches northwest of hill 304. There were intermittent artillery actions at several points along the front.

LONDON.—Under cover of a heavy bombardment, which completely destroyed our trench, strong enemy detachments rushed one of our small advanced posts south of Le Transloy. We entered the enemy's positions during the night east of Armentières and Ypres and did considerable damage to his defenses. We bombarded enemy trenches during the day in the neighborhood of Sailly-Sallisel, La Bassee, Messines, and Wytschaete with good results.

LONDON.—The Norwegian collier Dalbeattie, with two Americans on board, has been sunk by a German submarine, according to an announcement by Lloyd's agency. Accounts of the disaster received here say that the Dalbeattie was sunk by shell fire while the crew was taking to the boats. The two Americans suffered from exposure of thirteen hours in the ship's boat. Three other ships were sunk by submarines, all British.

SAN ANTONIO.—A funeral service of military simplicity, in which regulars at Fort Sam Houston, National Guardsmen at Camp Wilson, and thousands of civilians from San Antonio joined, was held yesterday for the late Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston, commander of the southern department, whose sudden death occurred on the night of Feb. 19 from a heart affection. The culminating honor paid the dead general here was the placing of his body within the Alamo, the first time that historic structure has been used for such a purpose.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson is considering breaking another precedent of more than a hundred years' standing by not calling the customary special session of the senate immediately at the beginning of his new term. The President's purpose, as understood at the capitol, is to avoid a special session of the senate unless an extraordinary session of the whole congress is necessary at the same time. Abandonment of the special session would eliminate exactly one-half of the official ceremony of inauguration day.

THE SERVICE TO ST. LOUIS.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—In the Voice of the People on Feb. 16 you published a letter from L. C. Strom giving as a reason for duplication of passenger service between Chicago and St. Louis the necessity of serving towns en route, which would be a good reason if it were so.

Take his first illustration, the C. & E. I. I find by consulting the Official Railway Guide, as Mr. Strom suggests, that the train on this road leaving Chicago at 11:55 p. m. stops at Villa Grove at 3:20 a. m., Pana at 5:05, Hillsboro at 5:39, Granite City at 6:31, arriving at St. Louis at 7:21. There is certainly no justification for running a train from Chicago to St. Louis to serve these towns where nobody would be likely to take a train in the middle of the night.

The Wabash train leaves at 11:50 p. m. and stops at only one place of importance, viz., Decatur, through which it passes at 3:50 a. m. I don't imagine any one takes the train at that hour. However, if they want to get to Decatur at that time they can leave Chicago at 9:30 a. m. and reach Decatur at 3:20 a. m.; and if they want to get into St. Louis in the morning they can leave Decatur at 4 a. m. and get to Granite City at 6:35 and take a local train to St. Louis from there, eight miles. Or they can leave Decatur at 7:10 a. m. and get to St. Louis at 11:15 a. m.

The Alton train leaving at 11:59 p. m. is a nonstop train, making St. Louis only. There is another train on this road leaving Chicago at 11:45 p. m. which serves all the important towns on the road.

The Illinois Central train leaving at 11:55 p. m. stops at Springfield at 4:45 p. m., Litchfield at 5:49, and one or two smaller places during the night.

These four heavy, expensive passenger trains are run practically solely for through travel between Chicago and St. Louis. One train could carry comfortably all the passengers there are and save the expense of three trains. As Mr. Strom doubtless knows, an investigation was made by the roads interested about a year ago and they found that the average number of passengers carried between Chicago and St. Louis in twenty-four hours was less than 150, and that, to accommodate them, the railroads were running ten trains! The same situation exists between Chicago and St. Paul, Chicago and Detroit, Chicago and Omaha, and many other places. The number of passengers who get on and off a train during the night is negligible. The railroads cannot expect to make money until they cut out this foolish duplication of service. G. RUSSELL LEONARD.

A BANK RECEIVERSHIP IN ROCKFORD.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Many who were depositors in the closed banks of Chicago are complaining either of the acts or of the lack of action on the part of bank receivers. The Chicago Bar association and the newspapers are taking up the complaints and laws are being suggested to remedy some of the abuses of receivership. It is somewhat disgusting to compare Chicago receivers' methods with those of receivers elsewhere. The following item appeared recently in a Rockford paper:

"Bringing to 93 per cent the total dividends authorized to date, Attorney Lisle W. Mensimer, receiver for the Peoples State bank of Winnebago, yesterday obtained authorization for the payment of an additional 8 per cent dividend to depositors of the closed bank.

"This is believed to set a record for the return of funds in closed state banks in this section of the state. The bank closed only sixteen months ago."

It would seem that what we need is not more laws but more receivers of Mr. Mensimer's type. DEPOSITOR.

TWO CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—"The general assembly shall apportion the state every ten years . . ."

"The general assembly shall provide such revenue as may be needful by levying a tax, by valuation, so that every person and corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his, her, or its property . . ."

The above are quotations from the constitution of the state of Illinois. Our highest courts have held that a legislature [or any number of them in succession, for that matter] may constitutionally meet and pass valid laws in plain contradiction of one of these provisions.

They have also decided that assessors may disregard the other provision and the assessment may not be attacked on that ground.

Therefore two of the primary functions of government may be administered outside the law and no remedy found to enforce legality.

The question behind all this preamble is this: Did our courts in deciding these fundamental questions, concerning our most important civil rights, expound the law strictly and to the letter, as the claim to do, and should do, or did they allow expediency to creep in, and to prevent confusion and delay find excuse for the status quo? NOISY.

A PARADOX RESOLVED.

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 17.—A subscriber of Rhinelander, Wis., plaintively asks: "Why raise jackasses on Missouri farms when we have an overproduction at Madison, Wis., and at Washington, D. C., and at most of the capitals of the states?" Huh! That's easy. The Missouri farm jackasses can be made to work and also are harmless.

P. AURORA.

THE NAVAL RESERVE.

Berwyn, Ill., Feb. 15.—In the event of war our navy absolutely must have about 10,000 or more trained officers and men to fill out the complements of ships now in commission and to man ships now in reserve.

The fleet naval reserve is composed of ex-service officers and young men who are trained to fill this need. It is now proposed to cut our drill periods in half for the coming year. This will practically destroy the capacity of the naval reserve to furnish well trained officers and men to the navy.

No civilian military organization can be efficient or keep the sustained interest of its members by drilling only two a month.

The amount of this saving is $600,000, or about 2/100 of 1 per cent of the total federal budget. The sacrifice to the national defense will be all out of proportion to the saving effected.

TENNIS AT THE ARMORY.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Will you please investigate why the Broadway armory has a right to charge 50 cents per hour for tennis? They don't want outsiders, is they have tennis clubs, but in these times when so many are out of work and want a little fun, which they had no time for when employed, the charge should not be so high, and when they don't furnish a net they shouldn't charge. CARRIE O'BRIEN.

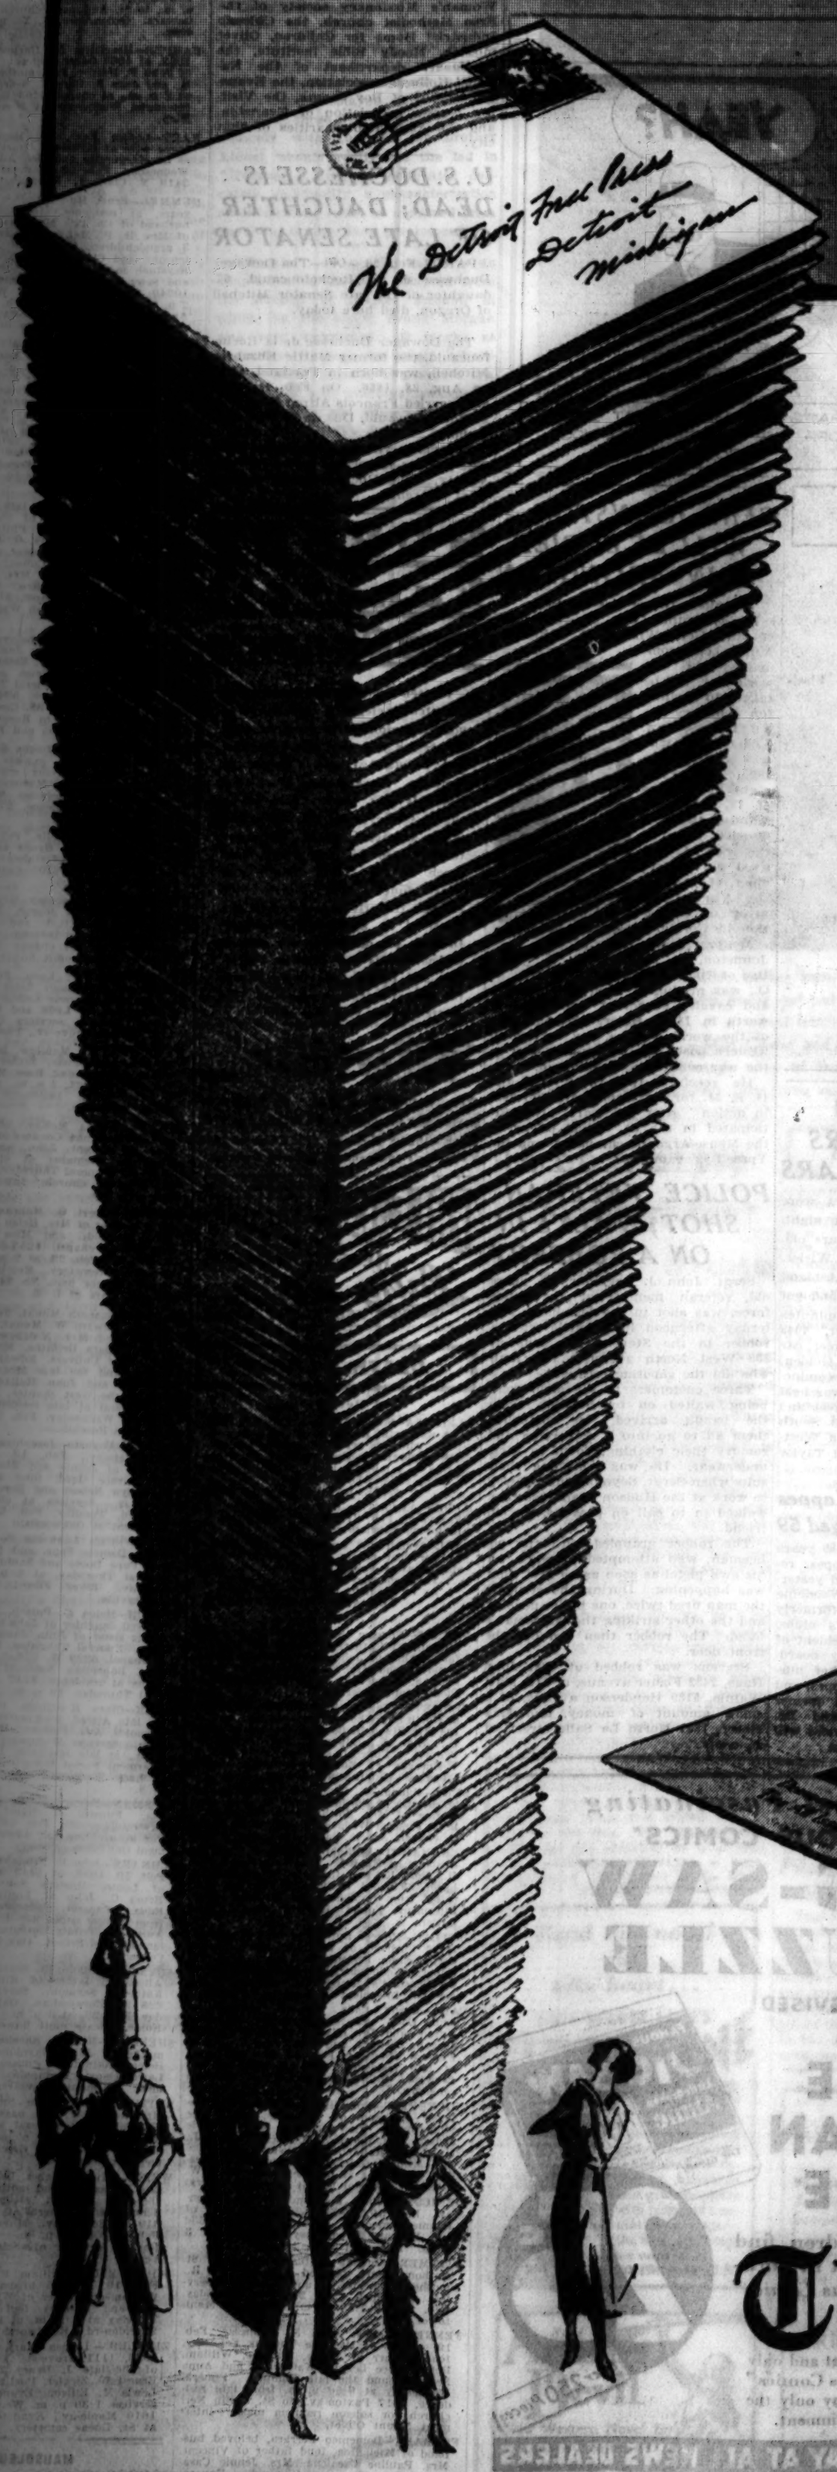
445,213 Letters from Women Readers of the Free Press in 1932



WHAT a record! This vast and literal mountain of correspondence from its women readers alone in 1932. These 445,213 letters to the Free Press. To the best of our knowledge, only two other American newspapers had a greater volume of correspondence from women readers, and these were in larger metropolitan centers where obviously circulations are greater.

EVERY day in the year, thousands of letters from women in every corner of the Detroit market are dumped on the desks of Free Press editors. These letters ask questions; offer suggestions; seek advice; make comment on some feature that is conspicuous by the sheer merit of its content.

There is a reason why women voluntarily wrote these 445,213 letters. That reason is the result of the stimulus of careful, thoughtful editing of the Women's Pages of the Free Press. It is the effect of printing fresh, important and original material that runs the whole gamut of woman interest . . . cooking and foods; patterns; beauty secrets; fashions; child care; the maintenance of health; the beautification of the home, plus a thousand and one other things that help to keep the home fires burning in a brighter, better way.

These women are your most important prospective customers in the entire Detroit market, to whom your advertising appeal should parallel the reader-interest indicated by this record of reader-response. For as these women read they buy. What they see advertised determines what they purchase. They represent buying power, intelligence, quality. They are typical of the entire audience offered you through the Free Press . . . a circulation concentrated among those who have always been and still are the best customers for any advertising.

Good advertising has lost none of its power to produce. But it must be pointed in the direction of purchasing power . . . towards purses and not merely people. At this time in Detroit, there is no more productive, no more responsive market for any merchant or manufacturer than this reading-buying circulation. These thousands of letters are part of the proof. If you seek more proof, you may have it for the asking.

ZEALAND FINDS RELIEF SCHEME CREATES WASTE

Puts Idle to Work, but the Cost Is Tremendous.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Feb. 20.—When a country goes into the unemployment insurance business on a national basis it creates many opportunities for waste and inefficiency. New Zealand, which has had its relief scheme for the idle operating for over a year, has found this out.

The attitude of the government always has been refusal to turn the "insurance" scheme into a "dole." All relief granted must be earned. In order to allow men to earn their living the government has been forced to provide work. That was not so easy. For a time the men were held in cities shifting dirt on road improvement and regional development jobs. They could not accomplish much because the money and materials for large scale schemes were not available. They were just working.

Handed Over to Farmers.

Then they were routed to the country and handed over to farmers to act as laborers. In a short time the government found that the farmers were using the men to aid them develop their farms in manners not intended by the administration and that regular farm workers were being discharged to make way for the state subsidized men from the cities. So that plan had to stop.

Now the government is administering a whole series of schemes, some of which have just been investigated by unbiased outsiders. The revelations have surprised the country. In Auckland idle men have been working on a state subsidized plan of improving the playing fields of the Newmarket school. Sixty men have been employed on a job which so far has cost more than $30,000 and which is nowhere near completion. Another $10,000 will be needed to finish the project, which could have been done by private enterprise at $9,000, accord-

The Otahuhu High school, nearby, has a playing field on which $15,000 of the unemployment funds have been sunk and which will call for still another $10,000 before the work is complete. Lack of tools, dearth of equipment and failure to give proper supervision are mainly the cause of these high figures, for local engineers insist that the entire job ought not to cost more than $2,500. But those engineers would use fewer men and more machines and machines are not welcome on the relief jobs. They rob the government of the opportunity to carry men on the relief pay rolls.

$3,000 Vegetable Garden.

A vegetable garden, which has cost more than $1,500 an acre to construct, is another "project" which has been discovered. Seventy men have been working for four months to turn a two acre plot on the Auckland public domain into a garden where vegetables might be raised for the idle. The job cost $3,000 in wages alone, and farmers declare that four good men could dig the area in two weeks at a total cost of $60.

At Papatoetoe an athletic stadium has been erected at a cost of $18,000. Expert estimates place the highest reasonable figure for the job at $7,500. The work required 18 months. Contractors declare that it should have been put through in a single summer. The job gave employment to 150 men, who worked on alternate weeks and drew $16,000 in wages, the rest of the money being raised by the local town board.

Thus the ironical position has arisen that the national system of relief, which was set up partly to eliminate the great waste of overlapping endeavors when private relief was granted, has resulted in encouraging greater waste than over.

Besides waste, the fund has created a racket. The start of the racket is evident in the manner in which the funds were manipulated to obtain a grant of $40,000 to permit the building of a hotel at Napier, the wrecked east coast city which was formerly a playground for the country's wealthy and which was razed by fire and earthquake two years ago.

How Cash was Raised.

No one would advance the money to rebuild the hotel which occupies a key site on the promenade of this sunny seaport and the government finally decided to do it. The state advances office, established to grant credits to farmers, loaned $105,000 on a first mortgage, the public trust office, a state-created trustee, loaned $75,000 on a second mortgage and the unemployment board decided to put up the balance of $40,000.

It is argued that the security is good, as the building is to cost $210,000 and the land on which it stands is valued at $125,000. It is also argued that "it is not a question of a loan to build a hotel, but a loan to help improve a very important part of Napier," but the stubborn fact is that the money raised by taxes for relief of the idle is being diverted to other purposes.

Four street car conductors were held up by two bandits last night. They stole $12 a few minutes later from William Kelleher, 4049 Gladys avenue, on a 22d street car near Ashland avenue. Hugh Golden, 417 South Kilbourn avenue, conductor of a Roosevelt road car, was held up by the pair at Morgan street and lost $12. C. J. CANADA TO AWAIT ROOSEVELT MOVE FOR TRADE PACT

Premier Insists U. S. Make First Offer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 20.—Canada is desirous of effecting a reciprocal trade treaty with the United States, but believes the government of President Elect Roosevelt should make the first approach to the dominion.

The Canadian house of commons today indicated unanimous agreement on this point when high tariff Conservatives, moderate tariff Liberals and free traders from the west applauded in unison Prime Minister Bennett's statement declaring Canada's willingness to enter into a definite trade bargain with the United States.

Bennett's declaration followed a Conservative party caucus, at which the premier is reported to have announced that he anticipates a reciprocity proposal from the new American government within six months.

Must be for Definite Period.

The trade pact with America which Canada desires, however, must be for a definite period, and not one terminable at any moment on the action of either party, Bennett emphasized.

The reason the Canadian prime minister gave for his conception as to the necessity of the United States making the first approach for a trade deal was that since 1879 Canada has had reciprocal trade offers to the United States standing on its statute books and, he said, the only response of the United States was successively higher tariff moves against Canada.

Plainly indicating his belief that the incoming American régime promised an opportunity most desirable to Canada for closer North American trade relations, Premier Bennett cautioned parliament against too precipitous action which might injure the prospects of a trade pact.

Opposes Trade Resolution.

He urged upon William Duff, Nova Scotia Liberal, the withdrawal of the Duff resolution which precipitated today's discussion. Duff's resolution asked parliament to recommend that the Canadian government take the initative in opening negotiations with the United States.

Others, however, urged Duff not to withdraw the resolution, but to have parliament go on record definitely as anxious for a reciprocity pact with the United States. Former Premier Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, supported this view.

JUDGE REFUSES BRUNKER PLEA ON 2 CHILDREN

Reno, Nev., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Judge B. F. Curler today refused to modify terms by a Reno divorce decree as it affects the two minor children of Albert Ridgely Brunker, Lake Forest reformer, and his former wife, Margaret Gaylord Ruppel, the court order providing that joint custody should continue for the present. Brunker had sought to gain complete control of the children.

The court ruled that Mrs. Ruppel shall continue to have custody of the children until June 30, when Brunker will have them for six months.

Judge Curler indicated that in his opinion the time was not far distant when the boy would need the guiding hand of the father and the girl that of the mother. At this point Mrs. Ruppel had difficulty in retaining her composure.

Differences between Brunker and Mrs. Ruppel's father, Judge Curler declared, must not be brought into the present case, as it affects the children.

Both Brunker and Mrs. Ruppel promised to bring the children into court here if there was any demand at any time, and both agreed to turn them over to the other at the proper time.

Judge Curler refused to hear argument of counsel and closed the case by announcing that he would retain jurisdiction. He suggested that it would be advisable not to make any further motion for modification of the decree for some time—"a year or two, or perhaps longer."

The court also warned both parents that he would deal severely if it was demonstrated to him that there had been any effort on the part of either to alienate the affections of the children from either parent.

RITES TOMORROW FOR E. HUMMEL, 90, EX-CITY OFFICIAL

Funeral services for Ernst Hummel, city treasurer during the régime of Mayor Carter Harrison Jr., will be held tomorrow in the chapel at 10240 Ewing avenue, with burial in Graceland cemetery. Mr. Hummel died Sunday night at his home at 10134 Avenue M. He was 90 years old. Mr. Hummel was secretary of the Brand & Hummel brewery until his retirement 14 years ago. He had served as North Town collector, deputy sheriff, and as a city alderman. Mr. Hummel was the first president of the Schwabinverein. He is survived by a son, Ernst Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. H. T. McLaughlin.

J.F. Leverington, Merchant, Is Dead of Mystery Shot

John F. Leverington, 60 years old 4505 West Congress street, who was found wounded in a snow bank at Cicero avenue and Flournoy street on Feb. 8, died yesterday at the county hospital. POLICE VETERAN SHOT; WALKS IN ON A ROBBERY

Sergt. John J. Seymour, 60 years old, veteran member of the police force, was shot in the left hand yesterday afternoon in a battle with a robber in the Stevens hat shop at 339 West North avenue. The man who did the shooting escaped.

Three customers in the shop were being waited on by Stevens when the bandit arrived. He compelled them all to go into a rear room and remove their clothing, down to their underwear. He was searching their suits when Sergt. Seymour, on his way to work at the Hudson avenue station, walked in to call on Stevens, an old friend.

The robber grappled with the policeman, who attempted to reach for his own pistol as soon as he saw what was happening. During the struggle the man fired twice, one bullet missing and the other striking the policeman's hand. The robber then fled out the front door.

Stevens was robbed of $28; John Haas, 2432 Foster avenue, of $10; Matt Wainio, 5139 Henderson avenue, of a small amount of money, and Max Moser, 1531 North La Salle street, of 35 cents.

EIGHT CHARITIES SHARE IN WILL OF R. L. LEFFINGWELL

Eight charities were left a 60 per cent interest in the $340,000 estate of Robert L. Leffingwell, Evanston real estate man who died Jan. 11, under the terms of his will, which was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Taylor.

Mrs. Borden Tells Joys of Big Outdoors

Book Describes Thrills of Hunting, Fishing.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Adventures in a Man's World," by Courtney Borden [Macmillan]. Published today.

COURTNEY BORDEN.

If you have always wondered why men leave home, with that almost religious zeal to throw flies into a pounding stream or to shoot little birds on the wing; if the passion of the outdoors sportsman is to you one of the wonders (if not the saving grace) of a day given to ping-pong and jigsaw puzzles, you will wonder no more after you have read Courtney Borden's "Adventures in a Man's World." For in 246 pages she not only tells why men leave home but she makes the leaving so alluring that the business of hunting and fishing and general outdoorsing may, if women readers let themselves go, become ambisexual instead of a purely male relaxation.

Mrs. Borden, who married a famous sportsman, John Borden, went when she was first married with him to Saskatchewan, where he was to have some duck and grouse shooting. He explained to her: "I'd like to take you along—just to see how you will like this sort of thing . . . cold . . . getting up at dawn . . . Because if you do"—he had stopped to consider what to add next—"I've always led that kind of life, you know." Their host had a daughter who was a good shot and he was proud of her.

On that trip Courtney Borden determined that the man in her family should be proud of the woman in it. And even since then she has accompanied her husband, not as a spectator, but as participant in all sorts of adventurous sporting trips. To look at her you would never suspect that the delicate, lovely creature who is always one of the most beautiful women in any drawing room really has the passion for the outdoors that lures men to the wilds for solace and soul repair. But after reading "Adventures in a Man's World" you KNOW that she has, for there is real joy in its pages, unmistakable zest.

Every one should have some refuge for his or her spirit. To some it is the sea. To still others a mountain top, by its mere existence, can, when one lives close under its shadow for awhile, remake the spirit. And to some others just the wild out of doors, the feel of a fish gamely fighting its capture, is a curative, a rejuvenating blessing.

Courtney Borden makes perfectly understandable the unmistakable passion of some men for life out of doors hunting and fishing. For she makes really thrilling fishing for the elusive steelhead, for the superb rainbow trout, hunting for quail, for grouse, for ducks, and, in the icy waters of Alaska, walrus and brown and polar bears. She omits none of the cold and the sketchy food and the discomfort, but the thrill of the conquest simply erases the physical strain in her pages, and, because she found her adventures in a man's world thrilling, the reader does also.

Mrs. Borden recounts her adventures with a sense of humor as well as with a sense of enjoyment, and she tells them with a gayety which disguises — for nonamateur professionals —the factual hints and the subtleties which would equip other women to be "good sports" as well as good sportswomen.

Mrs. Borden tells in her last chapter of the family's changing of "our winter residence from a great northern city that we all loved to a plantation in the south." That northern city was Chicago, in whose life both Mr. and Mrs. Borden have always taken an active part.

Film Has John Barrymore in Different Role

"TOPAZE."
Produced by RKO-Radio.
Directed by Harry d'Arrast.
Presented at the Palace theater.
THE CAST.

Topaze	John Barrymore
Coco	Myrna Loy
Henri	Albert Conti
Dr. Bomb	Luis Alberni
Baron	Reginald Mason
Baroness	Jobyna Howland
Charlemagne	Jackie Searle
Dr. Stagg	Frank Reicher

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Those who resent the Barrymore profile and find John a total loss so far as his legs are concerned [many were the pungent comments re those calves as displayed in "General Crack"]; those who compare his work odiously with that of his brother Lionel, should really see the lad in "Topaze." Here he delineates delicately, poignantly, a characterization as different as could be imagined from anything he has done heretofore.

"Topaze" is gentle satire — an adaptation of the play adapted from the French of Marcel Pagnol, in which, on the stage, Frank Morgan was very successful. It mocks at hypocrisy; through its meek, schoolmaster hero, Topaze, it presents the perplexities and complexities apt to beset a simple and secluded soul suddenly thrust forth into a world of hard reality — a world peopled by thieves and Pharisees who think only fools are honest and regard as the prize boob he who would seek to put into practice the two headed philosophy of honor and kindliness. [I must learn to write shorter sentences.]

An ironical fate permits Professor Topaze to be battered about just so long by the worldlings. Then, merrily, makes him master of those who have reviled him, and successful by reason of the principles to which he has held fast.

Because of its long winded, ethical sequences and a general ramblingness, "Topaze" will never be "box office." Which does not alter the fact of John Barrymore's brilliantly comprehensive, sensitive, and touching portrayal.

Myrna Loy in a passive rôle is charming. She, too, is unusually cast. Young Jackie Searle is characteristically pesky as the brat son of wealthy parents, and other rôles are commendably cared for.

"Chic" Sale headlines the Palace vaudeville bill in his customary engaging fashion.

Grandma's Fan.

BY NANCY CABOT.

At the time of the extensive popularity of silhouettes in needlework—we are thinking particularly of the few years preceding and following 1870—many of the designs in that medium were adapted to quilt patterns. The fan silhouette was one of these. As a silhouette, of course, the entire design was pieced in a single fabric in dark contrasting color.

A generation or so later the ribs of the fan were made of many cheerful printed fabrics—each panel different. And at the time of this development the name "Grandma's Fan" was conferred upon it.

For a pattern of the "Grandma's Fan" design send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Attend Luncheon at Casino Club

Miss Helen Marie Castle, better known as "Ree," Miss Betty Brawley, who is the envy of all her friends because her curls never get out of place, and Miss Katherine Healy, known to her friends as "Kay" (left to right), at a recent luncheon party at the Casino. They are among the most attractive girls in their "sets"—Miss Castle and Miss Brawley made their debuts this season and Miss Healy is a trifle older—and although none of them is planning a trip for any time soon, they are quite willing to stay at home because they have such good times right here. Three Matisse Paintings Get Critics' Praise

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

That Matisse in his hours of relaxation can turn out utterly charming and unaffected paintings is evidenced in the interesting exhibit which opened yesterday in the Chester Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building. Three paintings by Matisse fascinate the eye. "Seaside Cottage—Interior" is woven about the yellow flame of an unpretentious chair. Through the open door one catches a glimpse of the sea and yellow sand. The simplicity of the composition and the atmosphere of summer which permeates the canvas are, however, the two striking qualities of the picture which hold one.

Another Matisse interior is "Interior with Nude," a room in a pleasant house on the Riviera overlooking the sea. There is a carelessness about the drawing of the woman's figure that is characteristic of the painter, but closing one's eyes to that the painting has both sparkle and charm. The third Matisse is so entirely without affectation that it will long remain fixed in your mind. It is the view, from the back seat of a luxurious motor car, along a gray road flanked with plane trees and edged on one hand by the sea. The appointments of the car are splashed in with masterly indifference. Nothing is made too much of. The effect of the whole is what Matisse sought and secured. The feeling of movement is there, although no driver is present. The irresistible and potent charm of motoring, the lure of the open road, those rivet the imagination. For the rest:

A delightful pastoral by Berthe Morisot, a girl picking fruit in a garden, is a beautiful canvas; a fine still life of fruit by Gauguin, painted in 1891, is most effective; a brilliant Forain over the mantel is fascinating in its delineation of character; "The Lady in the Red Dress" by Degas is a strong piece of sober painting; the drawings of nudes by Degas are boldly modeled and seriously considered and his ballet girls are charming.

The little room filled with recent water colors of Tossa, Spain, by Survage, is a delightful retreat in which to savor the full charm of this fresh, clear painting. The exhibition will remain on view two weeks.

Woman Has 4 Shillings Washington Paid for Bread

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Laura Ryan of Carrollton said today that she had in her possession a bill for 4 shillings which was given her grandmother by George Washington in payment for a loaf of bread. Her grandparents, Jacob and Hannah Slinglen, lived at Montrose, N. J., where Slinglen had a blacksmith shop and often shod horses for Washington. Mrs. Ryan also has in her possession a knife which her grandfather used to trim the hoofs of Washington's horses when he shod them.

Good Shopping News—Jackets Are Sold Alone

You Can Select a Style for Any Dress.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Last season you bought jackets, but invariably these jackets were paired with a skirt or a one piece dress, and no matter how much you needed the jacket and how little you cared for the skirt or dress, it was an unbreakable combine. You finished the shopping expedition, either, with the entire ensemble, or else you went home jacketless which was one of the minor mysteries of the year.

Evidently all the pungent criticisms about this trick were heeded, for this year you can buy separate jackets without any more ado than buying a separate skirt or blouse. And what the clever clotheshound, who knows her jacket tricks, can do with a couple of jackets, is nobody's business but those envying souls who pounce hungrily on every new idea!

Try the long jackets. For instance, a stunning plaid affair, combining a spicy brown background crossed and criss-crossed with pale grey, vermillion and dark brown, thin pencil-like lines. It is double breasted, and can be buttoned high around the neckline. . . . It is longer than you usually find, fitting smooth around the hips . . . it has two generously sized patch pockets and a wide swagger belt, but the glittering copper buttons that fasten it snugly around your anatomy are what you will fall for . . . huge flat round copper buttons that shine on the darkest day. Wear this over a gray frock for a different kind of contrast, or top your pet green wool with this new plaid creation and there isn't any sort of a spring or summer cotton frock that you cannot wear this jacket over later on.

Grey jackets are perfect. You can find some striped models that will contrast a black skirt with a stunning effect, a pale silver gray jacket that will be just the thing you have been looking for as a smart top for gun metal gray skirt or dress. Another wool jacket to consider is the vivid green rabbit's wool, a green fillip for silver gray frocks, or new black and white checked dresses or skirts. Butter yellow wool jackets and cardigan sweaters are quite the newest things you can slip over the shoulders of a cornflower blue, black, or dull green dress.

Later in the season you can have a grand time with cotton jackets, every possible color and color combination will be used . . . all the gay, giddy, scotch plaids, bumpy linens, novelty cotton that are corse and towel-like in texture . . . all the colors, from beige and string tinted materials, to high bright shades for dramatic contrast.

One stunning three toned combination is a coarse black linen skirt, a pale green blouse or waistcoat vest, and an oyster white tailored jacket. Another is a yellow skirt, a lavender blouse, and a deep purple jacket, all of cotton. Checked cottons are knockouts, as well eye filling. You can find small checks, larger checks and huge squares that ought to satisfy every one. These checks fashion both jacket or dress with a solid contrasting color as accent.

You can buy all the white evening jackets you need, cleverly tailored, rather masculine affairs as to fitting, pockets and collar, but soft and feminine as to perky shoulder puffed sleeves. They are available in fancy weaves of piqué, waffleilke cottons and ribbed materials. If you want real swank for evening use heavy corded white silk bengaline for a clinging black evening gown . . . they are faultlessly tailored with a rib hugging silhouette and man tailored details.

Tells Position of Women in Life in Turkey

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Turkish women have won their freedom—in fact, they are enjoying more freedom today than their sisters on this side of the water who are under the compulsion of group psychology.

This was the theme of Miss Marion Talbot's informal talk yesterday to the members of the Woman's City club. Miss Talbot, dean of women at the University of Chicago, recently returned from a year in Turkey, where for several months she was a member of the faculty of Robert's college at Istanbul. She was invited to the City club by the distinguished guest committee with Mrs. Tiffany Blake as its chairman.

"Why, art used to be illegal in the Turkish system of education," Miss Talbot went on. "Any presentation of the human form was a disgrace. Now it's a part of every postage stamp."

The Turkish republic proclaimed ten years ago is responsible for this marked improvement in women's status as well as the general condition of the country, according to Miss Talbot.

"Church and state are separated. No longer is there religious instruction in the schools. Now this is left to the parents," she pointed out. "Polygamy has been abolished, foreigners no longer enjoy special privileges, and suffrage has been extended to women."

The handsome palaces that still line the Bosporus have been converted into tobacco factories and schools. In the schools instructors have gone far, according to Miss Talbot, to copy American rules of hygiene.

"America stands for the highest good in the eyes of these people," she explained. "This is the reason there is a tremendous responsibility on the part of this country. On the walls of the Istanbul Girls' Normal school is the motto, 'The Progress of Women Is a Measure of the Progress of a Nation.' Can this be said of America?"

In taking their new freedom seriously Turkish women are not, however, losing sight of the fun in life, Miss Talbot said. They like to dance. They have their beauty contests. Witness the fact that Miss Turkey recently won the crown of Miss Europe.

Mrs. Murry Nelson, president of the club, and Mrs. Blake presided at the tea table.

Junior League to Show Arts of Members

Beatrice Borland Will Talk on Opening Day.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE results of the very active interest the Chicago Junior leaguers take in various arts will be exhibited at the Casino on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, March 7, 8, and 9, the arts and interests committee of the league announces. Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe, Mrs. Norman Pritchard, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, and Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell are on the committee and they probably also will be among the exhibitors.

On the opening day at 3 o'clock Miss Beatrice Borland will give an illustrated talk entitled "Banging Through Sumatra and Persia," after which tea will be served.

The exhibit will be open to league members and their guests from 11 to 5 on the three days.

Miss Borland and her sister, Harriet, who took the pictures that illustrate the former's interesting and amusing talks, are not as busy just now as they have been for months for they just sent off to the publisher the last of the ten maps that Harriet drew and they are awaiting the final proofs of their book, "Passports for Asia," which is scheduled to be out the end of March or the first of April.

That it will be a most readable book goes without saying for Beatrice describes their travels in a witty, charming manner, and Harriet's maps and pictures are delightful. She took about 2,000 pictures but only 128 are to appear in the book. Beatrice is hoping that April will be the date of publication for she thinks April fools' day would be a perfect time on which to spring their first effort on the public, but we'll wager none of her friends would agree with her on that. She and her sister both have an enviable reputation for wit and humor as well as real erudition.

Antiquarians to Hear Lecture

Members of the Antiquarian society of the Art institute, that distinguished group of women interested in the decorative arts, will start Lent by listening to an illustrated lecture by Francis Henry Taylor. Invitations were received yesterday to the lecture, which will be given at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning, March 1, in the Goodman Studio theater.

Mr. Taylor is the director of the Worcester Art museum and he recently has attracted considerable attention in the world of art by his splendid work in arranging the exhibitions in Worcester's new museum. His wife, the former Pamela Coyne, lived in Chicago for several years after graduating from Bryn Mawr, and has many friends here. She is not coming to Chicago with her husband on this trip because it is to be a flying one [not literally, however], but he expects to be here again later in the spring for a longer stay and then Mrs. Taylor will accompany him.

Clever Parties for Miss Wilms

The thirty-odd guests who go to the buffet dinner that the Walter Paepckes are giving tomorrow night at their residence, 999 Lake Shore drive are to be dressed as they would be for a German or an English wedding, quite suitable for the occasion, for the party is for Miss Paula Wilms, who is to be married to Malcolm Henderson Thursday afternoon. Miss Wilms is of German descent and is a perfect "madchen" with fluffy blonde hair, blue eyes, and pink cheeks and Mr. Henderson, the British vice consul here, is as English as—strong tea with cream.

Mr. Paepcke is Miss Wilms' uncle and tomorrow night's party is the bridal dinner for this popular young bride-to-be. Yesterday afternoon Miss Margaret Quan entertained at tea for Miss Wilms and this afternoon the juniors of the Alliance Francaise are giving a "depression shower" (nothing that costs more than a dollar) for her at the residence of Mrs. Moise Dreyfus and her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Rosenthal, of 3330 Sheridan road. At 3 o'clock M. George Cauuet of the International theater is to talk on "Love." Mr. Dreyfus is vice president of the Alliance.

Miss Wilms and Mr. Henderson had planned to be married at the residence of the Rev. Duncan Browne, but they have decided instead to have the ceremony performed by Dr. Browne in the chapel of St. James' church. It is to be at 4 o'clock and there will be no one there but the bride's father, William Wilms, and her brother, Herman Paepcke Wilms, and his wife.

Three Enjoy Air Trip to India

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase telephoned yesterday to ask us to mention that the White Elephant Rummage shop, which is run at 27 East Ohio street for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital, will have its regular monthly home dressmakers' sale Thursday. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings will be in charge as usual.

Mrs. Chase said that the latest news from her daughter, Libby, was from India and that she and her two companions, Miss Josephine Patterson and Mrs. Joseph Brooks (Alicia Patterson) are having a glorious trip but that fleas and b-b-s were doing their pesky best to spoil the trip, but that nothing, not even such discomforts, could make it anything but a thrilling adventure.

The intrepid trio, who flew from Marseilles to Jodhpur, making the

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic Bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a newmade fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town and sends Bart help and taxies home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on the island fifteen years. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He confesses in a letter left for Bart to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly Island are his second family. They knew him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his invalid mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. When Bart realizes he loves Alice he resolves to stay away from Folly Island. He sees a lot of Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcee, and soon finds himself unexpectedly engaged. The Bayleys visit New York, and Bart sees them. Ingy Warren has been visiting the island and has invited Alice to Wyattville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement. Hen Love, an eel catcher, long employed by the Bayleys, tries blackmail when he sees their newly acquired affluence.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

A WEDDING DATE SET.

"We are engaged, aren't we, Bart dear?"

"Of course we are, Lora."

"We never seem to see each other any more, except going through the Grand Central station."

"I came to see you yesterday and you were off somewhere with Ingy Warren."

"I go around with a lot of boys. I've got to be a little on the loose, Bart, or I'd dry up, sitting around listening to mother's friends talking contract. I'd rather be with you all the time, but you're so busy with the office and your mother——and Pittsburgh——"

"Lora, I know it's rotten, being engaged so long."

"O, do you feel that way?"

Even though her voice broke a little and her eyes were limpid, he wondered if she were arranging this scene to her own satisfaction. But he said:

"Let's set a date pretty soon and get married. Something small and quiet. No fuss.

"O, darling, can we? Your mother——"

He happened to be in his room, looking out the bay window when a dreadfully modish Phaeton, all streamlines and silvery gadgets, came up the main driveway and stopped by the front door.

"She wants it that way."

The corners of her mouth went up, a curious grimace for Lora Sackett. He thought it was a laugh, then knew self consciously that she was beginning to cry. She put a hand to her face, and with the other fished hysterically for a silly pink handkerchief. Real tears were running down her powdered cheeks. She wasn't putting it on.

"Lora, what's the matter?" He was alarmed, embarrassed for fear that people would see her there, crying in public.

"Bart, I'm such a fool." She sat there sopping her eyes.

"But don't you want it so soon?"

"That's what I want, more than anything. That's what—what makes me cry. I want it so." Now she was smiling at him. "Bart, you're such a regular."

"Shall we make it in two or three weeks?"

"Middle of September. O, Bart."

"Well, you just settle the date, and——"

"Gosh, here comes a gang! Many footsteps were tatting along the flagged walk. Lora rose in haste. "Give me time to blow a little powder my way. I'll be back——"

Shortly after this it was apparent that Ingy Warren had taken a new girl; and this was made manifest before Bart's eyes. He happened to be in his room, looking out the bay window when a dreadfully modish phaeton, all streamlines and silvery gadgets, came up the main driveway and stopped by the front door. The top was up, and from under it came Ingy Warren, full of manner. He opened a side door and elaborately, carefully helped Miss Augusta Forrester down.

Aunt Augusta, holding Hero like a white chrysanthemum to her breast, was covered by the purplish silk tent she wore on grand occasions. It was refreshing to watch her, coquetting down at Ingy Warren. And Ingy, clad like a lily in white flannels, was bidding her a charming good-by. What a hold he had on women, even the old ones. But why was he, of all the people in the world, taking so much pains with Aunt Augusta?

A little later Bart met Aunt Augusta, more soberly clad, surging toward her duties in the garden. When she saw him her big face revealed a certain embarrassment, but she spaced her words carefully with the question:

"Barton, aren't you home rather early?"

"It was so boiling hot in town," he explained, "that I decided to knock off." Then, because she was moving toward the garden again, "Congratulations on your beau, Aunt Augusta."

"Don't draw on your imagination!" With something like a smirk. "At my age one may be permitted a little latitude, I think."

"Of course, if you don't mind being talked about." There was method in his teasing. "But now that you've grabbed Ingy you'll have half the girls in Wyattville laying for you with poison pens."

"It would be in better taste," said she severely, "if you'd let me explain. I had tea with the Warrens yesterday. Delightful people."

"Really? Don't I remember your saying that they were very new people?"

This gave her pause. But the chronic detective story reader was able to meet that.

"Do you know that they are related to the Pinkneys and the Warings of Newport—not at all like the newcomers on Bellevue avenue. The real Newporters, who came from Charleston and entertained Lafayette—"

"The curse is off," grinned Bart. "And out of that came Ingy Warren."

"He's a very thoughtful young man," said Aunt Augusta. When he learned that I'm interested in early American houses he offered to take me out to East Setauket and show me a Washington relic. It's called Roe's tavern and belongs to somebody who writes. It is really very authentic, and the room where Washington slept has been kept in period." Aunt Augusta coughed and added, "And that's all there is to it."

If she hadn't coughed and made that last remark possibly Bart might have believed that Ingy Warren had gone suddenly antiquarian and was taking out old ladies just for the pleasure they gave him. But Aunt Augusta was now clapping her hands in order to chide Hero for barking at a sparrow. Then she picked up her garden basket and surged away.

A little later, after Mrs. Burgess had appeared from her bath, her son said to her, among other things: "I see we have a scandal in our midst. Ingy and Aunt Augusta."

"It's very charming of him, I think. He took her out yesterday and today and he's coming again next week. Ingy has a nice side to him, and I think he's really interested in the things Aunt Augusta likes."

"I think so, too," agreed Bart, but it had a sinister sound.

Then mother went on talking about the wedding, which was set for the twenty-first of September. It was lucky for Kate Lind that they'd settled on a small affair, as Kate couldn't afford any heavy expenses. Large weddings are such a drain on people, unless they are very well to do. And about their going away—mother never spoke of it baldly as a honeymoon—of course they could go to Scotland and have Lord Dunstan's place for the shooting. Or wouldn't it be better to go to France for a few weeks, then come back by way of England?

"I'll take that up with Lora," he said.

"Haven't you children settled anything yet? Bart, you're usually so decided in what you want. You mustn't let Lora get you into drifting habits. She needs someone to decide things for her."

This from mother, whose decisions were so few and far between.

'Office Wife' Refuses Offer of an Outsider

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He's 32. Has been in love with the girl for ten years, but she says no, she'll never marry him.

She's 27, good looking, an admirable type of self-supporting woman, the main prop of her family, an all-round grand girl. He has besieged her for the last two years. She'll accept a date once in a while, out of pity, he thinks. She tells him to get some other girl, marry and produce a family.

The man says his hide isn't as thick as it may sound. He knows the girl means it when she says she won't marry him, but he's willing to stick around a couple of years more to see if by some miracle her mind might not be changed for her.

A cue to the girl's refusal may appear in her "passionate admiration for her employer," whose secretary she is. There's nothing questionable in the relationship. "Just one of those cases," the rebuffed suitor explains, "where a fine girl is wasting her best years in a devotion that, at best, will bring her nothing more than a pay envelop."

One of the "office wives," probably! Nothing wrong! She's little more than a machine to the man to whom she dedicates her devotion. An efficient machine, a well paid one—but no more than that, and liable to replacement once signs of wear begin to show.

This particular girl may not follow the pattern to the letter. She really and truly may not care enough for the man who wants to marry her. But with so many of the young women who dedicate their lives to their employers' interest there is that patient, adoring young man in the offing and you automatically work the jig-saw puzzle out that way.

trip by daytime hops and sleeping nights in Rome, Athens, Cairo, Bagdad, and one other place which Mrs Chase couldn't remember, expect to return home in April, or before "if the money gives out." Recently they have been with Maj. and Mrs. Ray Benson (Leslie Foster Nast) in the Himalayas, who are spending two months in India.

There will be "hen" parties galore in town and in the suburbs tonight, for all the Harvard alumni will be at the University club for the annual dinner of the Harvard club of Chicago and of course the wives will have to amuse themselves in some way.

Prominent Harvard alumni from other cities will be here for the dinner and also for the luncheon that the Chicagoans are giving at noon at the club for their out-of-town guests. This afternoon there will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Harvard clubs at which President Dwight P. Robinson of Philadelphia will preside.

See Portrait of Mrs. P. L. Smith

Friends of Mrs. Potter L. Smith of Barrington and of Mrs. James Bernard Mullen of Highland Park have been making it a point to visit the All Illinois Society of Fine Arts exhibition at the Stevens hotel recently to see the lovely portrait of Mrs. Smith that Mrs. Mullen has painted. Mrs. Mullen has three children, Jay and Modrea, aged 11 and 9 respectively, and a 4 months old baby, Clinton Buell, but she manages to keep up her art work just the same in the studio of her north shore residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal C. Vilas Jr. have just gotten back from their honeymoon in Bermuda and are busy settling their apartment at 21 East Elm street. If not the first, almost the first, guests they will have for dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. William E. Graham, who will dine with them some night this week. Mrs. Graham is the former Jane Lee, attractive blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. George Lee of the Ambassador hotel.

That her younger sister, Miss Martha Lee, is not coming to Chicago on her spring vacation from Smith college is a great disappointment to her friends here. However, she is going to have a very delightful vacation, starting off with the Princeton house parties and ending up with a trip to Bermuda with Mrs. Lee. They will sail around March 26 and will spend two weeks in that enchanted isle.

Mrs. Edward M. Harkness, the former Cynthia Kohlsaat, received the exciting news Saturday night that her brother, Edward C. Kohlsaat Jr., is the proud father of a brand new daughter. Mrs. Kohlsaat is the former Virginia Starr Meyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Starr Meyers of Princeton, N. J., and she and her husband are making their home in Princeton, although Mr. Kohlsaat's business takes him into New York every day.

The baby weighs eight pounds and has already been named Virginia Starr after her mother. Mr. Kohlsaat's mother, Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat of Winnetka, will undoubtedly shorten her three months' visit in Miami to go north to see her new grandchild.

Cyrus H. Adamses Return from Cruise

Miss Mary Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, had a hard time keeping her mind on history and science yesterday at the Girls' Latin school, for it was her first day back after a glorious two weeks' cruise down to the West Indies. Mr. and Mrs. Adams took their young daughter with them on their mid-year vacation for the first time this year. Now they are back in town to stay through the opening of A Century of Progress.

Russell Tyson left last night for Vancouver whence he will sail for China and Japan in the company of the Rt. Rev. Bishop James de Wolf Perry and Mrs. Perry and Mrs. James B. Russell. Bishop Perry is the primate of the Episcopal church in America and it was his great-uncle, Commodore Perry who opened up Japan to the modern civilization. Although Bishop and Mrs. Perry will go on a four months' tour of Japan, China and the Philippine and the Hawaiian islands, Mr. Tyson will leave them at the end of ten weeks and return to Chicago.

Business has delayed the departure of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne for New Orleans and Yucatan until the end of this week. According to their original plans, they were scheduled to leave town yesterday morning.

Interesting News About Travelers.

One of the best trips we've heard about in a long time is the European jaunt that Mrs. Oliver S. Picher has given her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Picher Purcell, and Miss Jane K. Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Rowe. Mrs. Purcell and Miss Rowe sailed the last of January. After two weeks in England, they went on to Paris and now intend to go from that gay city to Munich, Budapest, and Italy. They will be in Rome over Easter and return to Paris in May.

It is reported from Palm Beach that Mrs. Jacob Baur is being given many parties while she is visiting Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick. Mr. Chadwick joined his wife and guests at Villa Today last week and his wife gave a dinner for him the first night he was there.

Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey and her two daughters, Mrs. Harry Allen and Miss Mary MacCaughey, are occupying Mrs. MacCaughey's house on Via Tuscany, Winter Park, Fla.

MISS SHEILA SULTAN
[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Miss Sheila Sultan is one of the younger girls helping with arrangements for the card party and dance to be given tomorrow night by the officers and their wives of the regular army in this vicinity for the benefit of the Army Relief society. The party is to be in the Army and Navy club rooms in the Lake Shore Athletic Club building. Miss Sultan is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Dan I. Sultan.

The Stage

"The Bride Retires," a comedy with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle, will begin an engagement at the Blackstone theater next Sunday night. This play is an adaptation from the French of Felix Gandera by James Baron. Miss Hibbard's company will include Enid Markey, Edgar Mason, Gilbert Douglas, Jean Newcombe, Roy Karvin and Mrs. Jacques Martin.

Podrecca's puppet show company from Rome, called the "Theatro del Piccoli," will end its New York run March 5 and go on tour. It is a definite prospect for a Chicago engagement early in the spring. "The Piccoli" is the title used by this troupe for its American appearances. It has an extensive repertory of plays and operas, and is regarded as the most famous organization of puppeteers in the world.

"The Red Robin" is the title that has been selected for the musical comedy to be staged at the Grand Opera house within the next few weeks under the management of J. J. Shubert. It refers to a tavern in Vienna which is visited by a Chicagoan in the hope of recapturing the romantic spirit of his youth. Allan Jones, now singing the title rôle in "The Student Prince," will appear as the hero. Martha Lorber will have the leading feminine rôle.

"Camille," which has not been acted in Chicago since Sarah Bernhardt's tours, except by obscure stock companies, will be staged at International house next Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon. Marian Read and Robert Storer will have the central rôles.

This famous drama by the younger Dumas is coming into fashion again. Its heroine has been acted of late by Eva Le Gallienne, Jane Cowl, and Lillian Gish. Helen Morgan plans to appear in an operetta version of "Camille" next season. C. C.

Baxter Returns from Visit to Latin America

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—Warner Baxter and wife, Winifred Bryson, former actress, are back from a cruise. Baxter had played a Latin-American in so many films he finally grabbed a travel folder and bought tickets to see that territory.

Ring Lardner has joined the colony of writers, artists and actors at Palm Springs, the desert resort where February weather makes you think of mid-June back in Illinois.

Laurel and Hardy are booked as "Stannio Laurelo" and "Olivero Hardio," in the cast of Roach's musical comedy, "Fra Diavolo," which also presents that eyeful, Thelma Todd, and the tuneful Dennis King. Miss Todd plays the flirtatious lady Pamela, with bandages [that don't show] protecting her re-knitting fractured ribs. Miss Todd is just recovering from injuries received in an automobile collision.

Chico Marx went Wheeler and Woolsey [who wore skirts on the boulevard last week] one better by showing up at a party dressed as a maid, and in black face, and acted as hat check hostess for the evening.

Daily Exercise Will Improve Shoulder Line

Your Clothes Will Take On New Style, Also.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

As promised yesterday, shoulders will be today's theme, because observant folk have got around to judging a lady by the way she carries herself up there. It's the new focal point of attack. The clothes of the last few seasons probably have been of some influence in this new beauty crusade. And, again, shoulders do make all the difference in the world about the style of your clothes—and of yourself.

We've come a long way since some of us were little pig-tailed, freckle-nosed belligerants. We used to be nagged at to keep our shoulders squared. Now that sort of advice is out. It's been out for some time, thank goodness. So that ramrod spines seen about on young ones today aren't there because Mom scolded them that way.

However, there are a deal of shoulder girdles that would be better off had they been raised on the old formula than on the no-plan that's sent them drooping and crouching and allowing no style of anything admirable to the owner. It's harder to get rounded and crumpled-up shoulder blades whipped into good shape than it is the set pair. The latter just have to be relaxed: the former have to be completely retrained.

I want to give you one good exercise that will help those shoulders of yours, no matter what they are like. And if you'll do it a dozen or more times, morning and night for a month, you'll effect a remarkable change in your general style of bearing.

Lie on the floor on your back. Stretch like everything, every way. Arms out full length. Feet, ditto. Stretch, stretch, stretch, keeping the shoulders down on the floor! Meantime, keep rubbing those shoulder blades on the hard surface of the floor. Wriggle about on them, giving them a hearty massage this way. Relax. And massage some more.

When you've done this five times, keep heels on the floor and raise your hips off the floor and massage that shoulder blade surface some more. Then, as a last step in this three-in-one shoulder movement, swing your hands forward to touch the toe tips. Five times for this.

However, if you're new at exercising, do each part of the exercise only three times at first.

An illustrated booklet of Miss Donnelly's stretching exercises may be obtained by sending a stamped, self addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?
BY H. A. RIDLEY

AT THE POLICE CHIEFS' CONVENTION.

"Say, Joe," said Inspector Kelley to Prof. Fordney, who was guest of honor at a banquet closing the recent police chiefs' convention, "tell the fellows about our capture of 'Scar' Peterson, the gangster." Turning to his fellow guests, he continued: "There was a $5,000 reward for him, dead or alive. Well, we brought him back—but let Fordney tell you."

The eminent criminologist lighted a cigar and began his story. "We had traced 'Scar' to an isolated resort in northern Wisconsin. After showing his picture to the sheriff he said he thought our man was living in a cabin across the lake. Standing on the shore he pointed it out to us just as a man started over the bridge in its direction. He had gone about fifteen feet when Kelley recognized him as 'Scar.' Without a word we both went after him. Turning, he recognized us and began to run, with Kelley and I making as much speed as our years and girths permitted. When 'Scar' reached the middle of the bridge he climbed up on the railing and, as I shouted to him, over he went! The bridge was twenty feet above the lake and at that point the lake was twenty-three feet deep.

"You'll no doubt be surprised to learn that when we recovered the body we discovered he had not drowned, but had broken his neck!

"No, he didn't hit a rock, a passing boat, the bottom, the bridge on the way over or ANYTHING between the bridge and the lake.

"If you knew the answer yourself you might test the deductive ability of your subordinates when you get back by asking them how 'Scar' broke his neck!" laughed the professor.

HOW DID HE?

Madame Bruyere Uses Welted Woolen in Roughest Version for Spring Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Bigger and better ribs are running the length and breadth of woolens that French dressmakers use to make spring suits. The more obviously a material is ribbed the smarter it is, and there are lots of fabrics on which the ribs are so swollen as to become welts that cover the entire surface.

Simple sports suits made in these woolens are the last word in Parisian chic for early spring. Of course, you have to be slim to wear welts on your suit, but any woman can have ribs.

The Bruyere suit shown is made of the new welted woolen in its roughest version. It is dark blue in color and Mme. Bruyere has worked the welt pattern to show to advantage by putting four V shaped insets into the front of the jacket and two in the skirt. The welts are horizontal on the body of the jacket and on the sleeves, which are trimmed with diamond shaped pieces between elbows and wrists. The jacket has a high turnover collar that is held close around the neck by a bow made of white percale with a red dotted pattern.

The belt is dark blue leather and has a silver buckle, studded with red nail heads. The skirt is straight, with the ribbed pattern of the material running horizontally except for the encrusted pieces at the side seams.

Expert Buying of Vegetables Saves Dollars

BY MARY MEADE.

How are you as a vegetable marketer? Good? Not so sure of yourself?

So many folks have been sending in questions about how, when and where to buy fresh vegetables that I've decided we'll all profit by getting a few of the tips and rules for fresh food shopping down, where we can look at them—and see if thereby we can't save a few dollars each month on the food bills.

Right now, especially in large shipping centers such as Chicago, there's a glorious variety of both in and out of season vegetables to tempt thrifty buyers with excellent quality and the lowest fresh food prices in years.

If you've been casting calculating eyes over the bins and shelves or the food advertisements on Saturdays, you've noticed an interesting thing. We Americans have a well developed flair for accepting Sunday meals more than we do other meals in the week. Out of season foods which perhaps we pass by on Wednesday are in big demand in Saturday's shopping because of this yen of ours to add zest, crispness, and sparkle to our Sunday dinners, even though it may mean a bit more expense.

Merchants understand all about this. Therefore, over the week-end, as a rule, we find a wider variety of fresh vegetables to tempt us, reasonable prices, and most important of all, excellent quality.

In general, root vegetables to be good buys should be smooth skinned and even in shape. The medium sized cook more quickly than the large ones. Also, they lose less in skins than the very small ones.

Then, about freshness. Sometimes it may seem an economy to buy second grade green vegetables—ones that have been held over for a day at least and are not as fresh and perfect as they once were. We may take them home, crisp them in cold water, and decide they "will do," for the saving in expense. But still, if we could really compare the value we get with the amount we spend, we would find that "seconds" almost always contain so much waste that they turn out to be expensive buys. And green vegetables should be crisp and fresh for more than the sake of looks and economy.

It's true that sometimes we can freshen shriveled corn, lettuce, and such in appearance. Yet what we can't see, but what experiments have recently proved, is that no amount of freshening can replace the food value which should be at its height when vegetables are picked, and which lessens gradually but steadily as the food grows less fresh.

Sweet corn is not so sweet and other foods are not so well supplied with many of the essential health boosting vitamins after they have stood in the market for many hours. The best tip, then, is to choose yourself a food store which, in addition to supplying you with a wide range of prices, qualities and brands of foods, can insure you fresh vegetables and fruits at fair prices.

Then, when to buy fresh vegetables. Though smart marketers as much as possible learn to choose with their eyes rather than their hands, everyone isn't that considerate. So by late afternoon of any day, foods which were fresh at noon are likely to be a bit wilted. On the other hand, if we shop most heavily on Saturday, it is not good food economy to dash out and shop so early in the morning that we cheat ourselves of going pretty thoughtfully over the morning newspaper's food store tips, and, where it eseems wise, jotting down our market list from them.

Now, a quick thought for one of our best buys in fresh vegetables these pre-spring days—cauliflower. This, by the way, is one vegetable that shows pretty clearly when it has been aged or maltreated. Choose a head that is creamy white rather than brownish. The first signs of not-so-freshness show in discoloration around the edges near the protecting leaves.

Recently we suggested a variation of cauliflower Milanaise. It's usually prepared by cooking a whole cauliflower head until tender, sprinkling with Parmesan cheese and melted butter, and browning in the oven. My suggestion was that we use a package of cream cheese and spread over the hot, tender head, serving it up with a sprinkle of minced parsley over the lazily melting cheese.

But sometimes instead of cooking cauliflower in the Milanaise fashion, serve it à la Polonaise, thus:

CAULIFLOWER POLONAISE.
1-3 cup butter, melted.
1 cup fresh bread crumbs.
1 hard cooked egg.
2 teaspoons chopped parsley.

Remove the leaves from the cauliflower and soak two hours in salted water. Cook till tender in boiling salted water to which a few tablespoons of milk have been added. Drain and place in a serving dish and pour over it the Polonaise sauce, made in this way: Melt the butter in a frying pan and brown in it the bread crumbs. Add the hard cooked egg, chopped fine, and the parsley. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot.

College Band Is Solid Group of High Ideals

Carleton Symphony in Bow to Chicago.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Carleton Symphony band of Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., made its first Chicago appearance last night at Orchestra hall under the direction of James Robert Gillette.

Northfield would seem to be due for a high reputation because of what its colleges are doing for music. Several years ago and several times since the St. Olaf choir came to Chicago, and now it is followed by this band. The band, made up of some sixty-five undergraduates of its college, may be somewhat less striking as an organization. At the same time it is a solid group with what would seem to be high musical ideals.

It is making an earnest effort to do as a concert band what symphony orchestras do in their own field. That is to say, instead of marches and operetta selections it plays the Bach-Abert Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue, Wagner's "Rienzi" overture, a special band symphony by Paul Fauchey, and works of that order. More to the purpose, it plays them well. There is a large, almost too large, clarinet section, taking the place of violins in the symphony orchestra; an excellent brass section, using trumpets instead of cornets for its higher voices, and what the band as a whole loses in brilliancy by this makeup it gains in mellowness. Conductor Gillette has done serious work with his forces and has obtained entirely praiseworthy results.

Ruth Page of Chicago and Harald Kreutzberg of Europe are scheduled for a joint dance program at the Studebaker theater Saturday night, and from this distance it looks like an uncommonly interesting event. Both are artists of great merit, and both have made their mark both here and elsewhere. Miss Page is well known hereabouts for the delicate, imaginative charm of her performances; Mr. Kreutzberg is by a considerable margin the ablest male dancer on the stage today. They are both modern, they have both danced all over the world, and they are leaving immediately to give another joint performance in San Francisco.

Miss Page will present some of the most popular numbers of her recent New York recital, two island songs called "Tropic" and "Possessed," and a group of "Humoresques." Mr. Kreutzberg will do his latest dance creation, "Till Eulenspiegel," inspired by the famous Strauss tone poem, "Three Made Figures," "Three Hungarian Dances," "Master of Ceremonies," and "Pieta," a lamentation of Christ on the cross. The two artists will appear together in Poulenc's "Promenade" and Mozart's "Fantasie." Frederick Wickens will be at the piano.

Big Sisters to Give Party to Raise Funds for Work

A pre-Lenten card party will be given by the Big Sisters to raise funds for their services to the less fortunate. The party will be held next Tuesday at the Palmer house. Mrs. George V. McIntyre has been president of the group for fifteen years. "Now as never before are funds needed for Big Sister activities," Mrs. McIntyre said. "In the sixteen years of this organization's history never has there been so urgent and such numerous demands for relief. Many of the most loyal supporters have found it necessary to lessen and in some instances to discontinue their gifts."

To improve Any child's APPETITE

If you want your child to eat more to gain and grow strong, begin this very night with the famous "California treatment!"

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States.

The one way to conquer constipation If your baby, boy or girl is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little syrup of figs that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never has made a finer laxative for children; they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, keep well and avoid colds.

NOTICE: The bottlers of California Syrup of Figs respectfully warn mothers that the promises made here apply only to the genuine product in bottles plainly marked CALIFORNIA.

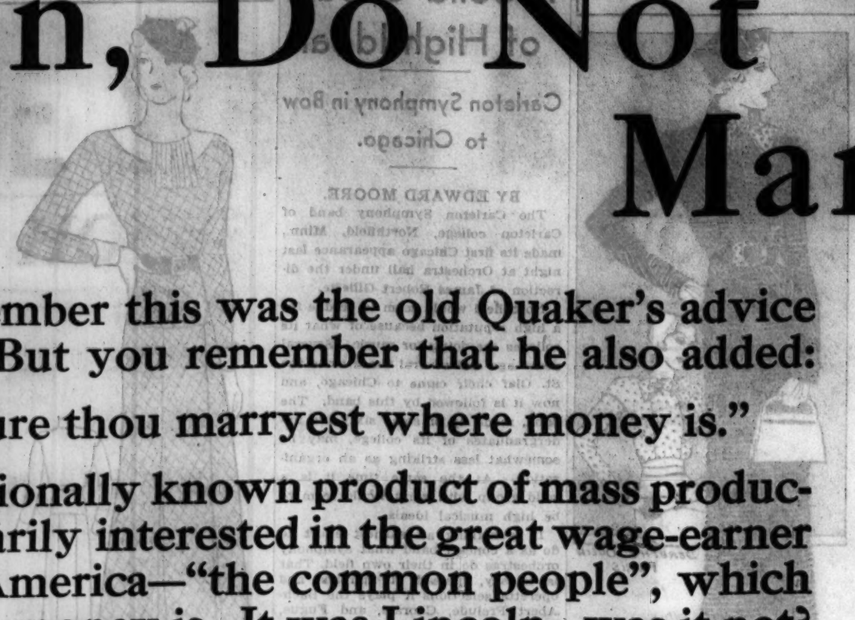
"Son, Do Not Thee Marry for Money"



You remember this was the old Quaker's advice to his son. But you remember that he also added:

"But be sure thou marryest where money is."

Every nationally known product of mass production is primarily interested in the great wage-earner market of America—"the common people", which is where the money is. It was Lincoln—was it not?—who said, "The Lord must love the common people because he made so many of them."

So, the first thing the American manufacturer wants to know is whether or not this great wage-earning market, which is the last great market left, can carry the load and increase his present production. And whether or not he can make money out of it now.

And we are able to tell you that it can carry the load, that it can increase your present production if you go after it right, and that you can make money out of it now. There are some twenty-three million of your wage-earning masses still working in these United States and a very high percentage of them are in comparatively better shape than they were before.

You simply have to be more selective in handling this market—that is all.

And that is where True Story Magazine is able to render you remarkable service and bring far more than ordinary returns to you who are spending your advertising money.

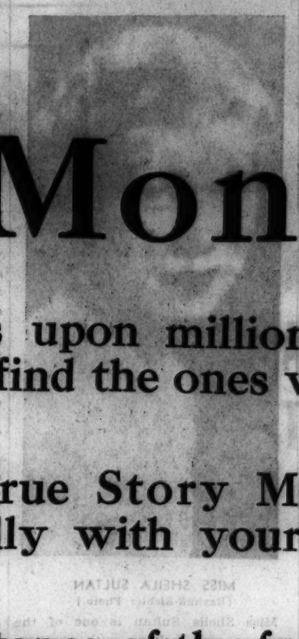
But first it is well to remember that the homes of your working masses still consume sixty-eight percent of all products by volume and dollars.

Nobody even hopes any more to get along without them. We should all like to sell the Class A homes exclusively. It would flatter our vanity. But there are only a million and a half of them altogether. So if we were selling coffee, for example, we would have to make those Class A homes drink twenty cups of coffee per person, per day, per home to give us our volume.

All of your upper class homes, in all your "white-collar classes", make up only thirty-two percent of your sales by dollars, numbers, or volume.

That is why Mr. Ford and Mr. Chrysler and General Motors are so interested in their Fords and Plymouths and Chevies. That is why General Motors announces that it is only making four hundred Cadillacs V 16 for the entire year of 1933.

So it is out of the homes of your working masses that you must find your sales to increase your volume and make your profit. And, of course, from amongst those millions upon millions of wage-earner homes you must find the ones who are still able and ready to buy.



And that is where True Story Magazine can help you so wonderfully with your process of selectivity.

The very great importance of the fact that True Story Magazine is practically all news stand circulation may not have occurred to you. But it means one thing: the family that buys it is still working, still on the job, and still in a buying frame of mind or it would not start its buying with our high-priced True Story Magazine.

In wage-earning America, we know this only too well to have any question about it. When wage-earners get out of a job, their families stop buying True Story. When they get back on a job and get ready to spend, they start buying it again.

True Story follows the pay-roll. It always has.

This is not true of other magazines, as sixty to seventy percent of their circulation is sold for one, two, or three years via the subscription route.

Which means that in sixty percent of those homes, the family head may have been out of a position or out of income or not in a buying mood anywhere from one to three years and still be reading his subscription purchased magazine.

Consequently, the first thing True Story Magazine can do for you is to give you nearly two million homes where the earners of the family are still on the job, still drawing down their pay envelopes every week and still drawing down enough in their pay envelopes to give them the buying capacity that you need and keep them in a buying frame of mind.

And they are quite ready and willing to buy your product even if it happens to cost a little more.

For it must not be forgotten that these two million families, collectively, paid over the news stand twice as much for True Story as is paid for any other magazine.

If they are willing and able to pay a great deal more for our product, they ought to be willing and able to pay a little more for yours if you tell them why.

So here through True Story Magazine you are able to reach nearly two million families from amongst your working masses who are still employed; and through the interest of these two million families, to find the penetration point of millions more.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Boxing fans stormed Loyola university gymnasium last night to see the first round of north side Golden Gloves. More than 3,100 occupied every seat on the main floor and in the balcony. Late comers stood at the ends of the bleachers which faced the two rings.

The succession of fiercely fought battles and knockouts, already has been seen by thousands of Golden Gloves fans on the west and far south sides of Chicago. Last night the north section came to look over the boys who will share in the honor of representing Chicago against the teams from 23 cities in the Tournament of Champions which begins at the Stadium next Monday.

Even Novices Are Tough.

Let it be said now, in warning to Chicago's other sectional teams, that the north siders are a tough, hardy lot. Many of the novices who fought last night seemed capable of giving lessons to some of the open division fighters who passed in review last week.

Tonight the north side trials will continue at Loyola. More than 100 bouts are scheduled in two rings, which indicates that the boxing will be continuous for four hours. The first bouts start at 7 o'clock. Admission is 60 cents, thus offering the greatest boxing bargain of all time. The ticket offices will open at 6 o'clock.

Windup Tomorrow Night.

Thirty-two boys, sixteen novices and sixteen boys who have had more experience, will finish the north side trials tomorrow night. The others of the group of 325 which reported yesterday will have fallen out of the competition, either by knockout or decision. Not all can reach the finals of Chicago's first novice tournament or qualify for the Tournament of Champions, but it's the thrill of trying that brings record numbers to Golden Gloves.

It is too early, of course, to predict who will win qualifying medals on the north side, but bout after bout carried a thrill to contestants and spectators. Roars of approval swept the gymnasium for those lads who, by courage and determination, overcame odds to win.

What a Comeback!

No fight was better proof of this spontaneous appreciation by the crowd than the last match of the evening. Bus Bergmann, unattached novice light heavyweight, went down three times before the furious assault of Edwin Becker of the Harding Juniors. None could have blamed this boy if he had stayed on the floor. Indeed, the referee nearly stepped between the boxers.

Then, after a minute's rest, Bergmann came back. Undaunted by his previous inability to land his swinging blows, he pressed forward until, in his opponent's corner, his right crashed to Becker's jaw. That was the end and the crowd, which had paused on its way to the exits, gave the victor unstinted applause.

Did you ever see a Norwegian and

Hero Award Not Enough for Wanland; Seeks Golden Gloves

BY ARCH WARD.

George Wanland, a Chicago policeman, has demonstrated his ability as a marksman. He won THE TRIBUNE award for bravery in November, 1925, by killing a bandit and shooting it out with another in an attempted holdup. He now plans to show his friends he knows how to use his fists as well as his gun. Wanland has entered the novice heavyweight division in Golden Gloves and was among the hundreds who reported for physical examination yesterday. He has eight citations for bravery. He will merit another if he survives the competition for heavyweight honors in THE TRIBUNE'S big boxing tournament. He will make his first appearance tonight.

There is no depression in Golden Gloves. Last night's figures for attendance and contestants far exceeded 1932 records for the same section.

Billy Celebron, welterweight, and Bud Marcy, featherweight, who were members of Chicago's inter-city squad last year, were among the entrants who showed up at Loyola. Lenny Cohen, a flyweight on the 1932 International squad, was another favorite who returned.

Joe Nolan, a red headed Irishman, is perhaps the most disappointed young man in Chicago this morning. He neglected to send in his entry in time to be registered for the north side trials. He called an official of the tournament yesterday afternoon and said: "Say, can't you let me fight? I read the entry list published in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE and saw the name of a fellow I want to lick." No post entries are accepted, so Nolan's request was refused.

Tonight's program at Loyola will open at 7 o'clock and there will be about 100 bouts. Two rings again will be employed.

Nearly 10 per cent of the candidates who reported for examination yesterday were rejected for minor physical defects. Several had been boxing regularly in amateur bouts.

One of the best looking welterweights was Michael Morris of Kid Howard's gym. He has engaged in 90 bouts, winning 45 by knockouts. He is a construction worker. He will not box until tomorrow night.

George Haberski, last year's Catholic Youth bantamweight champion, who was knocked out in his first start in Golden Gloves, is back this year seeking the featherweight championship. He will fight his first bout tomorrow night.

CORBETT AS "COPY."

FROM the viewpoint of reporters, Jim Corbett, Jack Dempsey, and Gene Tunney furnished the best "copy" within The Wake's newspaper experience, which did not include John L. Sullivan until the latter was ex-champion. Of these Corbett was most willing, perhaps not altogether unselfishly, in helping to originate a story.

Back in the '90s as a kid reporter we were assigned to interview Champion Corbett at the première of a theatrical appearance here. A match with Bob Fitzsimmons, the one in which he lost his title, already was in sight. Corbett was en tour and in other cities already had expressed his uncomplimentary opinion of "Ruby Bob" and had applied all the printable epithets to his future opponent which it was then the vogue for rivals to call each other in advance of a bout.

We had no difficulty in securing ingress to Gentleman Jim's dressing room at the old Chicago Opera house at the conclusion of his act, where he graciously received us, still perspiring from his exercise and ready for massage and a rubdown. While these operations proceeded we plied the usual questions and asked others in the hope of getting something new.

As the interview was about to end we realized we had nothing more than a routine commonplace yarn that Corbett was in the city. He evidently sensed this, too, and a routine commonplace yarn was not a box office builder. So Corbett, as perhaps our greatest fistic creator of publicity, roused and launched forth on a discussion of the tactics he would use when, as and if he did meet Fitzsimmons and how he would thwart the latter's attack. It was a good story, whether or not he was revealing what he actually intended to do.

Now at that time we were not well known to Corbett. It simply was that he recognized the value of publicity and was willing to contribute his part toward it.

Long after the Fitzsimmons fight and after he came so near to regaining the title from Jim Jeffries, who had beaten Bob Fitzsimmons, Corbett contracted to write a series of weekly articles for THE TRIBUNE. At that time we were sports editor of this newspaper, and naturally talked over the series in advance with Gentleman Jim.

Series of this nature usually are "ghosted," to which our department always has been opposed on the theory that it is an imposition on the reader. Corbett promised to write the stuff himself. His copy came in typewritten. It contained the thoughts he had expressed to us, and many of the identical expressions he had used to us in advance. Corrections in the text were in pencil in Corbett's own handwriting. If Corbett did not actually write the stuff himself he was its creator and so close to it that it was his own work to all intents and purposes.

Jack Dempsey always was good copy because he was a spectacular, aggressive slugger in contrast to Corbett's more clever boxing. In his earlier days before he had acquired his present polish and tact Dempsey was rather indifferent to interviewers unless he knew them. With newspaper friends Dempsey was informal. Good stories from him were the result of questions frankly answered. Creation of the story rested with the interviewer rather than with the champion.

Gene Tunney, for a champion, was not popular with the press as a whole or with the public. He was temperamental or seemed so to those whom he met only casually in their reportorial capacity. That accounted in part for the impression that he became "up stage" with success. As a result he was frequently "roasted" or ridiculed, which made him more wary than ever in his relations with the press.

It so happened Tunney always was cordial and courteous to The Wake, although we never were in the circle of his intimate newspaper friends, nor would we care to be. We liked him and excused his aloofness to a certain extent. If he wished to rise above his profession, as he ultimately did after taking his financial toll, that was his business, and creditable. One could be less sympathetic toward such an attitude while he still was profiting from his pugilistic, not his society, associations. At the same time we respected Gene's ambition to advance in the world after his ring retirement. He was an unusual character in the list of champions.

Hawks Recall Holmes from Tulsa Sextet

Louis Holmes, young left wing, was recalled from the Tulsa club of the American Hockey league by the Chicago Blackhawks last night. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president, said he believes the Hawks have an excellent chance to enter the Stanley cup play-off and that Holmes is needed in the final drive. Holmes was with the Hawks when the season opened.

FIGHT CARNERA? O, NO, SHARKEY MIGHT GET HURT

Champion Dodges Behind Commission Rule.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—By a queer turn of events, Primo Carnera finds himself forbidden to fight the heavyweight champion of the world on the ground that he does not know his own strength and might inflict grievous bodily harm on the champion.

This seems to put Sharkey in an embarrassing position, because the theory of the distinguished office which he holds always has been that the heavyweight champion could lick anybody in the world. This is the first time that it has been thought necessary to adopt a regulation to prevent any individual from beating up the champion.

Another heavyweight champion might feel humiliated by this solicitious order which implies so plainly that he is not able to take care of himself, but Mr. Sharkey does not humiliate easily and he probably will bow to the authority of the commission for the good of the grand old game which all true, red-blooded sportsmen hold dear.

How About Last Summer?

If he had the normal capacity for humiliation he might have renounced the championship the moment it was conferred on him at the Long Island City arena last summer. He had finished the fifteen rounds with the left side of his face seriously dislocated and pretty well beaten up generally by a man whom he had been unable to hit and was too timid to try to hit except with a pecking left jab.

When the stirring contest was over and the two beautifully trained, lithe, lean bodies had recoiled from their last embrace it was quite apparent that Max Schmeling had given Jack Sharkey a licking and the official decision that Sharkey had won sounded like brutal sarcasm. Mr. Sharkey did not take it as such, however, having no very sharp sense of humor, and he accepted the title under conditions which would have moved another type of sportsman to decline it. This type of sportsman is not conspicuous in the prize fighting business, however, and Sharkey has been enjoying the honor all these months quite as freely as though he had actually won it in battle.

This Finishes It.

The order to protect the heavyweight champion from grievous bodily harm at the hands of a challenger just about completes the degradation of a title which, in the American scale of public honors, once threatened to excel the very presidency. Long ago, it was tacitly decided that the champion should not be asked to fight and lick every good man who came along in order to retain his title. Instead, he was expected to fight only once a year or, possibly only twice in three years, and not necessarily to meet the best man, either, but rather, the best showman or the man with the most influential managers.

This led to the generous gift of shares in ambitious heavyweight pugilists, among the politicians with Tammany connections, in the hope that they would thus be advanced to the challenging position at the expense of superior fighters on the list of eligibles. Some of the young gladiators were cut into so many shares that they found that they could not afford to make any money because they were pledged to pay out more than 100 per cent of their receivings to the political partners interested in their operation. Then holding companies were formed and new shares were issued in these and finally repudiation came in certain cases.

No Fight, No Licking.

They agreed to the proposition that a champion remained such until somebody licked him under official conditions. If he did not fight, obviously nobody could lick him, but that was just a weakness of the law which had to be put up with. The championship was still poetically known as the highest bauble in fistiana's realm.

However, the time came when the reigning heavyweight champion gave up the office and retired, leaving no

SO LONG, CHICAGO, UNTIL APRIL!

22 Players of Cubs, Giants Off for Coast

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

That well worn spring training number, "California, Here We Come," as rendered by the Cubs received additional impetus last night as the advance party of Chicago's National league champions entrained at the Dearborn street station for their journey to the scene of their annual preseason exercises at Catalina island.

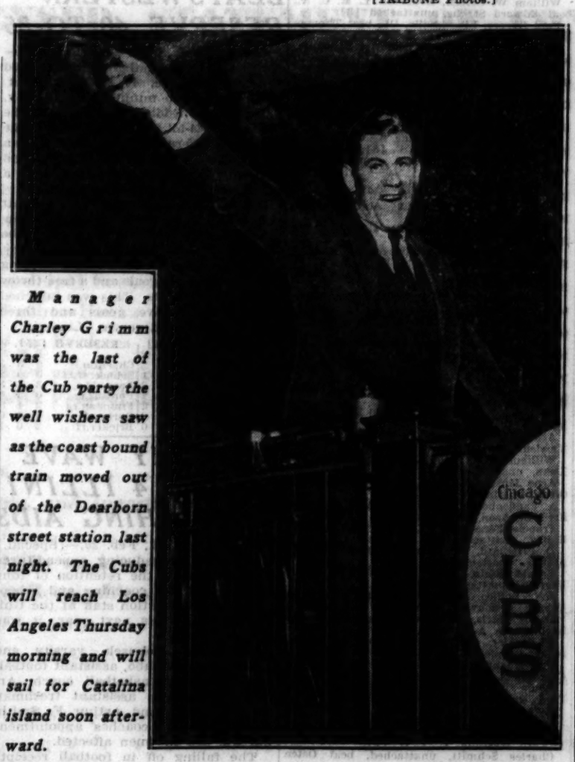
The extra portion of the chorus was supplied by none other than the Cubs' most ancient foes, the New York Giants, who joined them in boarding a nine car special train. The Giants will end their transcontinental trip at Los Angeles, where they will invade the Angels' yard for their conditioning program.

Veeck, Grimm Head Party.

The heads of the delegation were President Bill Veeck and Charley Grimm, who is entering his first full time season as manager of the Bruins. Bill Terry, who is commencing a similar chore with the Giants, was not present. Terry and his shortstop, Travis Jackson, who claims his knees are ready and sound for a full season now, went direct to the coast from Memphis, Tenn.

The entire party numbered 56, of whom 22 were players. In the Cub section were Manager Grimm, Pitchers Pat Malone, Guy Bush, Roy Henshaw, Buck Newsom, and Beryl Richmond; Catchers Gabby Hartnett, his brother Herman, and Zack Taylor; Coach Jimmy Corriden; Capt. Woody English and Bill Herman, and Riggs Stephenson. At Kansas City, the first big stop on the trip, they will be joined by Burleigh Grimes, Lon Warneke, Lynn Nelson, and John Schulte.

A crowd of more than 200 stormed around the gates at the Dearborn street station at 8 o'clock last night, half an hour before the train left, for a glimpse of the Cubs. Manager Grimm, still limping from a recent attack of lumbago, was easily identified among the first to reach the scene of the departure. It appeared that the party's journey to the coast might be dimmed by the absence of Charley's best beloved banjo when it was learned that he had forgotten the instrument, but he saved the situation by announcing he had made plans to have it mailed to him from his home in St. Louis.



Manager Charley Grimm was the last of the Cub party the well wishers saw as the coast bound train moved out of the Dearborn street station last night. The Cubs will reach Los Angeles Thursday morning and will sail for Catalina island soon afterward.

SOX SIGN AUSTIN

Another member was added yesterday to the White Sox party which will depart from Chicago Thursday for the new spring training camp of the Hose at Pasadena, Cal. He is Jimmy Austin, with the Browns for twenty years as a player and coach, who signed yesterday as a member of the Sox coaching staff.

CORBETT BURIED; STAGE AND RING NOTABLES MOURN

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A long cortège of automobiles wound through the streets of Queens in the rain today from a little home in Bayside, across the bridge, down Broadway and to the "Actors' church"—St. Malachy's, in 49th street.

There, while a crowd of his old friends, the ancient great of stage and ring, packed the pews or stood bareheaded in the wet outside the doors, a requiem mass was said for James J. Corbett, the heavyweight who took the title 40 years ago from John L. Sullivan.

When it ended there was another slow procession to Cypress cemetery.

About 600 men and women packed into the church for the funeral. Outside in the street, despite the rain, there were 1,000 more.

Mrs. Corbett, with a family friend, John Kelleher, was in the first pew. Among the mourners were William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden; Jack Sharkey, present owner of the title Corbett held; Joe Jacobs, and William A. Brady, who managed Corbett in the ring and put him on the stage.

WILDCATS LEAD AT HALF, 25-15, THEN FOLD UP

Iowa 8th Victim of Buckeyes.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Purdue eliminated Northwestern as a serious threat in the Big Ten basketball race tonight by defeating the Purple, 42 to 40. After trailing by ten points at the end of the first half, Purdue drew abreast of Northwestern under the stimulus of three field goals by Ralph Parmenter in rapid succession at the start of the second period.

Northwestern led throughout the first half. Purdue's rigid vigil over Johnson and Rieff was nullified by long shots by Culver and Moonshower.

The Wildcats had a 25 to 15 advantage at intermisison.

N. U. Lead Sliced.

Parmenter dropped in three field goals, and Moore, who had replaced Wheeler, matched a field goal by Johnson to cut this lead to four points in the first two minutes of the second half, 27 to 23. This margin remained intact until the waning minutes of the half when Fehring and Shaver tied the score at 37 to 37 with field goals.

Moonshower's fourth foul gave Purdue the lead when Fehring made one of the two free throws. Shaver made it 40 to 37 with a long field goal.

Shaver fouled Reiff and was ejected, Reiff scoring one of the free throws. Moore dropped in another basket for Purdue when he got behind Manske on a long pass, and just before the gun Brewer went through the futile motions of adding two more free throws on Moore's foul.

Reiff's Total Now 117.

Reiff remained in an advantageous position to tie the Big Ten individual scoring record by getting 15 points, seven of which were made on free throws. This brought his total for 8 games up to 117.

HAWKS LOSE CENTER, GAME

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Two substitutes, sent into the game early in the first period enabled Ohio State to continue its march to the Western conference basketball title tonight by defeating Iowa, 38 to 23. It was the Buckeyes' eighth straight victory. The attendance was 8,374, a season record.

Brown, a substitute forward, and Conrad, Hosket's understudy at center, led the rally that won the game after the Hawkeyes had led at half time, 14 to 13.

Bastian, Iowa center, was ejected from the game on four personals near the end of the first period, and with him went Iowa's hopes for victory. Conrad of Ohio had no trouble in getting the tip off in the second half.

Ohio State started the second half with a basket by Conrad, putting Ohio out in front 15 to 14. Iowa made one last spurt, taking the lead at 21 to 18, but then the Buckeyes' offense started to click. Iowa was stopped dead while Ohio ran the score up to 36 to 21 on four successive baskets by Brown, and one each by Conrad, Hosket, and Hinchman.

TRINER INDUCTED AS CHAIRMAN OF RING COMMISSION

Three Shows at Stadium Are Sanctioned.

Joseph Triner of Chicago yesterday was inducted into office as the fifth chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission by Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk. Scores of Triner's relatives and friends crowded the flower bedecked offices of the commission in the Mallers building to hear the county clerk administer the oath of office to Triner.

The induction proceedings lasted an hour and a half, and thirty minutes later, 1 o'clock, Triner did his first official act. He sent the following telegram to Mayor Cermak, who is at Jackson Memorial hospital at Miami, Fla., fighting to recover from a bullet wound inflicted by a maniac recently:

"Have just taken office. The boxing and wrestling fans of Chicago are pulling for you to win. You are their real champion who does not know what the word quit means. Hurry and get well. We need your advice and counsel."

Getz Is Absent.

A few minutes later the regular meeting of the commission convened. Gen. John V. Clinnin, the outgoing chairman of the board, sat with Triner in an advisory capacity. Packey McFarland, who replaced Fred Gardner on the commission, also was present, but George Getz, a holdover from the preceding board, was absent.

An announcement that has been awaited ever since the Chicago Stadium went into a friendly receivership several weeks ago was obtained when Joe Foley appeared before the commission and had his application and bond to operate as a promoter at the big west side building approved. Foley's request to present a wrestling show at the Stadium on March 3 and boxing cards on March 10 and 24 was sanctioned. The wrestling show will bring together Jim Londos and Joe Stecher and John [Doc] Krone is named as the matchmaker. Nate Lewis is matchmaker of the boxing cards.

Roosevelt Haines, junior lightweight, will substitute for Sammy Levine against Paul Dazzo in the eight round semi-windup match on the boxing program at the Washington Boulevard arena tomorrow night. Barney Ross will be making his first 1933 appearance in Chicago against Tommy Grogan, Omaha, in the ten round windup bout.

Izzy Gastanaga, Spanish heavyweight, and Babe Hunt, Oklahoma, began training yesterday for their ten round bout at the Coliseum Friday night. Tuffy Griffith, who will be making his first ring appearance in several months, said he expected to weigh 190 pounds for his bout with Otto Von Porat. They will meet in the ten round feature match.

A charity amateur boxing show will be held at the Medinah Athletic club, 505 North Michigan avenue, tonight. It will be sponsored by the Free Sons of Israel.

Six boxing matches and one wrestling bout will make up the weekly professional show this evening at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Walter Statkus will meet Einar Hedquist five rounds at 150 pounds in the windup. The semi windup will bring together Laddie Tonelli and Rex Torres, five rounds.

Even an Angler Finds This Angle Quite Confusing

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman, you'd better get a book of synonyms this year if you are going to do much traveling with your tackle in central states waters. The large number of names applied to various game fish seems to be increasing. According to a listing made by Michigan the number of unusual and in some cases ridiculous names given to bass, pike, bullheads, and other species by fishermen in adjoining states is going to make it almost impossible for two anglers to talk intelligently with each other.

For example, if an Illinois fisherman were to hear a fellow angler say that he had just caught a good mess of "bride perch" or "cow bass" the discussion might end in a fight. Any Illinois angler probably would resent such names being applied to that old favorite—the large mouth black bass.

There is hardly a fish in Illinois, Wisconsin, or Michigan waters which doesn't have from six to sixty different names. Alfred Weed of the Field museum listed more than fifty different names for Esox lucius, the northern pike or pickerel, when he studied the pike and wrote his handbook on the family. It appears that nearly every group of lakes has a different name for this widely distributed fish. Even Izaak Walton gets into the list when he applies the name "luce" to Esox lucius.

Now Michigan adds its contribution to this confusion of names by telling sportsmen that they need not be surprised to hear a black bass called a white bass and a sunfish a moonfish.

The large mouth black bass has many names. Some of them are ridiculous. For instance, a large mouth may be designated as a green bass [fairly common in the north], a white bass, a welshman, a bride perch, cow bass, southern chub, or a yellow pond perch.

We would guess that a southern fisherman must have first called a bluegill a bluejo, which is another new name for the bluegill. Dollardees and blue perch are other names by which the little bluegill is known. Not even the pike perch or walleye escapes this game of masquerading. This species is known in various parts of the country as the river trout, the jack salmon, and the blowfish.

Golden Gloves on South Side to Open Tomorrow

The south section of the Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament opens tomorrow night at White City. The original opening date was Thursday. However, the large number of entires, 812, has made it necessary to move the tournament up one day.

All contestants in both Open and Novice divisions must report between 2 and 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, for physical examinations and to be weighed.

a Belgian put on a real scrap? Last night Aren Jansen of the Norwegian-American A. A. and Alphonse Vandenbosch of the Belgian-Americans put on a battle which contained more action than a half dozen professional fights. The young Belgian, by the way, started boxing two years ago in the north section Golden Gloves. Raw and inexperienced, he lost that first scrap.

Last night for two rounds the boys exchanged punches, side stepping some, but willing at all times to battle it out. In the third round Jansen, the straighter puncher, scored a bull's eye and the referee stopped the fight with Vandenbosch on the floor.

Tomorrow night the north section will end. At the same time the south section will start at White City. By Friday, Chicago's perliminaries will be over. Then comes the invasion of the Stadium by teams from seven states. And that will be the greatest tournament Chicago ever has seen.

NOTRE DAME BEATS WESTERN RESERVE, 40 TO 35

Cleveland, O., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball team defeated Western Reserve, 40 to 35, tonight. With about two minutes left to play, a basket by Eddie Finnigan tied the score at 34-all. Voegele broke the deadlock several seconds later with a shot from the middle of the court and then put the game in the bag with a short goal. Crowe added another.

Notre Dame had a 24 to 15 lead at the half. Reserve rallied in the second half, but the Irish were not to be denied.

Krause was Notre Dame's scoring ace, shooting six goals and a free throw for thirteen points. This was matched by Charillo's five goals and three free throws for Reserves. Lineup:

ECONOMY WAVE TAKES 4 ILLINI COACHING AIDS

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Necessity of reducing expenditures will not permit the retention of four members of the coaching and school of physical education staff at the University of Illinois next year, it was learned today.

The falling off in football receipts demanded a decreased athletic budget, it was said.

Hey, Primo! It's No Fair to Lick a Champ

worthy successor, and presently the New York commissioners decided to create a new champion by main strength. The commission always had been quite fond of Mr. Sharkey, and the learned William Muldoon, a professor of physical culture, had predicted a brilliant career for him. Prof. Muldoon does not like to be wrong. He was in an official position to make his prediction right by main strength in this case, although it took two attempts to achieve that result.

Prof. Muldoon Does a Reverse.

It was decided that Sharkey and Max Schmeling should fight for the title and Sharkey fouled Schmeling. Although it had always been held that a fouled fighter should be declared the winner, when this happened in a heavyweight championship contest the patrons of the grand old game suddenly realized that they had sentimental objections to the transfer of the honor by such means.

In fact, Prof. Muldoon crossed himself up by refusing to recognize Schmeling although he had won under the professor's own foul rule in a contest which the professor himself had designated as a championship affray. Consistency never was one of the professor's worries, however, and anyway, he had predicted that brilliant career for Sharkey and he still wished to be right.

The patrons, however, reluctantly and halfheartedly recognized Schmeling, and two years later Prof. Muldoon crossed himself up again by recognizing a second fight between Sharkey and Schmeling as another heavyweight title fight.

So Muldoon Is Right.

This time, although Schmeling beat Sharkey badly, the officials vindicated the professor's early judgment by a 2 to 1 vote and the professor quickly recognized Sharkey as champion of the world. Now that he has proved himself right after so much difficulty he seems determined to protect his shrewd foresight with regard to Jack Sharkey by forbidding him to fight people who can lick him. This may leave Sharkey with nobody to fight, for you can never tell who is going to lick him.

MEDINAH O.K.'D BY U. S. G. A. AS SITE FOR OPEN TRIALS

Prescott S. Bush, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf association, yesterday notified Allan W. Hale, chairman of the tournament committee of the Chicago District Golf association, that the selection of the Medinah Country club for the qualifying round of the national open championship for the Chicago district on May 15 is satisfactory.

The event will be played over the No. 1 and No. 3 courses at Medinah as a big entry list is expected and it would be impossible to play over a single course so early in the season. The open proper will be held at North Shore, June 8, 9, and 10.

PINETZKI PINS GLENN MUNN IN TWELVE MINUTES

Leon Pinetzki, 280 pound Polish wrestler, defeated Glen Munn of Nebraska in a one fall match last night at the Rainbo Gardens. He pinned the Nebraskan in 12 minutes with a body lock. Munn weighed 230 pounds.

WHAT'S THIS? LEWIS PINNED IN MAT MATCH

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Jim Browning, husky Bostonian, pinned Ed (Strangler) Lewis in 57 minutes and 50 seconds of a finish match at Madison Square Garden tonight.

With a quick turnover and his favorite body scissors, Browning, aggressor throughout the match, the man on top in the majority of times they went to the mat, threw the wrestler who, in a career extending over about 20 years, has been thrown only about half a dozen times.

MICHIGAN PLAN BELIEVED CURE FOR BANK WOES

Financiers Think It Will Aid Deposits.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Out of the Michigan bank moratorium, well informed Chicago bankers are beginning to believe, is likely to come a new and better way of handling troubled bank situations.

Up to the present chief dependence has been placed on the Reconstruction Finance corporation. But the nectar that the R. F. C. offered turned out to be vinegar in many cases.

The theory was that when a bank was so hard pressed by depositors that it couldn't liquefy its slow assets fast enough to cover withdrawals the R. F. C. would step into the breach with a loan.

Experience has shown, however, that a great many banks that borrowed from the R. F. C. subsequently failed. Inasmuch as the good assets had been taken to Washington to secure the R. F. C. loans, the depositors were worse off than if no loans had been obtained, for R. F. C. had become a preferred creditor.

Only where a bank borrowed enough from the R. F. C. to cover all its deposits was there assurance that the depositors would be fully protected.

Hope in Michigan Plan.

Now from Detroit comes word of a bank rescue program described as the "Michigan plan." This plan is understood to be simply a Michigan adaptation of the Broderick bill now before the New York state senate. Other state legislatures are also considering this plan and the senate and house banking committees in Washington are said to be preparing legislation along similar lines to extend the idea to national banks. The resolution introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] fits into this program.

The central idea in both the New York and Michigan legislation is to give the state banking commissioner the power to permit the reorganization of a bank without closing it and throwing it into receivership.

The plan is to give the commissioner the authority to "freeze" whatever proportion of the deposits he finds necessary to cover slow assets.

Depositor Keeps Position.

The position of the depositor with respect to other interests in the bank is not altered. His claims all remain ahead of the stockholders' claims.

Depositors would be permitted to withdraw freely their old deposits up to the amount specified by the state banking commissioner. New deposits, made subsequent to the "freezing" operation, would not be restricted in any way.

For that part of his deposits which was temporarily withheld the depositor would receive certificates, which would have something of the nature of preferred stock with voting privileges and paying cumulative dividends. The certificates would have to be retired in their entirety before anything could be paid on the common stock.

Bankers throughout the country are reported to be enthusiastic about this plan.

"The thing I like about it," says one banker, "is that it stands each institution on its own base. Each would be in a position to work out its own troubles to a large extent.

Helps Bank and Depositor.

"Instead of being closed by depositors a bank could continue serving them and the community. The depositors would be money ahead, because liquidation of assets by a going concern is much less expensive than liquidation by receivers.

"There is also this to consider. When there is a lot of distress selling in the securities markets it is almost impossible to get a fair price for investments. This pressure, I believe, would be largely removed."

The Reconstruction Finance corporation reported yesterday that to date it had made cash advances to banks totaling $894,047,350.

Asks National Banks Line Up in Emergency

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The controller of the currency, under a resolution introduced today by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] would be given power to require national banks in the various states to conform to emergency regulations imposed on state banks by state enactment. The authority would extend until March 3, 1934.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS.

The Michigan senator will ask the senate banking and currency committee, to which the resolution was referred, to take early action, giving the measure initial consideration possibly tomorrow. Federal reserve officials are said to favor the proposal.

Michigan Plan Outlined.

In Michigan, where a statewide banking moratorium is in effect, it is proposed to make a proportionate distribution of liquid assets, freezing the remainder of the interests of the depositors in an amount equaling the total of the congealed assets of the individual banks. Against this latter interest, certificates of participation would be issued to each depositor, to be realized upon as and when the frozen credits are liquidated.

The Couzens resolution states specifically that nothing proposed in it may be construed as broadening the branch banking powers of national banks under existing law.

Powers Are Explained.

The resolution, in part, reads as follows:

"With the approval of the secretary of the treasury, the controller of the currency shall have and may exercise to such extent as he deems advisable with respect to national banking associations, any powers possessed by the state officials having supervision of state banks, saving banks, and/or trust companies, in the state in which such state institutions under state laws now in force or hereafter enacted."

Offering of Treasury Bills Oversubscribed Two Times

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Secretary Mills announced tonight that subscriptions totaling $123,929,000 were received for the offering of $60,000,000 of 90 day treasury bills dated Feb. 23. The highest bid made was 99.960, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.16 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.850, equivalent to an interest rate of about 0.60 per cent.

BANKS ADVANCE RATES ON BEST NOTES ¼ OF 1%

Four Rate Increases in Three Weeks.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Prices of bankers' acceptances—one of the most important types of commercial paper used in modern commerce—were advanced ¼ of one per cent in two rises of ⅛ each yesterday, making the fourth increase of this amount within three weeks. This advance was attributed by money market authorities to an increase in the supply of this paper on the market and a decrease in the demand.

Prime bankers' acceptances are one of the highest types of securities, being rated by bankers generally as ranking next to government securities. They are a form of paper issued to furnish a medium for financing the transportation or storage of readily marketable commodities.

Issued on Goods in Transit.

Acceptances are issued against wheat, corn, cotton, or other farm products which have a ready market. Or they may be issued against frozen fish in transit from Norway to the United States, or against canned peas and fruit going from California to England and France.

Prime acceptances are readily marketable for three reasons: First, they are issued against a commodity having ready sale; second, they bear the guarantee of a first class business organization and third, they bear the stamp of an important bank guaranteeing their payment. Because of these reasons they are eligible for purchase by the Federal Reserve banks.

Banks Hold Much of Them.

The reason for the increase of acceptances on the market arose in the following manner. The Federal Reserve banks possess around $500,000,000 in excess reserves. In recent months around $300,000,000 of this amount has been on deposit with the New York Reserve bank. Then this amount began to flow to the interior reserve banks, until about three weeks ago the New York Reserve bank held about $100,000,000. There were a number of reasons for the shift of funds to the interior reserve banks, one of which was the reduction of the New York rate on balances to ¼ per cent while interior banks paid ½ per cent.

During this time the five major dealers in bankers acceptances had around $12,000,000 of this paper in their portfolios. Then as the New York Reserve bank's excess funds began to shift to the interior banks, the member banks of the New York Reserve found it necessary to increase their own reserves. To do this they sold acceptances from their portfolios. The result was to increase the available acceptances on the market which last week touched a total around $50,000,000.

Make Bills More Attractive.

In order to make acceptances more attractive to investors and thereby move the large amount in their portfolios, the large dealers increased the bid price three times. Yesterday's advance of ¼ now makes the bid price for 30-60-90 day acceptances ⅝ of 1 per cent discount, the 120 day bills at ⅞ of 1 per cent discount, and 5 and 6 month bills at ¼ per cent discount.

In the meantime, in order to keep too many acceptances from going on the market, which would have still further increased the discount rates, the New York Federal Reserve bank went into the market on a large scale and took a large amount of acceptances from the New York member banks. This action still further helped to increase the reserves of the New York member banks, following the shift of excess reserve funds to the interior reserve banks.

Calls Debtor Who Won't Pay Menace to Thrifty Creditor

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Declaring that mortgagors who will not meet their obligations constitute a more alarming problem in those who cannot, Morton Bodfish, member of the Federal Home Loan bank board, tonight appealed for consideration for those "thrifty citizens whose savings were invested in home mortgage credits.

MORTON BODFISH. [Kaufmann & Fabry Photo.]

Addressing the midwinter conference of the American Savings Building and Loan institute, Mr. Bodfish said that the business depression is "now at a stage where it must be 'gripped' and handled vigorously by the soundly managed and courageous financial institutions in cooperation with governmental instrumentalities."

Ridicules Extremists' Views.

"It is ridiculous," he said, "that so many of those responsible for the trade and commerce of our country either must blatantly bellow that 'prosperity's just around the corner' or else completely lose their courage as to the future of their businesses, their communities and our American institutions."

Half the homes in America today he asserted, are owned clear and free of debt, and the individual who owns his home clear is almost "depression proof."

Discussing the moratorium movement, Mr. Bodfish said that "the mortgagor without income" is entitled to and is receiving "every fair and proper aid and consideration."

"The alarming problem which faces the home financing institutions of the country today," he declared, "is the man who can pay, but who has lost faith in the country and its institutions and is using the distress of his neighbor as a reason to avoid his contractual obligations.

Small Lenders Furnish Money.

"The mortgage money of the nation—that is, that invested in home mortgages—is not furnished by the rich and bloated money lender, the capitalist, the large landlord, the commercial banks or the government; it is furnished by the thousands of humble citizens who have placed their savings in the thrift institutions. The two million home mortgages that you have made on a long term monthly repayment plan without maturity date, were made possible by over ten million people who placed their savings in your institutions.

"We all regret the fal of wages and prices, but does it follow that the individual who has purchased and owned and enjoyed through borrowing should not pay his debts, if he has some earning capacity? Possibly social justice and economic stability can best be obtained by carrying out contracts made."

Foreign Trade Lower; U. S. Still Profits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Although merchandise exports from the United States in January declined more than did imports, compared with the December figures, this country still enjoyed a favorable balance of trade amounting to about $24,000,000. Exports totaled about $120,000,000 last month, compared with $131,798,000 in December, a decline of $11,798,000, while imports aggregated around $96,000,000, compared with $97,085,000, a decline of $1,085,000. The preliminary figures were made public today by the commerce department.

While both exports and imports were sharply lower than a year ago, the trade balance of the United States was more favorable last month than in January, 1932. Exports last month were about $30,000,000 below the total of $150,022,000 a year before, but imports also were down about $39,500,000 from the $135,520,000 total of January, 1932. Therefore, our favorable balance last month was about $9,500,000 larger than a year ago.

The decline in both exports and imports last month was in line with the seasonal trend in the last few years, the commerce department said.

Reduced shipments of raw cotton accounted for practically all of the month's decline in exports, being valued at $29,000,000 for January, as against $39,000,000 in the previous month.

In the movement of gold to and from the United States this country continued to gain with an excess of imports over exports amounting in January to $128,465,000. Imports of the metal amounted to $128,465,000, as against exports of $14,000. In December imports reached $100,872,000 and exports $13,000.

LEADING EXCHANGES TO CLOSE TOMORROW

In commemoration of Washington's birthday, the leading stock and commodity exchanges throughout the country will be closed tomorrow. These will include the New York and Chicago stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade. All banks will also observe the anniversary birthday which is a legal holiday. Live stock markets, however, will be open, as will the Canadian and all foreign exchanges.

TOTAL LOANS OF R. F. C. NEAR TWO BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation has now loaned in actual cash slightly more than 47 per cent of its total resources.

Cash advances by the federal credit agency since its organization on Feb. 2, 1932, total $1,788,666,009, according to figures made public today. During the month of January alone the figures showed disbursements in cash amounted to $128,395,294.

But although cash disbursements have not yet reached the half way mark on the corporation's 3 billion 800 million dollar resources, loan authorizations approved by the board of directors to date exceed 52 per cent of the assets. These authorizations include, of course, the cash disbursements, as well as amounts committed by the federal agency but never collected by the borrower.

Loans authorized to date total $2,088,059,277, the figures showed, of

L. D. Karcher Is Named State Blue Sky Chief

Leonard D. Karcher, who for the last four years has been attorney for the Investors' Protective bureau, has been selected by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes as state blue sky commissioner, it was learned last night.

L. D. KARCHER.

Karcher will take charge of the Chicago office of the blue sky commission today. Rupert Bippus, holdover from the former Republican administration, is expected to retain his position as commissioner for a few weeks until legislation now pending at Springfield has been taken care of because he has been working in cooperation with the secretary of state.

Karcher is understood to have accepted the blue sky job on the understanding that he would be entirely free from political interference. He is a graduate of Williams college and Northwestern university law school.

Prior to his connection with the Investors' Protective bureau he had practiced law and had been vice president of Cochran & McCluer. During the war he served as a captain with the 332d field artillery and in the office of the provost marshal general of the A. E. F.

PUBLIC SERVICE OF ILLINOIS NETS $5.70 A SHARE

Insull Jr. Retires as Executive.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, the third of the big Chicago utility companies to issue annual reports, earned its common stock dividend by a comfortable margin, according to the statement released yesterday.

Net income for 1932 was $4,648,947, equivalent to $5.70 a share on the outstanding common stock after provision for the dividends on the two classes of preferred stock. The current dividend rate on the common stock is $3 annually.

The Insull management had reported net income of $7,589,784 or $10.58 a share on common for 1931. These figures have been revised by the new management. The 1931 net income, the 1932 report states, was equivalent to $8.21 a share on the common stock. This indicates total 1931 net income, under the revised accounting system, of approximately $6,253,000, a differ-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—In the most disorganized bond market witnessed in several months United States government securities broke sharply today to new lows for the year. Pounded by heavy offerings, prices of both Liberty and Treasury issues declined a point or more. There was a sympathetic recession in prices of domestic corporate bonds, as well as in foreign issues.

The specter of tighter money, an appalling one to those holders of governments who have accumulated large profits on the rising market of 1932, brought substantial selling into the market. The country's banking difficulties helped dislodge liquidation far and wide.

New Notes Under Par.

The five year 2¾ per cent notes dated Feb. 1, which rose to a premium of more than a point subsequent to their sale, today dropped to a discount of about 6-32 on the bid side. This is the first treasury issue in the intermediate maturity class to sell at a discount from par since this mode of financing was adopted by Secretary Mills. This same issue was oversubscribed more than thirty times upon offering.

Liberty 3½s and fourth 4¼s, issues accustomed to sell almost purely on a money basis, suffered losses of about a point each, illustrating the chaotic condition of the market. Other short term treasury issues dropped sharply.

Other Issues Decline.

Other bonds, no less than governments, were liquidated in heavy volume. Rail issues dropped from 1 to 4 points, while German issues led the foreign list on a sharp slump.

Declaration by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad that the refunding plan is now operative did not stem the wave of selling either in rails or in other corporation liens. B. & O. issues were down several points.

Other rail bonds to decline sharply included Chesapeake corporation 5s, Chicago Great Western 4s, Cleveland Uflion Terminal 5½s, Illinois Central 5½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central convertible debenture 6s, Pere Marquette 5s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and others.

The decline in German bonds was pronounced in the Dawes and Young plan issues, which were off more than 2 points each.

National Steel.

I am interested in National Steel corporation common and would like to get information.—B. S. S.

National Steel corporation is the sixth largest domestic steel producer and second most important tinplate producer. Its most important outlet is the automobile trade, followed closely by building, electric refrigerator, steel furniture, and railroad equipment industries. The manufacture of tinplate has been important in helping maintain operations on a favorable basis.

It is one of the few steel companies to report a profit in 1932. This was due to low production costs obtained by the completion in 1931 of a thorough plant modernization program, locations of plants favorable to its major customers, the automobile industry in Detroit, an ability to obtain more than its share of available business, and stability of profits in the tinplate branch.

Net profit of $354,000, or 16 cents per share, in the fourth quarter of 1932, enabled the company to report earnings of $1,663,000, or 77 cents per common share, for the full 1932 year. This exceeded dividends of 75 cents paid during the year.

Net income for 1931 was $4,443,000, or $2.06 per share, against net of $8,316,000, or $3.91 per share, for 1930. Earnings of predecessors for 1929 totaled $11,776,000.

Cash on hand on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $6,200,000. Ratio of current assets to current liabilities was 9.4 to 1, against 4.7 to 1 the year before. On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $35,345,000 and current liabilities were $7,460,000. Long term debt totaled $43,033,000.

There is outstanding only one class of stock, 2,156,832 shares of no par common. On Sept. 30, 1932, the quarterly dividend rate was reduced from 25 cents to 12½ cents a share.

The stock is medium grade.

VOTE FOR REPEAL CHEERS TRADERS, BUT STOCKS SAG

Good News Is Outweighed by Government Troubles

BY FRED HARVEY,
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—Excepting for a handfull of stocks in line for direct benefits the house vote on repeal proved a 100 per cent dud as a share market factor today. For all the price gyrations on the big board showed, the "momentous" news was completely ignored in Wall street.

The selling which had been carrying the list to steadily lower levels throughout the morning went on unchecked to the end, and closing prices generally were about the lowest of the day. The net losses ranged from 1 to 3 points or so.

Up to the time the repeal vote was announced many self-styled friends of the market had looked forward to the event as a sure-fire signal for a rally of some pretensions. Everybody had been agreeing that repeal was the one thing needful to get business back on its feet, and since the market's future depends so completely on business it was difficult for these optimistic logicians to see how the effect could be anything but "bullish."

Interest in Vote Keen.

That speculative interest in the matter was keen was shown by the fact that traders in customers' rooms of commission houses and brokers alike spent the better part of the early afternoon hanging over the news tickers, watching bulletins on the "trend" at Washington to the neglect of the market. This made for a decided lull in trading, especially during the fourth hour when tickers came to a standstill for seconds at a time for want of business. The flash of the vote was greeted by a round of shoulder shrugging and a chorus of "Well, that's that," whereupon all hands returned to the task of getting rid of some more of their holdings at new bargain rate prices.

It was all very disappointing. Commentators attempting to find an explanation that would pass muster have opined that speculative sentiment had been too sadly depressed by the bearish developments of the last week to look on the bright side of things for the time being, no matter what the incentive. Anyhow, they thought traders have come to realize that fundamental economic conditions cannot be corrected overnight at this late date merely by repealing a constitutional amendment, if so many other obstacles, like budgetary reform, high taxes, debts, and the like, are to be left in the way.

Liquor Stocks Rise, Fall.

Liquor stocks, however, showed their appreciation by rising against the trend rather briskly for a few minutes. National Distillers advanced about 2 points, but lost most of its gain before the close. Crown Cork, Owens Glass, and the others likewise spurted, but they too found the drag of the general market beyond them, and most of them finished with their gains erased by net losses.

Other groups generally drifted down together.

American Can tumbled 4 points in obeisance to its poor earnings report but later recovered a quarter of its loss. Homestake Mining flopped 4¾. American Telephone was once more driven below par but as usual rebounded to the 100 mark again in time to get into the overnight record.

PUBLIC SERVICE OF NO. ILLINOIS NETS $5.70 SHARE

The report announces that Samuel Insull Jr. has quit as an executive officer of the company and has been named assistant to James Simpson, chairman. Young Insull relinquishes the positions of vice chairman, director and member of the finance committee. His retirement from similar positions with Commonwealth Edison company and Peoples Gas was announced recently.

In a foreword to the report, Chairman Simpson stresses the fundamental character of the changes which have been made by the new management. As in the case of the Edison company the Public Service company is gradually eliminating its outside investments and restricting its business so far as possible to utility services.

This means that the company is divesting itself of its investments in suburban real estate and electric transportation fields. It has also abandoned the Insull custom of conducting open market operations in its own stock under the guise of expanding customer ownership.

Urge Smaller Board.

Mr. Simpson urges stockholders to support of the proposal of the management reducing the board of directors from 18 to 9 members. The proposal will be submitted to shareholders at the annual meeting next Monday. Under this plan all executives of the company except the chairman and the president will be eliminated from the board.

The drastic surplus adjustments made as a result of the special audit of the company's books by Arthur Andersen & Co. are reflected in the report. Surplus balance at the close of 1932 was $1,611,288, against $18,419,513 "books" surplus shown at the close of the preceding year.

Britton I. Budd, president, estimates that the rate reductions made by the company in the last three years cut earnings by about $4 a share on the basis of the stock outstanding at the end of 1932.

BIG SUPPLIES OF LIVE STOCK BREAK PRICES

Cattle and Lambs Lose More than Hogs.

Cattle and lamb markets were under pressure of larger receipts at the stockyards yesterday. They dropped abruptly in value. Hogs made a feeble attempt to buck the generally lower trend in live stock by moving a shade higher on opening rounds, but this strength was short lived.

Support of the mild upturn, which amounted to only 5 to 10 cents at most, was found to be rather flimsy. Buyers soon discovered that the general market was actually soft and lost no time in paring down costs of swine droves, too. Reductions of 5 to 10 cents from last week's closing quotations were made in stock exceeding 250 pounds in weight. The scant supply of selected light and light butchers cashed mostly at the slight advance early in the day.

Pork Loins Decline.

A sluggish wholesale trade for pork, where loins dropped back to the lowest point of the winter despite light supplies, explained the bearish attitude of the larger packing houses. This caused considerable uneasiness among those who refused to release their holdings when the market weakened. On the early bulge top selected light hogs averaging 180 to 210 pounds reached the $3.70 top, which stood 10 cents above Saturday and equal to last Friday's top. The general average for the day at $3.45 was steady with Saturday, but 5 cents lower than last Friday. The range of prices was near the widest point of the winter.

Recent Cattle Advance Erased.

A selling wave swept cattle prices back toward the twenty-six year lows established last month and quickly rubbed out the meager price gains that were so laboriously stacked up in the final sessions of last week.

Receipts for the day tallied 16,000 head, the largest run since Dec. 12. General declines of 15 to 25 cents were recorded in most classes, although a few choice yearlings held steady at the start. Butcher stock got poor action at unevenly lower prices.

Calves declined 25 cents more, selling $4.00 to $4.50 under the recent high point. Choice 1,117 pound long yearling steers topped the market at $6.90. The bulk of offerings of beef merit sold at $4.00 to $5.50. Most of the heavy fat cows sold at $2.50 to $2.75, with light cows on the heifer order at $3.00 to $3.25. Fancy yearling heifers were quoted at $4.75 to $5.50.

30,000 Lambs Arrive.

Weighted down with 30,000 lambs, the market made slow progress in the sheep house on a fully 25 cents lower price level. Receipts were largest since Oct. 31 and compared with an average of 19,700 for the last six Mondays and with 14,900 for the preceding six Mondays. Bulk of 85 to 95 pound averages sold yesterday at $5.50, with $5.60 to $5.65 paid by outsiders.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 23,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 6,285 cattle, 22,247 hogs, and 17,126 sheep for the previous Tuesday, and 7,955 cattle, 27,178 hogs, and 10,275 sheep a year ago.

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Fairly active buying carried butter and egg futures forward on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing ½ to 3 cents, and eggs ¼ to ½ cent higher. New buying and covering appeared in butter futures, holding the market higher despite fairly broad profit taking and new selling. Prospects of colder weather, and favorable movement of stocks out of storage produced the better buying. Receipts of eggs were moderate and the four markets reported a slight net outward movement of stocks. March storage packed firsts opened trading for the year at 13½ cents. Sales: butter, 65 cars; eggs, 29 cars. Deliveries: butter, 8 cars; eggs, 7 cars. Prices follow:
